TAFT SENDS NEGROES OUT OF SAN ANTONIO

Troopers of Ninth Cavalry Have Resisted Enforcement of "Jim Crow" Law on Cars.

CONDUCTORS BADLY BEATEN

Regiment Will Be Sent on Patrol in the Desert Where Men Cannot Visit Towns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—President Taft to-day decided upon the prompt removal of the negro Ninth Cavalry from the division camp at San Antonio in order to avert the possibility of a repetition of the affair of the Twenty-fifth Infantry at Brownsville in 1906.

Representative Garner of Texas laid before Mr. Taft the details of recent disturbances caused by troopers of the Ninth Cavalry, who resented the efforts of street car conductors to enforce the regulations of the City Council and require them to sit in seats in street cars provided for negroes. All the street cars in San Antonio are of the "Jim Crow" type, and the colored soldiers have several times torn down the signs in the cars designating seats for white and colored passengers. When remonstrated with, in two instances they have set upon conductors and beaten them severely. The disturbances became so aggravated that the Mayor of San Antonio went to Major Macomb, who commands the regiment, laid the facts before him, and demanded that the colored troopers be required to obey the laws so long as they remained in the city.

Major Macomb admitted the seriousness of the matter, and said that it was his purpose so far as he was able to compel his men to behave themselves. When men went into the town on pass and filled up on liquor and seized on a pretext for trouble, however, he declared it was impossible to prevent rows such as were complained of by the city authorities.

The President, after hearing the complaints, sent for Major Gen. Wood, Chief of Staff, and directed that orders issue to relieve the Ninth from further service in the divisional brigade of cavalry at San Antonio, and send the regiment to duty patrolling the Mexican border as far out in the desert as possible and necessarily away from cities and towns where they might have opportunity to make trouble with the citizens of the country.

Mr. Garner told the President that he intended to introduce this session a bill repealing the law of 1872 providing for the organization of four regiments of colored troops in the army, two of cavalry and two of infantry, and so give the President authority to disband any colored regiment that made itself liable to discipline by disorderly and violent conduct. The President expressed satisfaction at the suggestion and joined in the belief that such action by Congress would at least have a wholesome moral effect upon the colored soldiers and serve to make them observe the laws of the sections where they may be sent on duty. President Taft was Secretary of War when the trouble at Brownsville occurred, and he has no intention to allow any such lawlessness to happen again.

SAN ANTONIO CAMP FLOODED.

Tents Blown Down in Fierce Rainstorm and Cloudburst.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 3.—San Antonio's city of tents, where live the soldiers comprising the division of regulars under Gen. Carter, is the most uninviting spot in the Southwest to-night. Last night and most of to-day a heavy rain fell. And to-night the great mobilization camp is so deep in sticky black adobe mud that locomotion by man or beast is almost impossible. To-night the rain is falling in torrents and a terrific electrical storm is raging, and stampedes among the thousands of horses and mules in the army corrals are feared by the officers. Cavalrymen, artillerymen, and teamsters are on guard in the mud, which is over a foot deep and getting deeper every minute, to keep the animals as quiet as possible.

In the big Sibley tents the men are almost as unhappy as the horses and mules. The little trenches they have dug around their tents to keep the water out could not do that if they were big as irrigation ditches, so great is the volume of rain that is drenching San Antonio to-night.

Tents Fall in the Storm.

Every precaution has been taken by the brigade and regimental commanders to protect the men and animals. No officers or men can get out of the camp on account of the mud, lightning, and rain, and for the same reason those who are in the city on leave cannot get back. Despite the precautions taken many tents fell in the storm, but so far as can be learned none of the soldiers in them was injured.

As a result of the onslaught of rain and electricity, nothing whatever in the line of military exercises was attempted to-day, and it is safe to say that not over a dozen people visited the camp. Men who have lived in San Antonio over fifty years declare that never in all that time has this part of the country had so much rain as since the soldiers came four weeks ago.

"San Antonio is a fine camping place when the sun shines, but when it rains—well, you remember what Sherman said about war," an officer of the General Staff remarked to-day as he took in the panorama of the rain-soaked tents.

Charging for Water for Troops.

It became known to-day that the Southern Pacific Railroad had put in a bill charging the Government for the water that the soldiers of Company K, Twenty-third United States Infantry, are using for drinking and cooking purposes at Pecos High Bridge, this State. This is said to be the highest railroad bridge in the United States and is near the border. Two weeks ago the railroad asked for protection for the bridge, saying that if it was destroyed it would take them a year to replace it.

Brig. Gen. Duncan, commanding the Department of Texas, thereupon ordered Company K to proceed to the bridge from Fort Clarke, several hundred miles this side of it, and guard the bridge until further orders. The men were ordered out in such a hurry that they did not have time to take any tentage, but the little tents of the shelter type, just big enough for two men to crawl under. Arriving at Pecos Bridge the company was divided, one-half going into camp at one end and the other half at the other end of the bridge. At one end of the bridge is a water tank owned by the Southern Pacific, the water being pumped into it from the stream at the bottom of the canyon 300 feet below.

No Wood for Fuel.

There is no wood at Pecos Bridge, and pending the arrival of fuel from Fort Clarke the men walked the railroad tracks

CORRAL TO LEAVE MEXICO.

Vice President Asks Leave for an Indefinite Trip Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, April 3.—Vice President Ramon Corral presented a request to-day to the Chamber of Deputies for leave of absence to take a trip to Europe for such time as the condition of his health might demand. The request has not been taken up yet.

Teodoro Dehesa and Emilio Pimentel, the Governors of the States of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca, respectively, are being discussed for the Ministry of the Interior, left vacant by Señor Corral's resignation. Gov. Pimentel arrived here this morning, and Gov. Dehesa is coming on Wednesday.

Diplomats here refuse to give interviews on the situation for the evident reason that they are not sure of it.

Without question the greater part of the people here expect peace as the result of President Diaz's message. There is much guessing, however, as to the manner in which the difficulties will be overcome. Croakers think that the many difficulties are insurmountable, but the masses are of an opinion that a way will be found.

The Maderists here seem willing to abide by the new programme of reforms, provided the recommendations of the message are followed by immediate action. Last night and to-day were perfectly quiet.

EL PASO, Texas, April 3.—All efforts of the Mexican insurrecto leaders here are now bent toward arranging a meeting in this city between Francisco I. Madero, Jr., and others, with representatives of the Mexican Government.

To make this possible, immunity from arrest must be granted Madero by the United States, as a warrant is out for his arrest on a charge of violating the neutrality laws. An agreement to suspend this warrant probably will be made, if Señor Madero desires to come to El Paso. The next step will be to procure safe transportation for Madero to El Paso from the Mexican Government. It is known that such a proposal has been made.

Gonzales Garza, insurrecto Secretary of State, called several times on Madero's father and brother to-day, and relations between them appeared perfectly cordial, although Garza declared several days ago that "these men have no right to speak for the insurrecto party."

MORGAN BUYS LOST RELIC?

La Liberte Says London Dealer Sold Him Head of St. Martin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 3.—La Liberte makes the statement that the missing reliquary representing the head of St. Martin, which was surreptitiously taken from the church at Soudeille-sur-Ussel and sold, being replaced by a clever replica, is now in the possession of J. P. Morgan, who, according to La Liberte, purchased it a month ago from a London dealer.

The article concludes that Mr. Morgan will undoubtedly offer the reliquary to the French Government as soon as he is informed of the facts.

The reliquary referred to, whose loss was reported by our Paris correspondent early in the year, was then said to have gone to America. It is of enameled copper, was exhibited at the Paris Exhibition of 1900, and is classed as an historical relic. The original was said to have been disposed of by the local authorities to raise funds for the church.

KAHN DID NOT BUY 'THE MILL'

New Yorker Says He Is Mystified as to Identity of the Purchaser.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 3.—Otto H. Kahn of New York, who has arrived in Berlin, pleaded not guilty to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-night when told there was a suspicion that the man who paid half a million dollars for a Frans Hals was the mysterious buyer of Rembrandt's "The Mill" from Lord Lansdowne.

Mr. Kahn says that he is completely mystified as to the identity of the buyer now that Frick, Widener, and Altman have entered denials, though he suggests as other possibilities the names of J. Pierpont Morgan and Charles P. Taft.

Mr. Kahn leaves here Thursday for Vienna, to attend next Saturday night's first Viennese production of Richard Strauss's new opera, "Cavalier of the Rose."

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, April 3.—Charles P. Taft says that he does not own "The Mill" and that he does not know who owns it.

YERKES FIGHT GOES ON.

Heirs of Widow to Begin Legal Action for Her Husband's Estate.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Legal action whereby the widow's heirs may get possession of the estate of Charles T. Yerkes, deceased traction magnate of Chicago and London, will be started in Chicago following the death of Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes in New York. Suits will be filed also in an effort to secure the vast sum in bonds, securities and real estate claimed as well as owned by the widow.

James J. Barbour, one of the attorneys who have represented Mrs. Yerkes in the courts of Cook County and in New York, to protect her rights in her husband's estate, said that the legal fight against the Chicago Railways Company and other interests opposed to her demand for payment in full on Union Traction bonds would continue as before.

"The last years of Mrs. Yerkes's life have been disturbed by the actions of false friends," said he. "They have sought to victimize her and force her into litigation to protect her rights, which will be continued long after her death."

Mrs. Yerkes's heirs are understood to include three sisters, Mrs. Harry Sanderson and Mrs. E. Stockton of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Charles Sim of New York, and three brothers, all of Philadelphia.

TAFT TALKS TO MINISTERS.

Says He Can Only Recommend and Then Pray for Results.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—President Taft enlivened the early morning proceedings of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to-day by declaring that he could only do with Congress what ministers hope to do with their congregations, make his recommendations and then pray for the best results. The President arose early, motored out to the Douglas Memorial Church, where the conference is being held, and was back in the White House shortly after 9 o'clock.

"Your presiding officer," said the President, "said something of the presence of another body in this capital. It ill becomes me to say anything of what may be expected of an independent branch of the Government. I can make my recommendations and then do as you do in your pulpits—pray for the best results.

"It has been my good fortune," he said, "to know how much the support of militant Methodism contributes to the progress of Government and civilization of the world."

It was decided to-day to hold the next meeting of the conference in the First Methodist Church, Baltimore.

BANKERS PLAN TO AID CARNEGIE DEPOSITORS

WOULD GIVE CUMMINS A SHOW

Supt. Cheney and Depositors Themselves Must Approve Plan—More Light on Loaning City Deposits.

Small depositors of the closed Carnegie Trust Company stand a good chance of being paid in full at an early date, provided plans now under consideration by several banks in the Clearing House go through.

Since it became known several days ago that the preliminary offer of $5,000,000 by the Assets Realization Company to take over the assets of the Carnegie Trust Company and pay off depositors at about 65 cents on the dollar had been turned down by the State Banking Department, half a dozen bank Presidents have been at work on a plan which would not only insure full payment of all small Carnegie Trust depositors but would enable William J. Cummins and his associates to rehabilitate their various properties to such an extent that the slow assets of the trust company would double in value.

Although the plans are nearing completion, State Banking Superintendent Cheney has not been approached, and the bankers interested will not allow the use of their names at present. It was learned on good authority yesterday, however, that these bankers are now endeavoring to persuade the seventeen banks and trust companies which loaned large sums to the Cummins syndicate on collateral composed of stock in the various Cummins concerns, to suspend all litigation against Cummins and his associates and to release the Carnegie Trust temporarily from immediate settlement. The bankers are also endeavoring, it is said, to persuade all the large Carnegie Trust depositors to waive their claims temporarily and allow all depositors whose claims are below $10,000 to be paid in full.

There are only about seventy Carnegie Trust depositors whose deposits are in excess of $10,000. The City of New York is the largest of these, its deposit being $650,000. With all small depositors paid, the comparatively few large depositors could wait until the slow assets could be realized on, if not at a profit, at least at less loss than would occur should the Cummins securities be dumped on the market at present. Also there might be less demand for an unsettling public investigation of banks and trust companies generally by the Legislature.

Each of the bankers interested has made an investigation of the various Cummins concerns and has determined that much of the collateral held by the Carnegie Trust and listed as slow assets is worth at least 75 cents on the dollar.

Although Banking Superintendent Cheney refused yesterday to discuss the matter, his friends said he would probably acquiesce in any plan which would insure the payment in full to small depositors and would give the large depositors a reasonable assurance of receiving a large percentage on their claims. The plan, of course, would have to be submitted not only to the Superintendent of Banking but to the Carnegie Trust Company depositors themselves.

In case the proposed plan miscarries the State Banking Department will declare a dividend to depositors on or shortly after April 15. Such a dividend would not likely exceed 20 cents on the dollar.

It was learned yesterday at the State Banking Department that Supt. Cheney has not received as yet an official request from Gov. Dix to make a full report on the State Banking Department's relations with the Carnegie Trust, the Northern Bank, and the Washington Savings Bank. When such a request reaches the Banking Superintendent he will forward a report to Gov. Dix at once.

Friends of Mr. Cheney said yesterday that an effort might be made to contest the immediate appointment of a successor. Although dispatches from Albany said that Gov. Dix expected Supt. Cheney to retire on April 19, friends said that he had still another year to serve.

In the absence of District Attorney Whitman yesterday his assistant, John K. Clark, appeared before the Grand Jury and continued the investigation into the manner in which large city deposits were obtained by several of the banks and trust companies, which loaned money to Cummins and his associates.

Dominick Abbattee, a real estate dealer and Director in the Savoy Trust Company, was a witness. Joseph G. Robin was also before the Grand Jury for an hour or more. Mr. Abbattee was a member of the Executive Committee of the Savoy Trust at the time that institution loaned $50,000 to the Cummins syndicate on the day following the receipt of $50,000 city deposit from City Chamberlain Hyde. Mr. Abbattee had admitted previously to the investigators that the loan to the Cummins syndicate was contingent upon the receipt of a similar deposit, and that, while he and his fellow-members of the Savoy Executive Committee did not know that the deposit was to be city cash, they were not surprised when it came from the City Chamberlain.

The investigators were also informed yesterday that when Cummins was questioned by a certain banker as to why he did not borrow the money direct, which he promised other institutions as deposits, Cummins's reply was that the money was not the kind that could be loaned; that it had to be deposited.

The official investigators also received corroboration of the story told by William E. Holloway and others that Cummins's greatest asset while he was borrowing heavily from seventeen banks and trust companies was his friendship with City Chamberlain Hyde and his boasted ability to swing city deposits.

Robin informed the investigators yesterday that there was a well-grounded belief in banking circles that Cummins could swing city deposits to whatever institutions would lend him the money, and that there was rarely a question of Cummins's ability to do what he boasted.

To-day the Grand Jury will take up the Hungarian-American Bank loans again and go more fully into the manner in which city deposits were obtained there after Cummins had assured the officials of the bank that he could get them city deposits provided the bank would lend the money to himself and friends at 6 per cent. District Attorney Whitman is expected back to-day from Boston, and will resume charge of the banking inquiry before the Grand Jury.

HOLD-UP YARN TO QUIET WIFE

Yonkers Man Told Thrilling Story to Save Himself from Her Wrath.

Herman Webber admitted to the Yonkers police last night that the story he related about being held up and robbed by four men and four women was a hoax, and that he told it to excuse his failure to keep an engagement to go shopping with his wife, of whose wrath he was afraid.

When Webber reported the imaginary hold-up at a Yonkers police station early in the day he had a black eye, and his face was otherwise battered. In order to make his wife believe his yarn was not a fake he had notified the police.

MANN MADE LEADER OF HOUSE MINORITY

Caucus Empowers Him to Name All Republican Committeemen Despite Insurgent Protest.

DEMAND OF SENATE REBELS

They Will Insist on a Fourth of the Republican Committee Places—Curtis Wants Closure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Republicans of both houses took up matters of organization to-day and to-night. In the House caucus James R. Mann was chosen as the minority candidate for Speaker and floor leader. There was much criticism of the Democratic majority for increasing its committee members without giving more places to the minority. The plan of the insurgents to follow the Democratic method and choose the minority committeemen through a Committee on Committees was voted down and Mr. Mann was authorized to name the Republican members.

On the Senate side the insurgent Republicans decided to demand a fourth of the majority committee places, which would give them strong representation on important committees.

Twenty-six of the forty-one insurgent members, who had held a conference in the afternoon, were present at the Republican House caucus. Fifteen regulars were absent. Mr. Kendall of Iowa, an insurgent, was chosen Secretary of the caucus. Ex-Speaker Cannon made a characteristic speech, denouncing the action of the Democrats in seizing so large a proportion of the committee places, and nominated Mr. Mann of Illinois for the Speakership. He was unanimously chosen. Mr. Madison of Kansas, an insurgent, and Mr. Catlin of Missouri, a new member, escorted him to the chair. Mr. Mann also protested against the action of the Democrats in increasing the majority side of fifteen committees without giving the Republicans any part of the increase, and demanding that these committees be increased from twenty-one to twenty-two members, so that one more Republican member could be placed on the minority side.

Long Debate on Committees.

Mr. Olmsted of Pennsylvania offered a resolution providing that Mr. Mann should name the minority members of committees. Mr. Roberts of Massachusetts proposed that the whole matter be passed over to the Democratic Committee on Committees.

Mr. Good of Iowa, an insurgent, offered a resolution to have a committee of seven, with Mr. Mann at the head of it, appoint committeemen. Mr. Gardner of Massachusetts moved that the four minority members of the Committee on Rules be named by the caucus and the members of other committees be named by Mr. Mann.

Speaker Cannon was one of those who strongly advocated the selection of the minority committee members by the Republican floor leader. In a characteristic speech to the caucus he reviewed his own eight years as Speaker and pointed out the satisfactory results which he believed had been obtained by placing upon one man the responsibility. He expressed belief that better assignments would be made by this method.

Mr. Madison of Kansas, who had been a prominent figure at the afternoon meeting of the insurgents, strongly advocated the plan of having a Committee on Committees. He said it was the only proposition that he could consistently support, as the legislative body of his State had declared in favor of it.

The debate continued for two hours and a half, and then the Olmsted motion was adopted.

Demand of Insurgent Senators.

The conference of insurgent Senators was attended by Messrs. Works of California, Gronna of North Dakota, Cummins of Iowa, La Follette of Wisconsin, Borah of Idaho, Bristow of Kansas, Clapp of Minnesota, Crawford of South Dakota, Dixon of Montana, and Bourne of Oregon. Messrs. Poindexter of Washington and Brown of Nebraska were unable to be present, but were fully represented by Senators who had letters from them stating their position in regard to all questions of policy on which the insurgent element of the Republican majority in the Senate stands.

It was agreed to demand for the insurgents a full and fair representation on committees in the rearrangement that is now under consideration. The basis is to be the ratio of the insurgent membership to the entire number of Republican Senators. This will be one-fourth on a basis of 18 to 36. It is expected that the Iowa Legislature will elect Judge Kenyon, who has been nominated by the Republican caucus of that body, and he will bring the number of insurgent Senators up to thirteen. The conference did not entertain the idea of counting in the ratio those Senators who are insurgent on certain propositions, and are called "near" insurgents. The list of these Senators embraces Messrs. Townsend and William Alden Smith of Michigan, Gamble of South Dakota, Jones of Washington, Burton of Ohio, and Nelson of Minnesota.

The insurgents demand two of the four vacancies on Finance, which now has no insurgent member; one of the three on Inter-State Committee, of which Senators Clapp and Cummins are now members, one of three on Foreign Relations, one of two on Commerce, two of four on Appropriations, on neither of which they now have representation, and one more on Judiciary, of which Senator Borah is now a member.

Senator Curtis of Kansas is preparing to inaugurate a crusade for an amendment of the Senate rules which will permit that body to determine when debate shall cease upon a given subject. He announced to-day that he would introduce a rule to provide for cloture after a subject has been under discussion for five separate calendar days or ten consecutive hours. Any Senator would be recognized to move for the termination of the debate, and if the motion prevailed by a two-thirds majority a vote would be taken after three hours' additional discussion.

"Under the present rules any two or three Senators can hold up a subject indefinitely," said Mr. Curtis in discussing his resolution. "The country sends us here to transact business, and we should provide the way for doing so. Certainly there can be no reasonable complaint of a rule that allows two-thirds of the members a voice on the point of cloture."

Socialists Sweep Butte.

BUTTE, Mont., April 3.—Socialists to-day swept Butte, electing Mayor, City Treasurer, Police Judge, and five out of nine Aldermen. Two years ago the Democrats elected every candidate in Silver Bow County. To-day's turnover followed an exposure of alleged shortage as disclosed by a recent ten-year audit of the city finances.

FINLEY OR HIBBEN TO HEAD PRINCETON

Trustees' Committee Said to Have Eliminated All Other Possible Candidates for Place.

DECISION IS DUE TO-MORROW

Successor to Gov. Wilson Expected to Bring Together All Factions at the University.

The Presidency of Princeton University lies between President John H. Finley of City College and Prof. John Grier Hibben of the Chair of Logic at Princeton, according to sources of information close to members of the Princeton Board of Trustees.

The special committee of the Trustees appointed to nominate a President is expected to reach a decision between the two at a special meeting at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning at Princeton. This committee is composed of John L. Cadwalader of this city, Chairman; Cleveland H. Dodge, the Rev. Dr. Melancthon W. Jacobus of Hartford, Cyrus H. McCormick of Chicago, the Rev. Dr. John Dixon of Trenton, and Moses Taylor Pine. They are among the most prominent members of the Princeton board. They have not the authority to elect a President, but only to make a nomination. Princeton alumni said yesterday, however, that a unanimous recommendation by them would be tantamount to election.

Mr. Cadwalader's committee has been actively looking for a successor to Gov. Woodrow Wilson for six months or more. Many names have been considered and a process of elimination has been going on steadily until a point has now been reached where a considerable list has been narrowed down to the men named, with the chances said to be slightly in favor of Dr. Finley.

Among the names which the committee has considered are President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California and formerly of Cornell, President Harry Augustus Garfield of Williams College and son of President Garfield, President Henry Fairfield Osborn of the American Museum of Natural History, Prof. Henry B. Fine, Princeton, '80, Dean of the Department of Science at Princeton; Dean Andrew F. West of the Princeton Graduate School, Prof. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, and Drs. Finley and Hibben.

Beginning with this group of names before them, it was said yesterday, the committee undertook a process of elimination. When it leaked out that President Wheeler's name was before the committee and an effort was about to be made to sound him as to whether he would be likely to accept, the University of California suddenly raised his salary to $12,000 a year. The Princeton committee decided at once that it could not meet this, and Dr. Wheeler was dropped from further discussion. One after another was taken up, it is said, and the aptitude of each for the work needed immediately at Princeton and the chances of his willingness to come were debated by the committee.

For various reasons every name was dropped until only four were left, and over these the committee has worked for weeks, it was said yesterday, to pick the man Princeton most needs at present. These four are said to have been Dean Fine, Dean West, and Drs. Finley and Hibben.

Some members of the committee expressed the fear that both Dean West and Dean Fine had been too close to the recent controversy at Princeton over the Graduate School to unite the various factions at the university, as the new President is expected, among other things to do, all the various agencies of the university together. Doubt was also expressed as to whether either would accept, and some close to Dean West said he would positively refuse the office, as he wants time to carry out the Graduate School plans. This left only Dr. Finley and Dr. Hibben. The latter has many friends among the Trustees and Faculty, who are said to be supporting him with great earnestness. Prof. Hibben is a Princeton man, class of '82. He has been Professor of Logic since 1893.

It was learned yesterday that one compelling influence had been at work in the committee appointed to nominate a President. This was a desire to bring into leadership at Princeton a man of great tact. The committee is said to have agreed practically that Princeton does not need an educator at this time nearly so much as it needs an administrator of uncommon ability, with sufficient diplomacy to bring together factions at the university.

No one could be found here last night who would venture an opinion as to whether President Finley would go to Princeton if invited to do so, but it was said that he had been approached by friends of the Princeton Trustees, and on their report to the members of the committee he has never been lost sight of as an available man. He is now in France, having been lecturing at the Sorbonne on the early influence of the French on American affairs, as the appointee of the President of Harvard University. He will return next month.

Dr. Finley is in his forty-eighth year. He is not a Princeton man, but was Professor of Politics there from 1900 to 1903, when he became President of the City College. At Princeton he became the warm friend of ex-President Cleveland, and later his biographer. Previous to his connection with Princeton he was Secretary of the State Charities Aid Association of this city, President of Knox College, and editor of Harper's Weekly and McClure's Magazine. He is a Doctor of Philosophy of Johns Hopkins University. The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on him by the University of Wisconsin.

CHILD AVERTS FIRE PANIC.

Boy's Coolness Saves 50 Little Ones from Burning Nursery.

The coolness of an 8-year-old boy saved fifty children, fourteen of them babies, from fire last night in the Eighth Avenue Day Nursery and Baby Shelter at 61 Eighth Avenue, Newark.

The hero is John Savage. He was eating supper with the other children, and was sent to hunt for a boy who was missing. He went into the kindergarten room on the first floor, and saw smoke coming out of the large closet in which kindergarten material is stored. Young Savage was going to yell "Fire!" but he remembered what the teachers told him at the fire drill. So he went quietly back to the dining room, tiptoed his way up to the head of the supper table, where the matron, Mrs. Harriet Trenchard, was sitting, and whispered to her about the fire.

Mrs. Trenchard summoned John Huyler from across the street, and he turned in an alarm. The signal for the fire drill was given, and all of the older children marched out of the building, while Huyler and the nurses carried out the babies.

By the time the firemen arrived all of the little inmates were housed in a pavilion in the rear. There was not a semblance of panic throughout the whole incident. The only thing that disturbed the little folks was the fact that they were hastily taken from their evening meal.

The fire was confined to the kindergarten room and did $200 damage.

Mme. Huett died intestate recently at Paris, France, and each of the heirs will receive a large share of the fortune which the General accumulated in African diamond mines.

CUBA THRIVES, SAYS GOMEZ.

Debt Less, Much Construction, Sugar Crop Large, He Tells Congress.

HAVANA, April 3.—The Cuban Congress reconvened to-day and received the Presidential message, in which President Gomez announces the continuance of peace and order throughout the republic.

During the last two years the public debt has been reduced $3,465,000, and there has been unprecedented activity in the construction of railroads, highways, and public buildings. The sugar crop has been large in spite of the lack of rain, and the sanitary conditions in the island are excellent.

In his message the President points to the fact that the civil service law is now in force, giving assurance of competent civil employes. The present prosperity of the country, says the President, is most gratifying, and the outlook encouraging.

Tells Big Audience There That Their Divorce Colony Is a Disgrace.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., April 3.—Col. Roosevelt to-day addressed an audience of several thousand in Reno. Many of his auditors were Easter divorcees. In true Roosevelt manner he hammered the Nevada divorce colony, declaring that no city or State could long exist by harboring divorce and building up a colony of married people who sought to be rid of their mates. He said that Reno could not thrive by such means.

Divorce laws, continued the Colonel, should be for the residents of the State, not for people from other States. Those seeking to sever these matrimonial ties should be forced to get their divorces at home, or where they entered into their married state.

Col. Roosevelt called the Reno divorce colony a disgrace. After complimenting the people on driving out the gambling evil, he told them that they should go further and rid the State of the divorce evil.

THREATEN A CHILD SLAYER.

Militia Held in Readiness to Protect Prisoner in Minnesota Jail.

Special to The New York Times.

LE SEUER CENTRE, Minn., April 3.—Company H, Second Regiment, M. N. G., may be rushed from Mankato to-night to prevent the possible lynching of Martin O'Malley, convicted of murdering his two stepchildren. The company is awaiting orders from the Governor.

O'Malley is under sentence to be hanged but Gov. Eberhart has not fixed the date.

The cause of lynching rumors is that Le Seuer Centre residents fear that complications resulting from the passage of the law abolishing capital punishment, now before the Legislature, will free O'Malley. The Governor is opposed to capital punishment, and it is said hopes to save O'Malley's life by getting the bill through before naming the day of hanging.

The jail is in such poor repair that a mob of even small size would have little trouble in forcing an entrance.

Gov. Eberhart has been communicating with the authorities of surrounding counties, in the hope of having the prisoner taken to another jail if possible. There is no law to compel a Sheriff of one county to accept a prisoner from another, and sentiment in the vicinity is so overwhelmingly against O'Malley that it is thought other Sheriffs will refuse to attempt to protect him.

Would Imprison for Long Hat Pins.

TRENTON, N. J., April 3.—Assemblyman McGowan of Essex introduced in the Assembly to-night a hatpin bill providing a prison penalty for all women who persist in wearing hatpins that endanger the faces and eyes of others. The bill limits the length of hatpins to one-half inch beyond the hat, excepting when guarded by a safety device. For the first offense a fine of $5 is to be imposed, for the second offense a fine from $25 to $50, and further offenses are to be deemed misdemeanors and punished accordingly.

FOSDICK FINDS GRAFT IN BUILDING BUREAU

Contractors Testify That Inspectors Demanded and Took Bribes for Passing Work.

SAY ONE MAN RECEIVED $500

And Still Has His Job—Builders Regard Practice as Usual—Grafters Being Weeded Out, Says McAneny.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick sent to the Mayor yesterday his report on the results of an investigation of the Bureau of Buildings made at the request of Supt. Miller through his chief, Borough President McAneny. The investigation was under way when the Triangle Waist fire occurred.

The report deals with money alleged to have been paid by contractors to Building Department Inspectors, and Commissioner Fosdick expresses his regret in submitting it that on account of this fact it was extremely difficult to obtain the testimony of builders.

Terry Hinkle, Vice President and Treasurer of the Hinkle Iron Works of 535 West Fifty-sixth Street, one of the contractors willing to testify, told under oath of an offer from Inspector John T. Kennedy to pass defective iron plates in the supporting columns of a building for $500.

"Kennedy said it was worth something to him to keep his mouth shut on this," Hinkle testified, "and I said, 'Well, how much?' He replied, 'It ought to be worth an M, but I'll take a D.' I said, 'What do you mean?' He said, 'Don't you know Roman numerals?' I said I did not. He said an M meant $1,000 and a D meant $500."

"Eugene Hinkle, President of the company, corroborated the Treasurer's testimony." Mr. Fosdick says "Complaint was made to E. F. Murphy, then Superintendent of Buildings, but nothing was done, and Mr. Kennedy is still an Inspector in the Building Department."

In the matter of ironwork on a garage at 150 West Eighty-third Street, Eugene Hinkle produced a bill on the letterhead of the Keystone Construction Company, from which his company held a subcontract. The bill read:

Hinkle Iron Company.
To Iron Inspector on Garage, 150 West Eighty-third Street.....$10.00
Kindly send check so this won't show up on our books and oblige.

The President of the Keystone Construction Company, Mortimer C. Rosenbaum, called on to explain this bill, could not recall the name of the Inspector to whom the money was paid, but recognized the handwriting as that of his Treasurer, Mr. Rothschild. He admitted that payments such as indicated in the bill were occasionally made.

"Our men would say they wanted to put up this thing or that thing temporarily," he testified, "and the Inspector would come around and put up a holler, and then he could stay away for half a day, perhaps, and when he came back everything would be all right. Our men would let it go as expenses on the time sheets."

James Livingston, another contractor, told of paying Kennedy $35 in installments of $25 and $10 for inspection work on a building at 61 West Thirty-sixth Street. The money was paid "for instructions on how to get a violation removed," he testified.

Martin A. Fullam, a masonry Inspector on the same job, asked for and received $25, he declared. "I gave the Inspectors an odd five dollars," Mr. Livingston testified, "just the same as I would give a tip to a bank clerk or anybody else. It is simply an ordinary thing to give a fellow $5 or something like that."

In attempting to have work on an elevator shaft passed by Inspector James Wilson, the Building Superintendent for Wells Brothers' Construction Company, Augustus Luca, testified that he had encountered a demand for $30. The shaft, owing to a strike, had not been completed according to law. Luca testified that after consulting with his superiors he refused to pay the sum demanded.

James Mullin, a contractor at Eighth Avenue and 136th Street, testified only with great hesitation. He admitted that in connection with repairs after a fire at 617 West 130th Street, he had paid money to Inspectors, but would not tell how much, or to whom.

"A little fellow who hasn't been in the building business anywhere near as long as I have," he testified, "comes up and says I have to put in forty pieces of stuff where I know fifteen will be plenty."

"And so you paid him?" Commissioner Fosdick asked.

"Well, I wouldn't deny that, but that is so common."

"So common that you didn't think anything about it?"

"Why should I? I was obliged to do it. Every builder is obliged to do it. I am not a squealer. It took a long time for me to learn it. That is a fact. What are you going to do? They can make you all kinds of bother. They say, 'Give me $10 or $15 and I will help you $150 worth.' If you don't pay me I will make it so hard for you that I will put you out of business.' I have to pay and so does everybody else who succeeds in New York."

Commissioner Fosdick says in conclusion that he appreciates the difficulties of eliminating bribery where a builder wishes to avoid the code and the inspector is willing to "take graft." He advocates closer supervision of the Inspectors and proffers the services of his office to Borough President McAneny in devising a system of supervision.

"Ever since Mr. Miller went into office he has been weeding out the conspicuous incompetents in the force he inherited," Mr. McAneny said last night. "Twelve or fifteen out of a total force of about 100 have been dismissed. On evidence given to Commissioner Fosdick one removal has already occurred, and there are apparently three more whom Mr. Miller can place on trial.

"The theory that matters in the hands of Building Bureau Inspectors can be aided through the use of money has been long established. Through the present rigorous discipline of the department there is less of it than ever before, but it is not an inopportune time to remind both architects and builders that they need not pay for anything to which they are properly entitled, and that if any attempt to extort money is brought to the attention of the Superintendent prompt action will be taken. The weeding out process will be continued, and vacancies will be filled as they are created, from the civil service lists."

300,000 IN FIRE PARADE.

Funerals to be Held Separately by the City—Mayor Inspects Ruins.

Although the city decided to take charge of the funeral on Wednesday of the eight unidentified dead from the Asch Building fire, organized labor, which had planned to hold a funeral procession, will have instead a silent parade on that afternoon. The Central Federated Union, in charge of the parade, announced last night that from 200,000 to 250,000 would be in the downtown section of the parade, and from 100,000 to 150,000 in the uptown section.

Girls from the shirtwaist industry, wearing placards marked "We mourn our loss," visited many factories at the closing hours last night, carrying with them circulars calling on all workers to turn out for the funeral parade.

The two sections, one coming from Rutgers Square and the other from Twenty-second Street and Fourth Avenue, will converge at Washington Square and Fifth Avenue, and then march up Fifth Avenue to Thirty-fifth Street, and back to Union Square. G. J. Curtis will be Grand Marshal. Survivors of the fire will ride in front as the honored guests. Citizens are asked in the call to fall into line with any division they may care to join.

Fire Marshal Beers, although he had practically closed his investigation, was induced to reopen it yesterday at the urgent request of Buildings Superintendent Miller. Mr. Miller wishes to go on record before the Fire Marshal, and a special session of the investigation has been called for 11 o'clock this morning. It is expected that Mr. Miller will tell of the efforts of politicians and others to thwart the work of his bureau. He will be asked, the Fire Marshal said, about fire traps in New York.

Mayor Gaynor spent an hour in the Asch building yesterday in company with Fire Commissioner Waldo. The Mayor was recognized and a big crowd collected. The crowd became so great that the reserves from the Mercer Street Station were called out.

The Mayor and the Commissioner made a close inspection of the eighth, ninth, and tenth floors of the building. They also visited the elevator pit, where several bodies were found, and the Mayor asked many questions of the engineer and the elevator runners.

Assistant District Attorneys Bostwick and Rubin closed their investigation yesterday, and their report will go to the Grand Jury on Wednesday or Thursday.

The special committee on permanent "fire vigilance," authorized at Sunday's mass meeting in the Metropolitan Opera House, was announced yesterday by its Chairman, Eugene A. Philbin. The members will be Edward T. Devine, General Secretary of the Charity Organization Society; Miss Mary E. Drier, President of the Women's Trade Union League; William Jay Schieffelin, President of the People's Union; Lillian D. Wald, head of the Nurses' Settlement, and Peter Brady, Secretary of Allied Printing Trades Council. The committee, at a preliminary meeting yesterday afternoon, decided to co-operate with all other committees seeking efficient fire protection laws, and to make the offices of Mr. Devine in the Charities Building its headquarters.

Commissioner of Charities Drummond, after a lapse of two days in which no identifications had been made, decided yesterday, in conference with Mayor Gaynor, to hold the funeral for the eight remaining unidentified bodies at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. A ninth coffin, enclosing a few charred remains, will also be buried. The procession, consisting merely of nine hearses, will not in any way cross or conflict with the line of march of the labor parade. Burial will be in Evergreens Cemetery.

Commissioner Drummond has asked pastors of several religious faiths to participate in the services at the grave. Those who have accepted include the Rt. Rev. W. J. White of the Brooklyn diocese of the Catholic Church, the Rev. William Morrison of St. Ann's Episcopal Church, and Rabbi J. L. Magnes. Morris Grossman of 242 Broome Street declared to Coroner Holtzhauser yesterday that a necklace and a diamond engagement ring had been taken from the body of Jennie Rosenberg, his niece. When the Coroner informed Grossman that the girl's father had claimed and had received the jewelry and money found upon the body, he became excited, declaring he knew nothing of any father, and that the girl had been cared for by him for six years and had been buried by him.

To THE NEW YORK TIMES the following contributions to the Fire Relief Fund were sent yesterday:

From factory employes of Jonas & Naumburg	$96.80
J. Frankenthal	25.00
Ipp & Kwinn	10.00
Mrs. Max Mayer	5.00
H. Popper & Son	5.00
F. L. Stern	3.00
B. P. Youngerman	2.00
Elwood B. Moore	2.00
Polly Ann Harwood	1.00
Previously acknowledged	2,082.03
Total	$2,231.85

The Mayor's office announced yesterday total contributions to date of $20,166.99, which, added to the total received by Jacob H. Schiff, the fund's treasurer, brought the grand total, as announced by Mr. Schiff last night, up to $76,956.89.

"The three hundred employes of the Brody & Frent factory at Passaic, N. J., pledged one day's wages and all overtime received during the week to the relief fund. This will amount to about $2,000.

At the Church of Our Lady of Pompeii, at Bleecker and Hancock Streets, donations were taken up at yesterday's regular memorial mass for the fire victims. Fifteen of those who died were among the church's parishioners.

GATES ADMITS WIFE'S SUIT.

And That He Has Not Yet Answered Her Divorce Action.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 3.—Charles G. Gates, who is here with his father, John W. Gates, attending a suit in the local courts in which the latter is plaintiff, acknowledged to-day that he had received service of papers in the divorce suit brought by his wife, but said he had filed no answer. He declined to answer further questions.

No one connected with either Charles G. Gates or Mrs. Mary G. Gates, his wife, would add any details yesterday to the account of the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Gates as published in THE TIMES yesterday morning.

There was a report yesterday that Mrs. Gates had been in Atlanta, Ga., but had returned to the city. At her home, 667 Madison Avenue, however, it was said that this was untrue, and that Mrs. Gates was not expected back for several days. Mrs. Melville D. Martin, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Gates, said that she could add nothing to THE TIMES's account, but corroborated it.

"I do not know where the papers in the case have been filed," she said, "or who is named in them. I know only that the trouble has been of very recent standing. Mrs. Gates has been away from New York on a little trip for some time, but I do not care to tell where she is or when she will return to the city. She is not in Atlanta."

Anson M. Beard, Mrs. Gates's attorney, again refused yesterday to discuss the case, and at the office of Mr. Gates's attorneys, Byrne & Cutcheon, 24 Broad Street, Mr. Byrne said that even if the papers had been served on Mr. Gates as reported, he could not discuss his client's private affairs.

A friend who was long in Mr. Gates's confidence, and for a time connected with him in business, stamped as absurd the report that Mr. Gates's financial operations had played any part in the trouble that brought on the divorce proceedings.

"In the first place," he said, "the spectacular nature of those financial operations was almost exclusively exaggerated newspaper fiction. In the second place, if, as reported, the suit for divorce has been brought in this State, there can be but one ground for the suit. I have not heard anything more about the case than what I read in THE TIMES this morning. Mr. Gates left the city about two or three weeks ago, and is at present in Texas. Mrs. Gates left here a few days later, but I do not know where she is."

ROLLING PIPE KILLS A BOY.

Piece of High Pressure Main Crushes Him When Playmates Dislodge It.

In a crowd of small boys playing in Nevins Street, Brooklyn, late yesterday afternoon, was six-year-old Michael Pinnotti of 555 Union Street. The lads were climbing over a pile of iron pipes which are to be laid for the high-pressure service of the Fire Department.

Young Pinnotti, too small to climb to the top of a pile of these pipes, each about 8 feet long and 20 inches in diameter, which lay in a heap near Sackett Street, was watching his companions from the sidewalk. Suddenly the uppermost of the pile of pipes became dislodged. It rolled down to the sidewalk, striking the Pinnotti boy and knocking him down. The heavy pipe continued on its way until it brought up against the steps of a house, passing over the child in its course.

Some men picked the boy up and took him into a near-by store, where they telephoned to the Seney Hospital for an ambulance. When the surgeon arrived he found the boy dead.

Pastor Asked to Resign.

After having been pastor of the First [illegible] Church of Woodhaven, Queens, for the last five years, the Rev. Richard H. Ingsworth has complied with requests made by members of his congregation that he resign. He will hold the last service in the church on Easter Sunday, and, it is said, will go into business [illegible]. The pastor has recently [illegible] from the [illegible].

CORRIGAN VICIOUS, DECLARES GAYNOR

"He Is One of Those Whose Heads Are Filled with Crime," Mayor Tells Reporters.

MAGISTRATE WON'T RETORT

Cropsey Again Before the Grand Jury After Waiting Outside on a Hard Bench Two Hours.

When Mayor Gaynor returned to the City Hall from St. James, L. I., yesterday morning, he again criticised Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan for the part the latter has played in bringing about the present Grand Jury investigation regarding the alleged increase in crime in the city and the inadequacy of the police to deal with it. The Mayor was manifestly wrought up over the matter, and when the Magistrate's name was mentioned to him by reporters he said:

"Do not persist in asking me about Corrigan. He is one of those in this city whose heads are filled with vice and crime. Now, how did their heads get so filled with vice and crime? You only have to follow them around at night to find that out. Let those who want to befoul the city and picture it as a shameless and vicious place go right on. Those of us who have to deal with the city intend to go right on with the large things that confront us."

When the Mayor's remarks were shown to Magistrate Corrigan he said:

"As I said in my remarks before the City Club, this matter is too big to allow personalities to enter into it. The Grand Jury is investigating my statements, and they will find out the truth or falsity of them. I am willing to leave my case with them. The Mayor's statement doesn't tell why homicides have increased 42 per cent. in the last year. My record and character are too well known to bother with answering any remarks such as Mayor Gaynor has made concerning me."

Later in the day the Magistrate and the Mayor came face to face in East Fourth Street. The Mayor was riding with Fire Commissioner Waldo in the latter's automobile and was going in the direction of Washington Square when Magistrate Corrigan passed them going in an opposite direction. The Magistrate bowed and raised his hat upon recognizing the Mayor, but the Mayor suddenly turned his head in an opposite direction. When the automobile had passed, Magistrate Corrigan turned and looked, and at the same time Commissioner Waldo looked back. The Commissioner waved his hand to the Magistrate and the Magistrate responded by lifting his hat.

Police Responsibility.

More progress was made yesterday by the Grand Jury in determining just how far the Police Department is responsible for the increase in violations of the law in all grades of crime. Commissioner Cropsey was asked to appear at the Criminal Courts building, but when he arrived at the Grand Jury room the members were not ready for him, and he waited in an outer room on a hard wooden bench for more than an hour before he was called.

He was asked questions, it was learned, which will have an important bearing on certain matters that are to come out in the future. Just what these matters are no one would say, but it was hinted that important developments may be looked for within a few days. The Commissioner was dismissed with the order to return to-morrow.

The Commissioner is said to have resented the fact that he had to wait so long outside the Grand Jury room, but he was curtly told, it is said, that others had had to wait just as long in the anteroom at Police Headquarters when they called on him. When the Grand Jury adjourned for the day, one of the men who was in the room at the time, remarked, when asked how he got along with the Commissioner:

"Well, he has come down to earth again. He was more reasonable to-day."

Other witnesses before the jury were William E. Murphy, a former Police Sergeant and now counsel for the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association; Joseph Schulum and Joseph J. Davidson, two detectives connected with the District Attorney's office and officially known as process servers; Charles Dillon, liquor license clerk of the District Attorney's office; John J. Hoechk of 650 Ninth Avenue, and Police Capt. Samuel McElroy of the West Thirtieth Street Station, known as the old Tenderloin Station.

Capt. McElroy, it was said, was a good witness for Mayor Gaynor. He is said to have testified that conditions in his precinct, so far as disorderly women are concerned, were 75 per cent. better than last year, due to the vice squad of Deputy Commissioner Driscoll.

A lawyer named McLane, who said he represented several downtown banking houses, was also a witness. His grievance was that badges and revolvers had been taken from special policemen in financial institutions.

Other than Commissioner Cropsey, the most important witness of the day was Mr. Murphy. He appeared in response to a letter from the District Attorney's office inviting him to tell what he knew. Before he went in he said that any laxity on the part of patrolmen was due to the new and inadequate method of doing patrol duty.

Police Hampered, He Says.

"If a policeman now stops a citizen who has a bundle late at night," he said, "and an investigation shows that the policeman's suspicions were unfounded, the citizen may prefer charges against the patrolman. Even though the trial results in the charges being dismissed, the fact that the policeman was placed on trial remains on the record, and it is used against him when he comes up for promotion.

"Under the old system, in such a case, the Inspector in charge of the district would hold an ex parte examination, and if the facts didn't warrant it the case would then and there be dropped. But now a policeman has to stand trial no matter how trivial the charges."

Mr. Murphy then cited the case of Sergt. Hughes of Brooklyn who stopped a man late at night because he carried a large suit case. The man proved to be a photographer, and after he had established his identity the Sergeant apologized and allowed the man to proceed on his way.

Although Sergt. Hughes spoke to this man in a civil manner," continued Mr. Murphy, "he was brought up on charges. The proceedings ended in an acquittal. But as a matter of fact it doesn't end there. This mark will always stand on the record against him."

Mr. Murphy said that under the existing order of things patrolmen wouldn't take a chance for fear of making a false arrest. If the average policeman saw a violation he would turn his back or stand helplessly by rather than take a chance of being placed in a wrong position. This, he thought, greatly lessened a patrolman's efficiency. As far as the excise laws are concerned, he said the police looked upon them as "a mere joke."

If a policeman happens to speak to a friend on the street only for a minute or two, he said, it meant that he would be brought up on charges. For these and other reasons, he said, the 9,000 patrolmen about the city are not doing any more work than is absolutely necessary. One great injustice, he said, was the way the average crook treats a policeman at present. If he used the crook roughly, he said, it meant that the policeman would have to engage lawyers to defend him at the trial that was sure to follow.

A detective attached to the District Attorney's staff was the next witness. He told about a test that had been made to find out the truth of the statement made by Commissioner Cropsey last week that a citizen could go into any police station and get a plain clothes man upon giving a good reason that one was needed. This detective went to the old West Twentieth Street Station and told the Lieutenant at the desk that he wanted a plain clothes man to accompany him to a gambling house in Eighth Avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Streets.

New Order of Things.

"Hay, brother, this yarn don't go now," the Lieutenant is said to have replied to the detective. "It used to be all right, but not under the new orders." After the refusal the detective said that Detective Moody, in charge of the Central Office men assigned to the precinct, came in, and after a conference between the Lieutenant and Moody, the latter accompanied the detective from the District Attorney's office to the alleged gambling house. The two climbed the stairs leading to the gambling house door, which had a little wicket, and they asked the man inside to tell the proprietor that he was wanted in the hall. Immediately, he said, there was a wild scramble on the part of those inside to escape. They got out, he said, through windows and over the roofs.

John Jones, Secretary of the West Side Taxpayers' Association, was not called before the Grand Jury, but he appeared with a bundle of records showing letters which had passed between the association and Mayor Gaynor. There was one letter, he said, in which the Mayor told him that Mr. Hoechk, who had been twice blackjacked and robbed near his home, must be insane. Mr. Hoechk told the jury about the assault and showed cuts on his head to prove it.

Assistant District Attorney Reynolds, who is assisting Mr. Battle and Mr. Moss in the investigation, was visited yesterday by Henry Bayer, who lives in West Forty-second Streeet, next door to a saloon. Bayer told Mr. Reynolds that he had appealed to Commissioner Cropsey three times and complained twenty-five times to other members of the Police Department to have the saloon closed when it kept open after hours and when his family couldn't sleep on account of the noise. His complaints, he said, went unheeded.

Evidence regarding excise cases was given to the Grand Jury by Mr. Dillon. He testified, it is said, that there were seventy-six excise complaints filed in the District Attorney's office yesterday for violations the day before. Six of these were for illegal sales. This is said to be the largest number of complaints for any Sunday since April of last year, when Mayor Gaynor first issued his order regarding how to make arrests in excise cases. During March there were only sixteen complaints for illegal sales of liquor.

Subpoenas were issued yesterday for officials of fifteen insurance companies and their books and the records from city hospitals showing the number of cases of assaults since the first of the year. These figures will be compared with those covering the same period last year. Mr. Reynolds deputized twelve subpoena servers attached to the District Attorney's office to make a report of excise conditions as they found them throughout the city.

Rector Demands a Retraction.

Charles E. Rector wrote to Magistrate Corrigan yesterday demanding a retraction of the Magistrate's statement that a door is to be made in the wall to connect his hotel with the house next door, which, Magistrate Corrigan said, is to be fitted up as a gambling house.

"Magistrate Corrigan is quoted as saying that a connection exists between my hotel and some gambling house," said Mr. Rector, "or that some such connection is contemplated. This is an absolute falsehood, if such a statement has been made." Here is Mr. Rector's letter to the Magistrate:

Joseph E. Corrigan, Esq., 55 East Seventy-sixth Street, City.

Dear Sir: The newspapers report that in a speech which you made before a large gathering of citizens on Saturday afternoon last, you asserted that the Hotel Rector has been or is being connected with some gambling house, by means of a door through the abutting walls.

The statement is utterly false. There is no connection, physical or otherwise, between the Hotel Rector and any adjacent building. No opening has been made in any wall of the Hotel Rector, and no such opening has been in contemplation, or even talked about. You are at liberty to examine every inch of the walls of my hotel at your convenience.

Your reported address, therefore, so far as it referred to my hotel, being without a vestige of truth to sustain it, I call upon you to immediately and publicly retract it. Unless you do so, I shall instruct my attorneys to take action against you in every way the law will permit. Your statement, if believed, is calculated to seriously injure and damage the greatest asset of a respectable hotel—its reputation. It was cruel of you to make such an assertion without investigation, but I hope that you have retained sufficient manhood and courage to now admit your error. Yours truly,

CHARLES E. RECTOR, President.

Two canvas signs, each ten feet high and a yard wide, painted in large red and black characters, held up groups of commuters all day long in Vesey Street yesterday. The signs read:

You cannot stop gambling! Why not use common sense in dealing with it? Using pickaxes and crowbars with the aid of the police is a farce on the laws of the State. Pass a law putting a graduated license fee for doing the business of $500 to $25,000 on it. This would prevent bribing the police.

Mayor Gaynor, in the interests of the citizens of New York, should order Commissioner Flynn to stop using his battering ram in breaking doors and emulating Don Quixote in his tilt with grinded lances against the wind mills, striving to stop gambling, and devote his energies and the services of his trained officers to the arrest of the burglars, thieves, and murderers who infest this city.

The signs bore the signature of a grocer.

Adolph S. Wasserman of 173 West 141st Street, who said he was managing clerk for J. Fred Alsgood, a lawyer at 280 Broadway, was sentenced to sixty days in the Workhouse yesterday by Magistrate House, in the Jefferson Market Court, on a charge of disorderly conduct. The complainant was Adolfo Gambaretti, proprietor of a small restaurant at 146 West Houston Street. Gambaretti said Wasserman went to his restaurant about March 3 and said he had been a policeman in that precinct and knew many police officials, and that if the restaurant keeper would give him $50 he would fix it so that Gambaretti could sell liquor on Sunday.

Gambaretti notified the police, and when Wasserman went to the place yesterday he was arrested. They found in his possession a gold-plated badge, similar to a Police Captain's but bearing the words "Commissioner of Deeds, New York City." The prisoner said he was a Commissioner of Deeds and that the badge had been presented to him by a friend. Wasserman denied that he had tried to get money from the restaurant proprietor. He told the Magistrate that he was dismissed from the police force in 1892. Detective Walsh testified that Wasserman had had 152 complaints against him during the eight years he was on the force. Lawyer Alsgood testified that he had known Wasserman three years and found him trustworthy.

WEST ENDERS ATTACK MAYOR.

Vigorously Protest Against His Stand in Relation to the Police.

The alleged "crime wave" and the Police Department were some of the subjects discussed last night at the meeting of the West End Association, at the Hotel St. Andrew. The speakers agreed that the police were unable to cope with the situation. This stand was taken as a consequence of the action of Commissioner Cropsey in revoking the licenses of the special policemen who have been guarding homes on the upper west side and elsewhere in the city and depriving them of their means of self-protection.

Vigorous language was used by the members, who numbered several prominent citizens in the gathering, notably ex-City Magistrate Alfred E. Ommen, ex-Senator Martin Saxe, and ex-Congressman William Harris Douglass. The situation was reviewed by Emanuel W. Bloomingdale, who said:

"For many years similar bodies to the West End Association have done much to augment the regular police force by supporting a large force of these special policemen, which expense has been borne by the private citizens. The city charter has made it proper for these special officers to be employed and that they be provided with means of protecting their lives and those who employ them. Yet the Mayor and the Police Commissioner have caused the appointment of these men to be revoked simply because some of them are accused of using their official position to their personal advantage."

As a consequence of the strong protests that were made at the meeting, it is likely that the situation will be put up to the Grand Jury, and that body will be asked to act immediately upon it.

Ex-Magistrate Ommen dwelt on the alleged peculiarities of the Mayor in his stand for "personal liberty."

"Personal liberty is all right," said Mr. Ommen, "but it has become an obsession with the Mayor. He is possessed of the idea that personal liberty is paramount to everything else. He has been possessed of this idea for twenty years. He also is of the opinion that every one knows nothing about the city but himself; that only he is qualified to know anything about the Police Department, not excepting even the Police Commissioner himself."

LAUREL RIOTERS HELD.

Woman Witness of the Stockley Murder Names His Assailant.

Special to The New York Times.

SEAFORD, Del., April 3.—Detective Walls to-day arrested Robert Whitney, a desperate colored man, who the police believe is one of the ringleaders of the riot of Saturday. He was given a hearing before Justice of Peace Clapham and sent to jail.

Coroner Korn of Lewes, and Deputy Griffith of Blades, held an inquest over the body of young Stockley, who was killed in Saturday's riot. The verdict was that Stockley came to his death by a shot from a pistol in the hands of either Albert Hitch, white; Robert Whitney, colored, or George Collins, colored. The two first mentioned were arrested yesterday afternoon and taken to jail in an automobile to escape violence, and the latter was taken into custody to-day.

Mrs. Mollie Wright, white, a witness before the Coroner, said she was standing near the scene when the trouble started. "Neither Albert Hitch nor George Collins did the shooting," she said, "but I do not want to tell who did."

"You must tell if you know," said Griffith.

"Bob Whitney is the person," she said. "He fired three times and, when the third shot was fired young Stockley fell to the ground, mortally wounded."

HAYMAN LIKELY TO DIE.

Lawyer Who Tried Suicide Charged with Failure to Return a Check.

The condition of Morris H. Hayman, who attempted suicide in the Holland House, Newark, on Sunday, was so serious yesterday that the plan of his relatives to remove him to the German Hospital from the City Hospital, where he now is, was abandoned. Mr. Hayman has a chance for recovery, but the physicians say it is very slight.

Mr. Hayman's home is at 249 West 107th Street. The apartment house is the home also of Mr. Hayman's brother-in-law, Jay Drucker, a real estate operator, and Mr. Hayman is said to have gained a fortune by engaging in real estate deals with Mr. Drucker. As a lawyer he has devoted himself chiefly to real estate affairs.

An attachment for $12,500 was issued against Hayman yesterday in connection with a real estate operation in which he was concerned as counsel for Francis J. Arend. It was alleged that Mr. Arend recently delivered to Mayman a check for $12,500 with which to close a deal by which the former acquired the property at 256 West 100th Street. The title was to have passed on March 1, but by mutual consent it was determined to postpone the transaction until yesterday. Mr. Arend asked meanwhile for the return of his check, and it is said that Hayman promised to mail it to him and failed to do so.

RAID ON GAMBLERS AS THEATRES EMPTY

Throngs from Playhouses Witness Assaults of Flynn and His Men in 44th St.

TWO HOUSES SMASHED INTO

"Beansy" Rosenthal Operated One and from There a Crooked Roulette Wheel Was Taken—Men Playing Against It.

Second Deputy Police Commissioner Flynn swooped down with a squad of Central Office men upon two gambling houses in the heart of the theatre and all-night restaurant district last night.

Whether by chance or with a dramatic sense the Deputy Commissioner timed the raids to the very moment that the crowds were streaming out of near-by theatres and making for midnight suppers at the bright restaurants.

Several thousand theatregoers heard the crashing of the glass, woodwork, and iron doors by the axes of the raiders, and halted in breathless interest to watch the detectives breaking into two respectable looking brownstone houses.

About one hundred men were found at the gambling tables. Seventeen prisoners were taken in patrol wagons to Police Headquarters. Elaborate equipment was carried away for evidence.

One of the raided houses is said to have been operated by "Beansy" Rosenthal, of whose gambling places four others in various parts of the city have been raided in the last few weeks.

According to Mr. Hill, secretary of the Deputy Commissioner, the patrons of the "Beansy" gambling house which was raided last night had no chance of winning any money. After the raid was over Secretary Hill took the two roulette wheels which were found in the front room of the gambling house apart and showed the newspaper men the electric arrangement by means of which the wheels could be made to spin to any number required.

The raided houses were at 157 and 153 West Forty-fourth Street. They are between the Hudson Theatre on the east and the Criterion Theatre on the west, and are less than half a block from Broadway. They are immediately opposite Rector's restaurant, the Alpha Delta Phi Club, and the Lambs Club.

Many of the restaurant diners and the members of the two clubs heard the crashing of the axes and hurried into the street to join the theatre throngs and the crowd of pedestrians that came hurrying from Broadway.

One of Commissioner Flynn's men paid the two gambling places a visit recently, pretending to be a private citizen. Nine warrants for unknown inmates who were operating the gambling houses were obtained from a Magistrate yesterday afternoon.

With these warrants Deputy Commissioner Flynn, Mr. Hill, Lieutenant of Detectives Collins, and several detectives appeared in front of Beany's place at 157. It is known as the "Roselle Club."

While Lieut. Collins attacked the heavy oak doors with one axe, Detective Johnson climbed to the roof of a wig and hat makers' establishment immediately beneath the upper windows of the gambling house. Johnson succeeded in breaking through a window, and he then encountered iron bars, and had the tantalizing experience of seeing sixty or seventy men scurrying about the brilliantly lighted room without being able to get at them. The men inside had been congregated around the two roulette wheels which Mr. Hill afterward found to be crooked.

A third detachment of Flynn's men were breaking into the rear windows of the gambling house, having climbed over the back fence. The small rear room into which this flanking party forced its way proved to be a poolroom, equipped with telephones, racing charts, and a cashier's booth. Deputy Commissioner Flynn meantime had broken through the front doors.

The gamblers made no attempt at resistance. All the gambling was on the first floor of the house, the three upper floors being rented out as furnished rooms. According to Secretary Hill, the occupants of these upper floors were perfectly respectable and had no idea that a gambling house was running immediately below them.

When Deputy Commissioner Flynn got into the Roselle Club he had seventy men there lined up. This line was led by the opening of the poolroom cashier's wicket. As each of the eight men for whom had been obtained warrants passed the narrow opening the hidden detective who had got the evidence singled him out, and he was at once placed under arrest.

These eight men were bundled into a patrol wagon and taken to Police Headquarters.

Before this had been accomplished, Flynn, Hill, Lieut. Collins, and a few other detectives had gone two doors down to No. 153 and knocked in the flimsy front with a single blow of an axe. Fifteen men playing craps were found on the first floor. The raiders had a warrant for one who was supposed to be the proprietor. This man was sent to Police Headquarters and locked up there with the eight prisoners from the other house.

Caldwell Church Consents to Let Memorial Association Have Parsonage.

Special to The New York Times.

CALDWELL, N. J., April 3.—At the annual meeting of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of this borough to-night authority was given to the Trustees to sell the old parsonage property, where Grover Cleveland was born in 1837, to an association which wishes to preserve the place as a memorial. The association is made up of friends of the late President, some of whom are resident in this borough, but most of whom live in New York. Their names will be made public later. The sum that has been offered for the property was not announced.

The Trustees of the Caldwell Free Public Library at their meeting on Saturday evening voted unanimously in favor of erecting the proposed new public library on a portion of the old parsonage property, provided the purchase is made by the Cleveland Association. Andrew Carnegie recently offered to build the new library if the town would furnish the site. The Borough Council has appointed a committee to confer with the Committee on Cleveland Memorial and the Borough Solicitor concerning legal steps to hold and maintain the property if purchased.

The parsonage property extends over 300 feet on Bloomfield Avenue, and is 200 feet deep. It is just opposite the Erie station, at the entrance of the borough. It is planned to repair the old two-story parsonage and keep it as a memorial. The church proposes to build a new parsonage about a quarter of a mile away, adjoining the church building itself.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 3.—After having been out a short time last night, judges in the intercollegiate debate between Harvard and Princeton brought in a decision in favor of the latter. The debate was held in Alexander Hall, and the subject was "Resolved, That all elective State officials should be nominated through direct primaries." The speakers were: For Harvard, with the affirmative, H. R. Erhamann, D. C. Howard, and E. R. Burke; for Princeton, with the negative, F. P. Smith, C. E. Bingham, and N. N. Arnold.

Mustn't Catch Trout Until April 17.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 3.—In reply to inquiries, the State Forest, Fish and Game Commission holds that it is illegal to fish for trout before Monday, April 17. Many fishermen contended that because April 16, the opening day for such fishing, falls on Sunday this year, it would be legal to fish for trout on Saturday, April 15.

picking up stray bits of coal to cook their meals. The railroad did not even offer to loan them any fuel. The only water to be had was in the tank, and the soldiers got permission to use what they needed for drinking and cooking purposes.

To-day it became known that a bill for the water the men drank while protecting the bridge at the urgent request of the railroad had been presented to the Government. The bill will be paid, but the facts in the case will be made known to the War Department.

When asked about the matter this afternoon Gen. Duncan said:

"I am not permitted to discuss such situations. Any comment, if such a thing has happened, must come from the War Department in Washington."

HARD FIGHTING IN SONORA.

Gen. Torres Reports Heavy Losses by the Rebels Near Ures.

AGUA PRIETA, SONORA, Mexico, April 3.—An official report by Gen. Luis Torres, military commander of the first zone, including all of Sonora, was received to-day, giving details of the fighting at Ures and San Rafael, following the first encounter on March 28 and up to to-day.

After the rebels escaped from the trap laid by Col. Ogeda and Luis Medina Barron, Chief of Rurales, they continued in the direction of Ures, the report says. Later they received 300 reinforcements With this added force they attempted to turn the right flank of the Federal soldiers. The fighting which ensued was severe, with heavy losses on both sides. The official report gives the rebel dead at this point at 70 and the Federal killed at 16, with 20 wounded.

On the night of March 30 the battle was renewed, Col. Ogeda assuming the offensive and attempting to dislodge the rebel forces from ambush. The Federals came across many dead insurrectos and small bands fleeing toward Ures. A long, running fight followed, and 14 Federals were reported killed. At Ures the rebels made a stand, but in the fighting they were scattered into small groups, going in different directions.

A report reached Agua Prieta to-day that Barron was among those killed at Ures, but this report has not been confirmed.

EL PASO, Texas, April 3.—Mail advices from Magdalena, Sonora, declare the insurrectos captured three wagon loads of ammunition which were being sent from Hermosillo to the Federal garrison at Ures. The wagon train was guarded by Rurales and Yaqui Indians, and it was stated there was heavy loss on both sides.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, April 3.—Francisco Morrileau, Presidente of Caborca, Sonora, seventy-five miles southwest of Nogales, arrived to-day by automobile and reported that about 200 rebels captured that place yesterday. He said he had orders to defend the town with conscripts, but was unable to raise a force.

Morrileau began looking for a house in Nogales, Ariz.

Madero was en route to Monterey to visit his father, Ebereste Madero, who is ill.

WILL PROTECT FOREIGNERS.

Revolutionary Party Gives Formal Assurances to the Powers.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Assurances that foreign interests in Mexico will be protected are made by Francisco I. Madero, Jr., President of the Provisional Government of Mexico, in a communication addressed to Secretary of State Knox and the diplomatic representatives in Washington of other interested Governments. The text of the communication was made public to-day by the confidential agency of the revolutionary party.

After setting forth at considerable length the reasons which impelled the insurrectionary movement in Mexico, the note declares that it is a just cause because the people had exhausted every legal and peaceful recourse to obtain much-needed reforms; that it is patriotic because it has no other object than to establish a constitutional régime in Mexico, and, finally, necessary "because for many years the Mexican people have never had justice meted out to them, and have lived without enjoying the guarantees and privileges which the laws provide."

The statement serves notice that the provisional government at the proper time will ask to be recognized by foreign Governments. From the moment of such recognition it will assume responsibility for all damages and injuries to the citizens of such foreign countries which may result from the insurrection. The recognition of and upholding of all international treaties in force before Nov. 20, 1910, and recognition and respect for all obligations entered into or incurred by the Mexican Government with foreign corporations or individuals prior to that date, are promised.

HARD COAL ROADS MUST DROP MINING

Supreme Court Declares Operation of Coal Concerns as Subsidiaries Is Illegal.

LEHIGH VALLEY DEFEATED

Must Stand Trial on Fresh Charges of Government—Prosecution of Other Carriers Is Possible.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The Supreme Court to-day, in a decision by Chief Justice White, in the case of the United States against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, greatly widened and strengthened its former decision on the commodities clause of the Hepburn act regulating inter-State commerce. The effect of the decision is that while carrier corporations may own stock in a commodities company and carry its products without violating the law, yet when it is clear that the carrier manages the business of the commodity company and mingles the operations of the two concerns, it comes within the prohibition of the law and is liable to prosecution. Under the clear terms of the decision, any carrier may be proceeded against when the facts show that there exists a plan to do by indirection that which the commodities clause prohibits.

The case came up on appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. The suit was instituted in June, 1908, against various anthracite coal carriers. The Circuit Court dismissed the complaint, and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court. That tribunal held, with the lower court, that mere ownership of stock did not furnish a cause of action, but remanded the case to the lower court with directions for further proceedings necessary to enforce the statute. The Government then moved in the Circuit Court to amend its bill of complaint against the Lehigh Valley, which had been chosen for a test, and the dismissal of the bills against the Erie, Central of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware & Hudson, and Lackawanna Railroads without prejudice, so that further proceedings could be brought against them later. The court, however, dismissed the whole proceeding without concession to the Government.

Basis of the New Attack.

In the appeal in the Lehigh Valley case the state of facts on which the Government wished to base its new attack was set forth. It was said that the Lehigh Valley long before 1908, when the Hepburn act went into effect, had been owner of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company and of the Coxe Brothers Company, corporations which own extensive anthracite mines in Carbon, Lehigh, Luzerne, and Wyoming Counties, Penn. The Lehigh Valley Railroad owns all the stock of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company and E. B. Thomas, the President of the railroad company, is also President of the coal company. In other offices there is a similar close affiliation.

It also was asserted that the coal company had no funds with which to conduct its business except as furnished by the railroad company. The coal company had bought large amounts of coal from other mining companies and had sold it to the railroad company at a loss, the object of such transactions being to control the coal output, restrain trade, and dictate the transportation of coal over the lines of the Lehigh Company. The coal company has never paid any dividends on its stock during the time the stock has been in possession of the railroad company. It was in debt to the railroad company to the amount of $11,000,000, on which no interest is paid. Thus the coal company mainly depended on the railroad company for the money to carry on its operations and was, in fact, a subsidiary company of the railroad company.

The court declared that such facts would establish the use of the coal company by the railroad company as a device to evade the law, and ordered that the Circuit Court should permit the Government to amend its bill so that this cause of action might be pleaded. The dismissal of the cases of the other railroads was upheld on the ground that no sufficient cause of action had been shown against them.

Former Decision Is Explained.

The entire bench agreed in the decision read by Chief Justice White. He referred to the refusal of the lower court to permit the Government to amend its petition as "an absolute abuse of discretion." He said, however, that the abuse was "obviously occasioned by a misconception of the character of the action of this court and the scope of the mandate." Referring to the holding of the Supreme Court two years ago, he said:

> While that decision expressly held that stock ownership by a railroad company in a bona fide corporation, irrespective of the extent of such ownership, did not preclude a railroad company from transporting the commodity manufactured, mined, produced, or owned by such corporation, nothing in that conclusion foreclosed the right of the Government to question the power of the railroad company to transport in inter-State commerce a commodity manufactured, mined, owned, or produced by a corporation in which the railroad held stock and where the power of the railroad company as a stockholder was used to obliterate all distinctions between the two corporations. That is to say, where the power was exerted in such a manner so as to commingle the affairs of both as by necessary effect to make such affairs practically undistinguishable and therefore to cause both corporations to be one for all purposes.

The decision was summed up by the Chief Justice in these words:

> It must be held that while the right of a railroad company as a stockholder to use its stock ownership for the purpose of a bona fide separate administration of the affairs of a corporation in which it has a stock interest may not be denied, the use of such stock ownership in substance for the purpose of destroying the entity of a producing, &c., corporation and of commingling its affairs in administration with the affairs of the railroad company so as to make the two corporations virtually one, brings the railroad company so voluntarily acting as to such producing, &c., corporation within the prohibition of the commodities clause; in other words, that by operation and effect of the commodities clause, there is a duty cast upon a railroad company purposing to carry in inter-State commerce a product of the producing, &c., corporation, in which it has a stock interest, not to abuse such power so as virtually to do by indirection that which the commodities clause prohibits—a duty which plainly would be violated by the unnecessary commingling of the affairs of the producing company with its own so as to cause them to be one and inseparable.

There is doubt as to the effect of to-day's decision on the other railroads against which suits have been dismissed. It is contended in some quarters that they are free from prosecution.

Wade H. Ellis, who has prosecuted the case for the Government as special counsel, however, said to-day:

> This decision reopens the fundamental questions involved in the original commodities clause case. The court now holds that a railroad company cannot lawfully transport in inter-State commerce the coal of a subsidiary company which belongs to the railroad and which is managed so as to make it not in good faith an independent corporation. This will correct the real evil at which the commodities clause was aimed. It will divorce the railroad business from the coal business and compel inter-State carriers to attend strictly to functions for which they were organized.

An investigation will be made with a view to renewing the action against the other railroads, if possible.

How Railroads Control Mines.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad controls and operates its coal mines through the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, all the stock of which is owned by the railroad. In this respect the position of the Lehigh Valley is similar to that of the Delaware & Hudson Company, whose coal properties are held by the Hudson Coal Company, whose stock it owns. The Erie Railroad also controls its coal properties through companies whose stock it holds. This is, indeed, the method most generally followed among the anthracite coal roads, whose relations with their coal properties, except in the case of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, have undergone only minor changes since the Supreme Court decision in 1908.

Following that decision the Lackawanna caused the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Coal Company to be formed. Its stock was sold to the shareholders of the railroad. It took over the stocks of coal and the coal handling equipment of the Lackawanna, and entered into a contract for the purchase from the railroad company at the mouth of the mines of all coal mined. Actual ownership of the coal mines still rests with the railroad.

The Reading Company is a holding concern which owns the stock of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and also the stock of the coal company, whose mines are operated in conjunction with the railway. The railroad itself has no stock interest in the coal company. The Reading Company controls the Central Railroad of New Jersey, which in turn owns the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company. The relationship of these latter companies is similar to that existing between most of the other coal roads and their coal mining properties.

The New York, Ontario & Western, through the ownership of securities, controls the two coal companies which are the chief producers along its lines. These companies and the railroad are also bound by contracts between them.

TRUST DECISIONS PUT OFF.

Distinguished Gathering Vainly Waits for Them in Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Keen disappointment prevailed to-day in the vicinity of the Supreme Court of the United States, when that tribunal finished its weekly task of handing down decisions without touching on the dissolution suits against the Standard Oil and the tobacco corporations.

The biggest crowd that has attempted in years to get into the courtroom to-day blocked the corridors in the Capitol. Women and men stood in line for hours, even while the court was taking a recess for luncheon, in the hope that they would gain admittance. The sixty-odd who were fortunate enough to procure seats early in the morning seemed to make an all-day's visit of it, and consequently the patient and impatient ones remained outside.

The space reserved for the bar was likewise crowded. Judge John I. Porter of Eldora, Iowa, admitted to practice before the Supreme Court fifty-eight years ago, had come into court hoping to hear the Standard Oil or tobacco decisions, Gov. Harmon of Ohio, Senator Root of New York, and a long list of distinguished personages waited throughout the three hours the court was announcing opinions.

The failure of the court to decide the cases to-day precludes the announcement of the decisions until next Monday at least.

Wall Street had little attention yesterday for anything but the expected decisions of the American Tobacco and Standard Oil cases in the Supreme Court, which rumor was most positive in declaring would be handed down yesterday. When the noon hour arrived and the Supreme Court convened the customers' rooms in the Street had a larger attendance than for many months. After the announcement of decisions in minor cases the adjournment to 2:30, with the Chief Justice still to be heard from, added strength to the Street's conviction that yesterday was to be the fateful day.

The stock market had so little doubt that the big decisions were coming when court reconvened that trading practically stopped at 1 o'clock. Between that hour and 2 the total transactions on the floor of the Exchange were only a little more than 9,000 shares.

The Lehigh Valley decision coming right at the close of the market, was practically ignored by the traders.

HEINZE LOSES BOND CASE.

Washington Court Holds That Lindeman Surety Was Gained by Fraud.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—When a surety company issues a bond on an applicant's misrepresentation as to the purpose, such a misrepresentation makes a valid defense at law, decided Justice Van Orsdel of the District Court of Appeals to-day in the case of George Baglin of New York against the Southern Surety Company.

The District Supreme Court had ordered the company to pay Baglin $45,000, the amount of a bond which he, acting for F. Augustus Heinze, had obtained to guarantee the return by Garrett B. Lindeman of $45,000 worth of negotiable bonds. Lindeman was unable to return the bonds, and the surety company in court proceedings pleaded fraud and misrepresentation. The Appellate Court to-day ordered a new trial, holding that the company was induced by fraud to execute the bond, which nominally was for the return of certain bonds, but in reality was a guarantee of the repayment of money.

SHIPPING AGENCIES WIN.

They Are Entitled to Carload Rates, as Commerce Board Held.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Upholding the majority of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, the Supreme Court of the United States to-day decided that forwarding agencies in official classification territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio, are entitled to carload rates on merchandise shipped by them for patrons.

When the commission passed on the matter Chairman Knapp, in dissenting, said that a grant of the privileges claimed by the shipping companies would open the door to possible discriminations and practices that would be deemed criminal if done by an inter-State carrier, and would be a discrimination against those towns where forwarding agencies were not located.

STATE WINS IN WIRE CASE.

Western Union Liable for an Error Under a Virginia Law.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A decision upholding the power of States to regulate telegraph companies was handed down by the Supreme Court to-day.

Crovo & Crenshaw of Richmond, Va., in 1907 filed with the Western Union Telegraph Company an order for a carload of grapes addressed to a dealer in Brockton, N. Y. The message was sent to Brooklyn. Under a Virginia statute of 1904 the company was liable to a penalty of $100 for the error. The case was brought to the Supreme Court on the ground that the statute was unconstitutional when applied to a case where there was no evidence of breach of duty within Virginia.

In an opinion by Justice Lurton the Supreme Court held that the statute was constitutional in the absence of legislation on the subject by Congress.

MUST NOT IGNORE WIVES.

Supreme Court Upholds Their Rights in Property of Husbands.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Woman won a victory to-day in the Supreme Court of the United States when that tribunal decided that her right in community property, recognized under the civil law in force in the Southwestern States, was something more "than a right that began when it ended."

It was decided in a suit over the title to a tract of land in Dona Ana County, N. M., that Adolphe Lee did not have the right, in view of a New Mexico statute, to convey his land to another without his wife joining in the transfer.

WAR BENEFITS WORLD SAYS SHAUGHNESSY

Twits Carnegie on Peace Aims, Saying He Got Riches Through Commercial War.

PEACE TREATIES PREDICTED

Foster Foresees Arbitration Between Us, England, France and Japan—Its Limits Viewed by Sir Oliver Lodge.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 3.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, talking to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent in the lobby of the Hotel Meurice, where he arrived yesterday from Rome on his way to London, expressed some curious views on the question of arbitration.

"It is very nice to hear of all these noble purposes for the avoidance of war, but I am inclined to question whether the suppression of war is good for the world. War now and then acts, after all, as a sort of clearance of surplus energy.

"But what I think most amusing in the matter is the attitude taken by an American money magnate, who has given enormous sums to the cause of universal peace. He evidently forgets that he acquired his riches only through a lifelong struggle and commercial war, during which he never suffered a rival nor even a competitor."

Asked about the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy declined to express his personal views on the ground of his business responsibilities. He believed, however, it was a foregone conclusion that the bill would be passed by the Canadian Parliament. It is undoubtedly a serious political question, he added, and its failure would mean the resignation of the Premier.

As to Mexican affairs, Sir Thomas said:

"I think it quite natural that the United States should show themselves ready to protect their interests, and I have no doubt that should it be necessary, all other nations which are largely concerned in Mexico would bow to the Monroe Doctrine and let the United States settle matters."

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy sails for Canada at the end of April.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Representative Foster of Vermont, ranking minority member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, predicted at the White House to-day that arbitration treaties would be negotiated between four of the great powers of the world—the United States, Great Britain, France, and Japan—this country to take a leading part in framing the negotiations.

Eventually, he said, the other powers of the world will be forced to take similar action. Mr. Foster said that he had had personal conversations with the Mayor of Tokio and other Japanese of prominence and that he believed the sentiment in Japan was in favor of such agreements.

Two leading advocates of peace, Andrew Carnegie and Speaker-elect Champ Clark, held a short conference to-day on the general subject of arbitration arrangements with England. Mr. Carnegie requested the conference, but neither would say what phase of the matter was discussed.

"I am in favor of any peace measure that is rational," said Mr. Clark later. "Such an agreement between the United States and England is exceedingly desirous, because they are of the same blood and language. More than that, I heartily favor any proper steps toward the establishment of universal peace, and I believe that on account of our wealth, population, and favorable geographical position, we ought to lead the word toward such an end."

LONDON, April 3.—American Ambassador Reid is receiving for presentation to the State Department at Washington numerous resolutions adopted by city and borough councils of the United Kingdom approving President Taft's suggestion for a complete Anglo-American arbitration treaty.

Sir Oliver Joseph Lodge, principal of the University of Birmingham, in a lengthy review of the possibilities of universal arbitration published to-day, holds that while everything arbitral should be arbitrated, there are certain things which no nation would consent to submit to arbitration.

For instance, he does not belive that the United States would agree to arbitrate the matter should a European power be unwise enough to interfere in the event that difficulty arose between the American Government and Mexico. Similarly England would never accept arbitration should a foreign power insist upon home rule for Ireland, or if France desired to arbitrate an issue in Egypt.

Touching upon the position of Germany, Sir Oliver Lodge foresees in the near future the question of a German outlet to the Mediterranean, occupying the centre of the stage in world politics. This he also considers quite outside the possibility of arbitration, as he believes that to obtain such an outlet has been a long standing secret policy of the German Government. In naval and military circles the suggestion has been advanced privately, more than once, that the real objective of the German fleet was the Mediterranean, and not the North Sea, and Sir Oliver now openly voices the same idea, suggesting that upon the death of the Austrian Emperor, Germany will make a great effort to obtain a seaport in the Adriatic with a territorial connection with Germany.

The new German fleet, the writer contends, is intended to overawe Italy and France in order that the operation may be done peacefully, in spite of their protests. In such an event he maintains that Great Britain should keep her hands off, and not attempt to curb Germany's just colonial ambitions.

DRUG CUT RATES UPHELD.

Supreme Court Refuses to Sanction a Monopoly in Prices.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The attempt to put the ban on "cut rates" in proprietary medicines in this country to-day received the disapproval of the Supreme Court of the United States. That tribunal declined, in an opinion by Justice Hughes, to give its said to such an attempt on the ground that it would afford the manufacturers of medicine an unlawful monopoly.

The question of the right of a manufacturer to control the price of his article to the consumer rose in a suit begun by the Dr. Miles Medical Company of Elkhart, Ind., against a wholesale dealer in medicines in Cincinnati, Ohio, John D. Park & Sons Company. The manufacturer sought to enjoin the Cincinnati firm from inducing dealers who had procured medicines from the manufacturer to sell to it in violation of a contract with the manufacturer, and from selling medicines procured in this way at "cut rates."

Justice Lurton, then in the Circuit Court, announced the opinion of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Sixth Circuit, denying the injunctions sought. He said that while the manufacturer of medicines under a secret formula had a right to a monopoly of manufacture until the formula was discovered by fair means, yet the courts could not insure him the "unnecessary monopoly" of controlling the price to the consumer.

Justice Hughes to-day quoted approvingly from Judge Lurton's opinion, and was upheld by seven members of court.

Justice Holmes, in a dissenting opinion, said that he believed in the policy of letting people manage their own business in their own way as much as possible. Furthermore, he stated that he believed there was a tendency to overvalue the benefits of competion to the public.

Elihu Root, Jr., Before Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Senator Elihu Root of New York was a proud man today. He moved and secured the admission of his son, Elihu Root, Jr., to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Among others admitted to the bar was Senator-elect Reed of Missouri.

BERATES THE RICH AT DINNER

Wealthy Man and a Writer Exchange Compliments at Twilight Club.

The Twilight Club, dining last night at the Hotel Grenoble, discussed the topic "What Should a Millionaire Do with His Money?" Cleveland Moffett suggested that financing a muckraking expedition into the business of selling cocaine in New York would be a worthy object, and Joseph Fels, a wealthy manufacturer, differed, saying he would not interfere with any one procuring relief in drugs from the effects of unjust economic conditions. Whereupon Mr. Moffett arose and said:

"We hear too much hot air from wealthy men about the burdens of their riches and how they want to remedy conditions. Mr. Fels has indulged in the same kind of gaseous oratory that we have heard from Mr. Carnegie, that is spoken on behalf of Mr. Rockefeller. These wealthy philanthropists and reformers have been talking a long time and giving money a long time, but they still have a goodly share of their millions. There is just as much misery in the world. The wealthy talk a lot about the misfortunes of the poor and about its being a crime to die rich, but they seem to be happy enough so long as they can talk and make a noise about what they give away!"

Murmurs and even shouts interrupted Mr. Moffett, and the Chairman had to shout for order. But Mr. Moffett continued to berate Mr. Fels, making a special point of Mr. Fels's assertion that he thought it better to place the bodies of 300 children who die each month in London from preventable causes outside the Houses of Parliament for the "scoundrels within to see," rather than to save their lives. Mr. Moffett asserted that it would be better to give money to every beggar than to think of the examples arising from their misery, and was greeted with shouts of "No! No!"

Mr. Fels asserted that charity was only another name for the manufacture of beggars. The wealthy, he said, should use their money to abolish the conditions which make people starve in a land overflowing like the United States "with milk and honey." His remedy was the abolition of the tax on the improvements of land and the high taxing of land held without improvements for speculative purposes.

Count Leo Tolstoy suggested that the best use a wealthy man could find for his money was to propagate the idea of international peace. His statement that Henry George and his doctrines were well known and favorably thought of in Russia met hearty applause.

STILL NO PAY FOR PARSONS.

Park Landscape Architect Trys Vainly to See Stover About It.

Samuel Parsons, Jr., the park landscape architect, true to his declaration of intentions of Sunday, started out yesterday to learn why the first of the month had not brought with it the pay check for his March services. Night fell and the mystery was still a mystery, but he hopes that to-day's mail will bring him some sort of explanation from Park Commissioner Stover. He sat down yesterday and wrote a brief note to Mr. Stover, setting forth that no check had reached him, and asking for the explanation.

He wrote this letter early in the afternoon, but not until after he had made two attempts to see the Commissioner in person. Mr. Parsons said last night that he called at the offices in the Arsenal Building during the morning, where the Commissioner's secretary told him that Mr. Stover was busy and promised to get him an interview at the first opportunity. Mr. Parsons waited. He waited two hours, and then left without having gained his purpose. When he called again in the afternoon he was told that the Commissioner was out. Then he wrote his letter.

Commissioner Stover declined to discuss the matter of the check. As for Mr. Parsons's fruitless visits to his office, he explained that he had been very busy with two investigations and other Park matters. He had heard afterward of Mr. Parsons call, but did not know at the time that he was waiting.

MARRIED AGAIN IN TWO DAYS.

Divorced Wife of G. Bonner of New York Now Wife of S. A. Thompson.

RICHMOND, Va., April 3.—Samuel A. Thompson, son of William H. Thompson of New York, and Mrs. Helen Overton Bonner, the recently divorced wife of Griffin Bonner of New York, were married in this city on March 15 by the Rev. Michael Macon of this city.

The marriage was not known until the names, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Thompson, New York, appeared on the register of the Jefferson Hotel in this city. The record of marriage licenses granted at Hustings Court showed that on March 15 a license was granted to Samuel A. Thompson of New York and Mrs. Helen Overton Bonner of this city. The couple left here on March 30 for St. Louis, the former home of Mr. Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson is the daughter of Mr. Cornelius Williams of this city and married Mr. Bonner four years ago. The couple separated after two years, Mrs. Bonner returning to her home at Barton Heights, near here. She began her divorce action against her first husband last year and received her final decree of divorce two days before her marriage to Mr. Thompson.

Mr. Joseph Holding of New York was best man and accompanied them when they left for St. Louis.

SUICIDE HIS APRIL 1 JOKE.

E. D. Jardine Leaves a Note with a Grim Jest on His Death.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 3.—E. D. Jardine, thought to have come from New York City, registered at the Holland Hotel here Saturday. To-day his dead body was discovered with this note pinned to the coat: "This is my April Fool joke."

Jardine had shot himself in the head some time Saturday afternoon with an automatic revolver, which the police have learned he bought Saturday afternoon. He said then that he intended to use it in playing a joke on a friend.

Jardine was a travelling adjuster for the Kimball Piano House, according to papers found on his body. He was very well dressed and well supplied with money.

Col. President Taft, he said, would lead the review, provided he could change a conflicting date now on his schedule.

GIVES $50,000 TO AID METHODIST PASTORS

John E. Andrus Starts Annuity Fund of $150,000, to Which Preachers May Contribute.

GOOD INCOMES IN OLD AGE

If a Minister Puts In 5 Per Cent. of His Salary He May Draw the Largest Pay After He Retires.

A gift of $50,000 was made yesterday to the New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, now in session at Calvary Church, by former Congressman John E. Andrus of Yonkers, and will be the basis of a $150,000 fund to enable some of the younger men in the Methodist ministry to draw a comfortable annunity when they shall have been put on the superannuated list. By the terms of the gift some of the younger clergymen will receive, after their retirement, an annuity in excess of any salary they draw in their years of active endeavor.

The gift of ex-Congressman Andrus is conditioned upon the conference raising $100,000 within a year. In accepting the gift the conference decided to start at once on the collection of the $100,000.

"It is my wish that the interest on the amount I give to this endowment fund shall annually be divided among the superannuated and their widows, names of whom appear in the minutes of the conference for 1911," said the former Congressman in making his gift, and "also among those preachers now in active work of the conference and preachers of the conference engaged in educational or other church work for which they draw a salary, who shall contribute 5 per cent. of their salaries for the last year, exclusive of house rent.

"I do this in order to encourage a good cause, also to make it possible for some young men in the ministry, later on, to receive a substantial sum. It is possible for some few to contribute 5 per cent. of their salary, and later on receive the entire income from the amount I contribute, and it may be this amount will be larger than any salary received during their entire ministry."

The appointment of superannuated preachers to charges and excluding them, when so placed in pulpits, from the full benefits of the annuity fund, was asked for at the Conference yesterday. A resolution that that effect was introduced by the Rev. P. N. Chase and Chancellor Day of Syracuse University. Mr. Chase said that some things had been done in the distribution of the annuity fund which had disturbed the laity, as it was impossible to keep up large payments to all claimants without special collections. The old preachers' fund was now close to $300,000, he said, with an income of more than $32,000. Plans were under way to increase the fund to $450,000. The Rev. Frank J. Belcher of this city opposed the resolution on the ground that it required further consideration, so the measure was laid on the table.

It was announced that President Taft would attend the meeting of the Methodists in the Hotel Astor on the evening of April 27, and would make a brief address.

On a motion by Prof. E. S. Tipple of the Drew Theological Seminary, the Conference voted to establish a post-graduate course of study. The Conference already has a regular course of study.

The matter of establishing the ratio of payments to retired preachers from the collection fund on the basis of $17 for each year of active service came up. The motion was opposed by the Rev. Dr. Emory J. Haynes of Brooklyn, who left the Methodist Church several years ago and became a Baptist clergyman, but later return to Methodism. Dr. Haynes protested that the period he was out of the Methodist Church should not count against him.

"I appeal to you to deal fairly with me," he said.

"Of course he should not be paid for the years he served the Baptists," exclaimed the Rev. A. J. Palmer. "Let the Baptists pay him."

"It is the penalty you must pay for quitting your job," suggested another preacher.

"That is a cruel word," said Dr. Haynes. "I do not like the expression that in my work as a Baptist minister I quit my job. Does being a Methodist consist of being the only job?"

Shouts of "Yes!" greeted this, and Dr. Haynes went on:

"If that is the case and you want to leave it so, then all others who may want to return to Methodism must do so with the knowledge that all their old records must be forever excluded."

A motion to appoint Diocesan Bishops in place of Bishops at large was lost. Dr. Herbert Hazzard told the Conference that Pine Hills, where he had been pastor of a little church, had never seen a Bishop.

The Conference will continue to-day.

NEWARK CONFERENCE ENDING.

Night Messenger Boys the Subject of Resolution.

The Newark Conference of the Methodist Church accepted the report of its Labor Committee yesterday and adopted a resolution recommending the passage of a bill now before the New Jersey Legislature, as advocated by the National Child Labor Association. The bill sets forth that the present employment of the night messenger boys is injurious to their health and morals.

SEES NO SEX IN CRIME.

Judge Dike Comments on Suffrage Agitation in Sentencing a Woman.

County Judge Dike in Brooklyn sentenced yesterday Mrs. Rosie Hoffman, who was convicted of trying to set fire to her home in South Brooklyn, supposedly to collect insurance money, to Auburn Prison for not less than five nor more than ten years.

"These are days," said Judge Dike, "when discussion of equality between man and woman is constantly heard. Woman is struggling daily to assert her political equality with man. There must be equality in obligations as well as in rights and privileges. There is no sex in crime.

"I see no reason to extend leniency to you because you are a woman. Indeed, the facts in this case all the more demand a severe sentence. Yourself a mother, you deliberately planned this incendiary fire, which imperilled the lives of several children living within this house with you."

TAXLESS TOWN.

William Dudley Foulke Tells of Its Discovery Down in Indiana.

The twentieth century wonder of a taxless town in which the people who would serve as taxpayers in less advanced communities are converted into "near-dividend" getters, was proclaimed as an Indiana creation to members of the Brooklyn League at their annual dinner in the Imperial Hotel, Brooklyn, last night.

The specific taxless example was Richmond, just outside of Indiana's far-famed literary belt. It is the town in which William Dudley Foulke, President of the National Municipal League, was reared. The speaker who proclaimed its virtues to the Brooklynites was Mr. Foulke.

Secretary of State Lazansky urged the necessity of withholding judgment against the present State administration until it had had more time to develop its policies. He deprecated a growing tendency which he had observed to assault rather than to sustain the administration.

Men's Overcoat Styles

You, Sir, who have delayed until now the purchase of a Spring overcoat, will welcome a pointer or two on the subject of style.

Overcoats this season trace the figure, more or less—depending upon the tailor and the figure. The double gore cut in a Saks-made coat takes a little from the waist and gives it to the chest. Self collars supersede velvet. Pockets are regulation or combination flap and patch. Shoulders are narrower—even in conservative garments. The fronts contain less stiffening and entire garment drapes easily about the figure. Altogether the effect is a pleasing flexibility, gossamer-like in comparison with the fortified fronts of former styles. Fabrics are extensive in variety, with tans and greys predominating.

That's about all—except this:

That the most artistic interpretation of these features will be found in a Saks-made Overcoat, regardless of price gradations.

ANNOUNCED HIS SUICIDE.

Uncle to Whom Despondent Youth Wrote Finds Him Dead.

Edward Graf of 123 Thirty-third Street, Brooklyn, received in the early mail yesterday a letter from George Beyer, his nephew, announcing that Beyer was about to commit suicide and would be dead by the time the letter reached its destination.

Hurrying to 287 Clinton Street, where Beyer lived, Graf broke into his nephew's room and found him lying on the bed dead and the room filled with gas.

Beyer had attended the funeral of his grandmother on Sunday afternoon, and then heard from his sister that a young woman to whom he was attentive had just been married. Beyer was a machinist and was 23 years old.

IF

If reasons were wanting to establish the priority of our claims on projectors of great building enterprises, the work we have done and are now doing would furnish them.

Consider the Bryce-Hewitt Buildings, the Gimbel Building, the Rector Hotel, mammoth structures, built economically and delivered on contract time.

Consider, also, aside from our other numerous operations, the Municipal Building and the McAlpin Hotel, now under way, and each the biggest building of its kind in the world.

The fact that we are consistently chosen for such enterprises implies that we are considered best fit to conduct them.

Buyers who read are the only buyers worth while. No publication is more thoroughly read per thousand circulation than McClure's. There are three reasons:

1 McClure's has always been McClure's—not one thing today, another tomorrow. The public knows exactly what it is getting when it buys McClure's—and it buys it because it wants it to read.

2 It makes an appeal sufficiently high to reach an extremely intelligent class—a class which thinks and reads. This class doesn't look over magazines; it reads them. It is the reading class of the country.

3 It is published in a shape which induces reading—the readers' shape—the shape associated with good reading.

Buyers who read provide a circulation which is responsive.

DECLARES SHE IS GEN. ECKERT'S WIDOW

Woman Who Sought Surrogate at His Home Forced to Testify in Open Court.

WON'T SHOW CERTIFICATE

Or Deed She Says Western Union Head Gave Her to 86th St. House—She Is 68 and Talks of Conspiracy.

A woman generally known as Mrs. E. L. Davies, or Dore, of 441 East 182d Street, obeyed a subpoena from Surrogate Cohalan yesterday and appeared at his chambers, in the Hall of Records, to testify about her contention that she is the widow of Gen. Thomas T. Eckert, a contest of whose will is pending.

Before the contest was heard Surrogate Cohalan said that Mrs. Davies had visited him at his home, in the Bronx, and tried to tell her story to him privately. He told her that he could not hear it on the street or in his home and that she must come to court. When she declined to come voluntarily the Surrogate subpoenaed her.

Mrs. Davies, who said she was 68 years old, was examined in the presence of Henry M. Earle, attorney for the contestant, James Clendennin Eckert; of Cornelius Sullivan of Nicoll, Anable & Lindsay, counsel for the principal beneficiary of the will, Thomas T. Eckert, Jr.; of Henry M. Ward, special guardian of Joanna Eckert, and of Richard G. Page, Jr., for many years Gen. Eckert's secretary.

She refused at first to be sworn, but finally consented when Surrogate Cohalan told her that she must take the oath or be committed for contempt of court. None of the interested parties in the will contest would call her as a witness, so the Surrogate made her a Surrogate's witness. She charged that there was a conspiracy against her and asserted her belief that the Surrogate himself was a party to it. When she was asked to produce her wedding certificate and a deed she said the General had given her to his Eighty-sixth Street house she turned to the Surrogate and exclaimed:

"Neither you nor any other Irishman will make me produce them!"

The Surrogate reminded her that if she were a man or were younger she would be held accountable for such an utterance in a judicial proceeding, but that on account of her age and sex he would not take cognizance of her contempt.

It appeared that she had called at the office of Mr. Earle while the hearings before the Surrogate were in progress and had told him the story of her alleged marriage and an alleged conspiracy on the part of the proponents of the will. He had not thought that her story was plausible enough to require investigation.

Mrs. Davies testified that she conducted a home for foundlings in Rockland County, supported by subscriptions. She said she obtained the foundlings "from ash barrels, where they are left by members of the Four Hundred and other rich people."

Mrs. Davies said she married Gen. Eckert in the Fall of 1908, but she refused to give the name of the person who performed the ceremony or tell where the wedding took place. She said she met him and took luncheon with him at the Hotel Belmont. She had met him before, in 1867, and he had given her a job as a telegrapher. She also had an interest in him because, she said, her mother was a "cousin" of his.

Gen. Eckert told her at the Hotel Belmont luncheon, she said, that persons were persecuting him and threatening to put him in an asylum and that another woman wanted to marry him. He asked her to protect him, she testified, by marrying him. After the marriage, she said, she frequently took luncheon with Gen. Eckert, and on one occasion he gave her the deed to his Eighty-sixth Street house. She said she did not want any other share in his estate. If she should substantiate her marriage, she would be entitled to one-third of Gen. Eckert's realty.

Surrogate Cohalan spent two hours examining Mrs. Davies, and then ordered that she appear before him on Thursday, bringing with her the certificate of her alleged marriage to Gen. Eckert and the deed to his Eighty-sixth Street house, which she declared she had in a safe place in Washington.

Gen. Eckert was known to have been married twice. His second wife died in 1902.

CAR ROWDY SENT TO PRISON

First of the Spring Gets a Five-Day Sentence for His Conduct.

The first of the car rowdies who become so numerous at this time of year appeared in the Night Court early yesterday, and is now on Blackwell's Island for five days. Magistrate Kernochan said in sentencing him:

"The street car rowdy is one of the unpleasant harbingers of Spring. Every year he comes into prominence by his rowdyism on street, Subway, and elevated cars. He is one of the worst nuisances the people of New York have to contend with. This is the first one of the Spring, and I mean to make an example of him."

The prisoner, who said he was Michael Cullom, an ironworker, living at 117 East 112th Street, had aided three companions in attacking a car conductor who tried to keep them quiet. He said in court that they meant no harm and he was sorry.

WHERE BOSTON LEADS US.

National Censorship Secretary Says It Has the Best Moving Pictures.

They had a young man suffragist to speak to them yesterday at the meeting of the National League for the Civic Education of Women, Mrs. Gilbert Jones's anti-suffrage society, at its headquarters, 25 Madison Avenue. He was John Collier, Educational Secretary of the National Board of Censorship. He talked to the women of the moving picture problem.

Mrs. Jones opened the meeting by saying that on the other side of the water they did a great deal more for the amusement of the poor people than here, that she had been brought up in Germany, and would like the league to work not only for good moving picture shows for the poor, but to open the way to theatres, operas, and concerts for them.

"Boston has the best moving picture shows," said Mr. Collier, "and New York has the worst. The ruling limiting the audience at the moving picture shows to 299 in New York has made it impossible for the managers to do what they otherwise might like to do. They cannot afford to put up a fine fire-proof building, give proper ventilation, or a good show for that number of people. To make anything on it they give a short exhibition, run it along as quickly as possible—you may see a funeral procession in it going at a gallop—and they bring it to an end and turn out one audience and get another in as soon as possible, crowding in the school children, which is against the law. We must sweep away the many silly laws and put the shows under the direction of one department.

"Moving picture shows revolutionized the amusement world as printing revolutionized the literary. The drama is more fundamental than literature. It is a great human art. The mass of the people had no theatre ten years ago. There were a few marionettes around the country, a few melodramas, and the vaudeville performances, which are not drama. The moving picture shows have changed all of that."

Of the bad character of some of the pictures shown he said:

"The attitude of mind of the American people, which they get perhaps from their Puritan ancestors, is that all amusement is likely to be bad unless you make it good, and that what poor people like is vulgar because they are vulgar. The pictures began that way, but they purified themselves. This was one place where a poor man could go and take his whole family for 25 or 30 cents. The families went, they demanded something better in the pictures, and they have been steadily improving. The only good censorship is that at the fountainhead, and to get it one must forget lawmakers and work through friendly co-operation."

WANTS $25,000 FROM HANSON

Ex-Policeman Demands Damages from Him on Slander Charges.

Former Third Deputy Police Commissioner Bert Hanson, who served as Trial Commissioner under Gen. Bingham, is defendant in a suit for $25,000 damages for slander brought by Robert P. Cook, a former policeman, which is set down for trial this morning before Justice Stapleton in the Queens County Supreme Court.

Cook was attached to the Grand Avenue (Astoria) Station, and was on duty at the Astoria entrance to the Ninety-second Street Ferry, when a man named Savage alleged that Cook used abusive language to him. He made charges against Cook, and at the time of his trial, in the course of the examination, Cook alleges that the deputy said to him:

"I am going to take you over to Manhattan where I can keep my eye on you. You are a thug and a perjurer, and I'll break you." He also alleges that Hanson said to him: "You are a thug and you are one of the gang in the Two Hundred and Seventy-fourth Precinct. You are one of those policemen who think they can beat and hold up a man. You are a disgrace to the police force."

In his answer Mr. Hanson admits admonishing Cook and telling him that he was a disgrace to the police force. Later Cook was dismissed on charges. It is understood that he intends seeking reinstatement.

FIGHT TO SAVE STOOPS.

Realty Owners Protest Against Any Prohibitory Orders.

About a hundred representatives of taxpayers' and property owners' associations and realty companies appeared before a special committee of the Board of Estimate at City Hall yesterday to protest against the passage of a resolution proposed by Borough President Miller of the Bronx which would prohibit the erection of any building in the city in the future with a stoop or areaway extending beyond the building line.

President Miller issued a similar order for his borough last December, and he wants it enforced all over the city. Not an assenting voice was heard yesterday. All the speakers said it was not fair to prohibit the erection of these encroachments in the future while the existing ones are unmolested.

The hearing will be continued next Monday afternoon.

EMPTY GRAVES IN TRINITY CEMETERY

Removal of the Bodies There Discloses Strange Carelessness of Former Workmen.

NEW CHURCH FOR THE SITE

Old Broadway Bridge to be Abolished and Division Walls to be Pierced in Several Places.

The slender suspension bridge which spans Broadway between 153d and 155th Streets, connecting the two sections of Old Trinity Cemetery, which extends from Amsterdam Avenue westward to the Hudson, is to be torn down.

This news got out yesterday, and with it the statement that the Trinity Church Corporation is soon to make many changes in the appearance of this section of Broadway in connection with the erection of a new church in the cemetery to take the place of the Chapel of the Intercession, at 155th Street and Broadway.

The site now covered by the Chapel of the Intercession is to be put upon the market as soon as the new church is ready for occupancy. If this is not done, Trinity Corporation itself will erect and manage an apartment or business building on this valuable corner.

Preliminary work has already been begun toward the erection of the church in the cemetery. This consisted in the removal of between twenty and thirty graves from the northwest corner of Broadway and 155th Street to another part of the cemetery to make room for the church foundations. It was said yesterday that in several of these graves the coffins had apparently never been occupied. What had become of the bodies which had been destined to them, or why empty coffins had been buried, no one could say, but a representative of Trinity Corporation was asked about the report and confirmed it. He suggested as a possible explanation that when the bodies were removed forty-two years ago to permit of the extension of Broadway through the cemetery the workmen had been careless in the performance of their task, and in order to conceal the resultant confusion had buried empty coffins, so that the new graves might agree in number with the old.

Whatever the true explanation may be the discovery created much surprise. Apparently efforts had been made to keep the matter quiet, as some of those supposed to be familiar with Trinity's affairs had not heard of it until asked about it yesterday.

The removal of the suspension bridge over Broadway is to be commenced in the next few weeks, according to present plans. It is marked for destruction because, with the erection of the new church, the opening of the cemetery walls at this point will render it unnecessary. Access to the cemetery, where are buried several generations of prominent New Yorkers, and in which nearly all the old families of the city have sections, is at present through a gateway at the corner of 153d Street and Amsterdam Avenue. The bridge has to be crossed to reach the half of the cemetery west of Broadway.

At Broadway the cemetery level is 15 feet above that of the street, and the inclosure is buttressed by a picturesque stone wall, ranging from 6 to 15 feet in height. It is planned, in connection with the new church, to open this wall on both sides of Broadway, giving access to the cemetery and church from Broadway up some stone steps. This will necessitate cutting down the embankment. Trinity now has to rent a vicarage for the vicar at the Chapel of the Intercession. The erection of a home for him in the cemetery will constitute a considerable economy.

It was first determined to erect the church in the diagonal corner of the cemetery at Amsterdam Avenue and 153d Street, but another Episcopal Church, not affiliated with Trinity, opposed this so strenuously, on the ground that it would constitute an invasion of its territory, that the plan was changed in order to escape criticism. Designs for the church and other buildings call for an expenditure of more than $300,000. The church is to seat more than 1,000 persons. Ground for the new structures will probably be broken in less than thirty days.

HAVEMEYER ESTATE REPLIES.

Widow and Children Answer in Government's Suit Against Sugar Trust.

Louisine W. Havemeyer, widow of Henry O. Havemeyer, and her children, Horace H. Havemeyer, Adeline Frelinghuysen, and Electra H. Webb, individually and as the executors of the H. O. Havemeyer estate, filed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court answers to the Government's suit seeking the dissolution of the Sugar Trust on the ground that it is an illegal combination in restraint of trade.

The answers are largely given up to a recital of the circumstances under which H. O. Havemeyer, John E. Parsons, and James H. Post brought the National Sugar Refining Company into the American Company, and obtained for themselves and others, including Washington B. Thomas, until lately President of the American Sugar Refining Company, 100,000 shares of the common stock of the National Sugar Refining Company, which H. O. Havemeyer tried later to sell to the Trust.

The answers deny that this deal represented a conspiracy to destroy competition which had previously existed among the American Sugar Refining Company, the National, and the New York and Mollenhauer Sugar Refining Companies, although they admit the various agreements entering into the deal, which took place in 1900.

The assertion is made that the average annual profit of the National Sugar Refining Company from 1902 to 1910 amounted to $1,602,000, which, the answers points out, would be sufficient to pay a dividend of 6 per cent. on its preferred stock, requiring $900,000; a dividend of 7 per cent. on its common stock, requiring $700,000, and to leave an annual surplus of $302,000.

This is cited as justifying the judgment of the Directors of the National in issuing $10,000,000 preferred and $10,000,000 common stock. The answers deny that James H. Post distributed $2,500 shares of National Sugar preferred to the stockholders of the old companies going into that merger, and asserts that Mr. Post delivered but 37,500 shares of this stock and retained 45,000 shares, which he paid for in cash with funds raised by his firm, B. F. Howell & Co., and funds from the private fortunes of H. O. Hevemeyer and his wife.

TO REVISE PANAMA RATES.

Plan Proposed by Secretary Dickinson Discussed by Directors.

The stockholders of the Panama Railroad Company met yesterday and re-elected the retiring Directors, and the Directors re-elected the retiring officers. Secretary of War Dickinson and Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, were in attendance.

The contract for supplying coal to the company for the ensuing year was awarded to the Pocahontas Fuel Company at a price which means a large saving to the Government. The contract is for a maximum of 550,000 tons at $2.51 a ton, and a contract for its transportation to Panama at $1.29½ a ton was approved. Delivered at Panama the coal will cost $3.80½, as against $3.94½ last year.

Joint rates for the railroad and the Atlantic and Pacific steamship lines were discussed. It is intended that the new schedule shall go into effect on April 24. Prior to 1909 the charges were so high that traffic dropped off almost entirely. A flat rate of $8 a ton was made on freight from California ports to New York, via Panama, of which 70 per cent. went to the Pacific steamship lines, 13½ to the railroad, and 16½ to the Atlantic steamers.

In order to maintain the volume of traffic and make it remunerative, Secretary Dickinson has been working on a plan to change the basis of division and abolish the flat rate in favor of classified rates, some of them as low as $7 a ton. About three weeks ago he made a tentative proposal on the basis of 60 per cent. to the Pacific carriers, 18 to the railroad, and 22 to the Atlantic lines. This has practically been agreed to by the two Pacific connections, the Pacific Mail and the California & Atlantic Steamship Company.

Mrs. Russell Sage has given $2,500 to pay the rent of the Woman Suffrage Party headquarters, 1 Madison Avenue, for the coming year, and Mrs. Catt, head of the party, has presented it with $500 toward its expenses as a parting gift before she starts for Stockholm and a suffrage organizing trip around the world.

The Woman's Political Union has a new Executive Secretary, Miss Caroline Lexow, who was at one time with the Collegiate Equal Suffrage League, and acted for a time as State Suffrage Organizer for Mrs. Mackay.

GOV. DIX SEES AN OCULIST.

Dines with August Belmont and Goes to the Opera.

Gov. Dix, while in town yesterday, consulted with his oculist about refitting his glasses. He will return to Albany to-day. He took luncheon with R. A. C. Smith at the Larchmont Yacht Club, and then spent the afternoon with the specialist. He and Mrs. Dix dined with August Belmont and his wife, and then went to the opera with them.

The Governor said he expected to hold no conference of importance before returning to Albany. He has not yet selected his new Banking Superintendent or Senator-elect O'Gorman's successor on the bench. He said he expected to hold a conference with Supt. Cheney on the bank investigation, now going on before the District Attorney, some time this week.

"Do you meditate asking for a legislative investigation on the lines of the insurance investigation?" he was asked.

"No," he replied; "the work will be done by the State Banking Department and the Attorney General's office."

Wireless Stock Dealers to be Tried.

Judge Learned Hand, in the United States Circuit Court yesterday, overruled the latest demurrers interposed against the indictments returned against Col. C. C. Wilson and his co-workers in the United Wireless Telegraph Company stock selling scheme. The indictments charge misuse of the mails in a plan to defraud. The defendants will be called for trial on April 20.

PRENDERGAST HOTLY CONTRADICTS GAYNOR

What Mayor Wrote About Controller's Approval of Charter Is Untrue, He Says.

EACH ISSUES A STATEMENT

The Mayor Raps His Critics and the Controller Talks Back Plainly—"Let It Rest at That," Concludes Mayor.

Controller Prendergast flatly declared yesterday that Mayor Gaynor had told an untruth in a controversy which has risen between them over the proposed changes in the administration of the Finance Department suggested in the Charter presented to the Legislature on behalf of the Mayor last week. In discussing it the Mayor said the Controller personally approved the proposed lessening of the Controller's jurisdiction.

"I wish flatly to contradict the Mayor and say that this statement is untrue," said the Controller when he was told of it.

When the Controller's statement was repeated to the Mayor, he said:

"Let it rest at that."

The Mayor's statement on the proposed new Charter read:

"Since you ask me I do not mind saying a word about the proposed new Charter. The Charter Commission, of which the Hon. Julius N. Mayer is counsel, postponed the introduction of a new Charter last Winter at the request of Borough President McAneny and myself, so that the city officials might read the proposed Charter and change it if necessary. No city official had read it or been consulted about it. The principal draftsman of it lived in Syracuse, and his assistans lived in other remote parts of the State. In June last I called together all of the heads of the departments, including the Controller, and presented each of them with a copy of the proposed Charter of the Mayor Commission, and asked them to read it carefully, and suggest amendments or changes, or criticise it in any way. They passed a resolution that I appoint a committee of them to work on the matter, and I appointed the committee. The Corporation Counsel also announced at the meeting that he would organize a committee of his staff to lick it into shape and form a proposed new Charter from all the suggestions which the officials should make. He appointed such a committee, and from time to time the heads of the departments sent in their suggestions.

Caustic Toward His Critics.

"When I went aboard steamer on Aug. 9 to take a vacation I brought aboard with me three copies of the proposed Mayer Charter, and also copies of all the reports of all the Charter commissions which had existed since the new city was formed. I purposed to work several hours a day reading them and marking them, so that when I returned I would be able to sit down and work effectively, I hoped, in helping to frame a new Charter. But this purpose was never fulfilled, as you know. After I finally got back to my office the 1st of October, I began to stimulate the work on the Charter, and the committee appointed to revise and draft it in the Corporation Counsel's office has worked ever since, not constantly, but whenever they could, and I have helped them in so far as I could.

"While others have had their heads filled with vice or crime waves or some other nonsense we have been working all the while on things like that. The committee finally produced a tentative charter. I tried every way I could to get the men who were working on the so-called Meyer charter to come down to the Corporation Counsel's office and work with that committee. Mr. Mayer wanted it done also, but some of the people, who wanted to play a partisan role, in place of a role looking solely to the benefit of the city, prevented that from being done. As it is, it is our purpose to take this tentative draft to Albany and have also the draft of the Mayer charter, which is, however, incomplete, read and compared with it, so that the best may be adopted from each. We have kept every partisan thing out of our proposed draft.

Up to the Controller.

"You tell me that the Controller says his office is stripped and that he can go off to Florida. I beg to say to you that every change made in the Controller's office has been with his approval, expressed by him to me personally, so that I know the remarks in the newspapers attributed to him were not uttered by him. It is not possible that he uttered them. The proposed changes are also in the Ivins charter. We simply take the collection of market rents and the management of the markets out of the Controller's office, and also the collection of taxes. He told me personally that these things did not belong in his office.

"There were political people who wanted to take the great auditing power out of the Controller's office and create a separate department of audit, as is the rule in most cities, but I objected to it, and it was not done. We also establish a department of engineering and topography for the city. That has been recommended over and over again by charter commissions. Indeed, it is extraordinary that the thing has not been done before. We create a department of markets and weights and measures. We also consolidate the licensing in one department. It is now scattered around in different departments. We also propose a small paid Board of Education. These are the principal changes.

"I am certain that I have nothing in view except to produce a good charter. The old charter is nothing but a rehash of the original charter of the new city. That was the most unscientific and bungling instrument of government ever produced. It was the product of the scissors and gluepot. They simply cut out things from the Brooklyn charter and the New York charter and pasted them together as best they could. Our proposed new charter is only one-third the size of the old charter, and I am certain that if some of us had the time we could make it even shorter."

The Controller had this to say:

Warm Retort from Prendergast.

"'Since you ask me,' I do not mind saying a word about the Mayor's statement regarding the proposed new charter. The Mayor says: 'I beg to say to you that every change made in the Controller's office has been made with his approval expressed by him to me personally.'

"'I wish flatly to contradict the Mayor and say that this statement is untrue.

"I did tell the Mayor, and now tell the public, that I am in favor of a city department for the collection of city revenue, this department to have charge of the collection of taxes, arrears, and assessments, market rents, dock privileges, water rents, and all other forms and sources of city revenue.

"In the presence of Mr. Mitchel, President of the Board of Aldermen, and Engineer Nichols of the Bureau of Franchises, last week, I told him that I was very much in favor of this new department. I elaborated upon my idea by explaining that in my opinion the Chamberlain should be the city's banker, and that he should be charged exclusively with the duty of banking the city's receipts and the management of those receipts; that as the banker he should not be the collector, and, further, that the Controller was in fact the city's auditor, and as the city's auditor he should not be a collector of city revenue, because it put him in the position of auditing himself, so that to my mind the solution of the problem was the establishment of a separate department for the collection of all city revenue.

"I want to say further, the present Controller of the City of New York was never consulted by the Law Department in regard to any of the changes that appear in the proposed new charter. The present idea of the Mayor and his advisers seems to be to justify their assault upon the Controller's office by hiding behind the recommendations of the Ivins Commission. It is interesting to see the Mayor appealing for justification to William M. Ivins."

ARBITRATION A DUTY.

Ambassador Hill Says Courts, Not Armies, Should Safeguard Commerce.

"It is the duty of the modern State to appear before an arbitrational tribunal before resorting to war," declared Ambassador David Jayne Hill in the concluding lecture of his course at Columbia University yesterday on the James S. Carpentier Foundation.

Dr. Hill spoke to a distinguished audience, in which were Gen. Horace Porter, ex-Ambassador to France; Joseph H. Choate, ex-Ambassador to the Court of St. James's, and former Mayor Seth Low.

In reviewing the history of arbitration, Dr. Hill referred in glowing terms to the services rendered in this field by Messrs. Porter, Choate, and Low.

"The utility of international conferences," said Dr. Hill, "is not to be measured by their immediate agreements, but by the incontestable principles which issue from them, for these are the indications of future possibilities.

"The modern State has come to recognize the fact that it is not derogatory to a State's dignity if it appears voluntarily before a court of law for the adjudication of a claim against it." As an instance of this growing feeling Dr. Hill cited the American Court of Claims, into which the Government now consents to come for the settlement of litigation.

"Business men," Dr. Hill said, "demand international peace. They want the protection of courts, and not of armies. Capital knows no country. International courts of arbitration should be based on law and not upon diplomacy."

It was announced yesterday that Dr. Hill's Carpentier lectures will be published in book form by the university.

Dismiss Theft Charge Against Lamb.

With the consent of the District Attorney, Justice Wyatt in Special Sessions yesterday dismissed the charge of larceny against Walter C. Lamb of East Orange, N. J., who was arrested several days ago for not paying a bill at the Hotel St. Regis, where he gave a dinner to several friends. His lawyer said that restitution would be made, and that the young man would be sent to a sanitarium at Morris Plains, N. J. There were three other warrants from Jersey City officials charging Lamb with grand larceny under similar circumstances. These will also be withdrawn as soon as he is committed to the sanitarium.

COX OUT OF HIDING SAVED FROM ARREST

Prosecutor, Ready to Take Him to Another County, Stopped by Judge's Ruling.

GIVES NEW BOND OF $1,000

Voluntarily Appears in Court—Cincinnati Republican Leader's Lawyers Still Fight for Delay.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, April 3.—The only thing that saved George B. Cox from being arrested and taken to Clermont County this afternoon to answer the charges of perjury before Judge Frank Davis at the Batavia Court House was a ruling by Judge Charles J. Hunt of the Common Pleas Court in Cincinnati, to the effect that the change of venue granted by Judge Frank M. Gorman on Friday was null and void, and that the case must be tried here.

Prosecutor Hunt had County Detective Barclay sworn in as a Deputy Sheriff of Clermont County. It is also understood that he had Sheriff Thomas C. Geal of Clermont County in Cincinnati looking for Cox to arrest him on the bench warrant issued by Judge Gorman on Friday. After Judge Hunt's decision Prosecutor Hunt appeared in Criminal Courts and stated that he will fight to have the case taken to Batavia.

"You just say for me that any time the prosecutor wishes to arrest me and take me to Clermont County he will not have to kidnap me," said Cox this afternoon. "I shall be glad to go if they place me under arrest. I have an automobile up home which they may use if they want to. But if they do kidnap me—well, I'll make it pretty warm for Hunt if he takes that action. I am going from this barber shop up to Wiebert's café and will remain there until about 8:30, at which time I will return to my home for the rest of the night. Kindly notify Prosecutor Hunt where he can find me."

Mr. Cox returned to Cincinnati—if he has ever been away—this morning. It was about noon when he appeared before Judge Hunt and gave bond in $1,000, which was signed by Lee H. Brooks. He immediately left the courtroom and returned to his bank, the Cincinnati Trust Company.

After the bond was signed Judge Hunt took up the first affidavit of bias and prejudice which was filed against Judge Gorman by attorneys for the Republican leader. They explained that this had been made to obtain a fair trial for their client. Prosecutor Hunt made no comment, and Judge Hunt stated that Judge Gorman could not hear the case as he had left the criminal branch of the court on Saturday and is now trying cases in another room at the Court House. It then devolved upon Judge Hunt to designate a Judge to hear the case, and this he promised to do to-morrow afternoon.

When the second affidavit charging prejudice against Judge Gorman was taken up Prosecutor Hunt said that the case should not be tried in the local courts, and that it belonged to Clermont County.

Gov. Colton of Porto Rico Here.

Among those who arrived yesterday on the Carolina from San Juan was Gov. Colton of Porto Rico. The Governor said that he came to New York for a rest. He would not discuss affairs on the island. Another passenger was Rudolph Aronson, who said he had obtained options on two five-acre sites in San Juan, upon one of which the Porto Rico Hotels and Springs and Development Company would build a modern hotel, and also an option on the Coamo Springs and Hotel.

CAMORRA BELIEVES IN ERRICONE'S TRIUMPH

Looks for Acquittal Without Being Obliged to Call Witnesses for Defense.

DE MARINIS HEARD TO-DAY

Man Charged with Planning Cuocolo Murder Has Record Which Implicates Neapolitan Authorities.

VITERBO, April 3.—In their cells at the mediaeval monastry of Santa Maria in Gradi to-day the accused Camorrists gloated over what they described as the triumph of Enrico Alfano, alias "Erricone," in the court of the Assizes, Friday and Saturday.

As a whole they are satisfied with the development of the case and they believe that they will be acquitted of the charge of murdering the Cuocolos without even being obliged to introduce witnesses in their defense.

Alfano, who repeatedly interrupted his interrogation to harangue the court and jury and denying that he was the actual head of the Camorra and proclaiming the innocence of himself and associates, is more than ever a hero in the eyes of his fellow prisoners. He has received many messages of congratulation from Naples.

All of the lawyers for the defense visited the prison and conferred with their clients during the day.

Gennaro de Marinis, commonly known as "Mandriere," who is charged with planning the murder of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife, will be called for interrogation when the trial is resumed to-morrow. He will be the fourth prisoner questioned who bears the scar (The "sfregio" or sign of Camorra punishment) from a razor slash upon the cheek. De Marinis has shouted so much during the examination of others that he is quite hoarse and there is some disappointment, because he will not be able to display his oratorical powers to the best advantage.

Giovanni Rapi, the Treasurer of the Camorra, and known as the proprietor of gambling resorts in Naples, Rome, Paris, and Ostend, said that he would prove that the Italian Government intended to appoint him a Consul in Egypt, where he purposed to establish a gambling house. At present he said he was the head of the Southern Club of Naples, which was in reality a gambling association.

The trial which began three weeks ago with the reading of the indictment and hearing the pleas of Nicola Morra, Mariano di Gennaro, Corrado Sortino, and Antonio Cerrato, who are accused of being the ctive principals in Cuocolo's death; of Ferdinando de Matteo, who is said to have lured Cuocolo to his doom, and of Giuseppe Salvi, who, with Sortino is accused of having slain Cuocolo's wife, reached the second stage last Friday with the interrogation of the "ideatori e mandanti principali," or principal instigators of the crime.

These include Alfano, Gennaro de Marinis, Giovanni Rapi, Luigi Fucci, Gennaro Ibelli, and Luigi Arena. After they have been heard, those, not heretofore mentioned, who were the members of the Court of the Camorra, which is believed to have sentenced the Cuocolos to death, will be called.

De Marinis, who will be heard to-day, will prove a particularly interesting witness. He is a great criminal; at the same time he represents the type of the unsuccessful Camorrista—the bête-noir of the honorable society. His testimony will concern the charge that on Aug. 7, 1905, at Chiatamone, and later at the Ponte di Chiaia he suffered loss of the booty of robberies planned by Cuocolo; that in April, 1906, he received a letter from Luigi Arena, written in Lampedusa prison, complaining that he was there through the treason of Cuocolo, and demanding that the vendetta be pronounced.

After the reception of this letter, which Abbatemaggio declares was shown to Alfano, de Matteo, and Morra, the Camorra Court, made up of two heads of each of the twelve districts, was called at the Aida Tavern in Bagnoli, a suburb of Naples, May 26, 1906.

De Marinis is also charged with having received Cuocolo's gold ring marked with the monogram "G. C." from Sortino and of delivering it to Salvi together with $4 for Arena's sister, Concetta, the money to be used by her and the ring to Arena in prison, as a sign that the vendetta had been carried out.

This ring was found in a search made by the Carabinieri of Salvi's house on Feb. 8, 1907.

But the principal charge against de Marinis is that he planned the Cuocolo murder. This plan, according to Abbatemaggio, consisted in informing Cuocolo that a diamond robbery might be committed at an unguarded house at Torre Annunziata, beyond Torre del Greco; that Cuocolo in his character as "basista" should go there to plan the crime; that he should be killed while on the way, and that Cuocolo's wife should be slain at about the same time at their home in Naples.

All this de Marinis is said to have arranged, while its active direction was left to Ferdinando de Matteo. The plans are supposed to have been laid out at the home of Maria Stendardo, the sweetheart of Morra, at 6 Via Guantai Vecchi, Naples, and directed by de Matteo at the Caffè del Molo.

The former career of Gennaro de Marinis, alias "o Mandiere," or "the cattle driver," because he worked in a slaughterhouse, offers, in the opinion of Capt. Fabroni of the Carabinieri, who, disguised as a clerk from the Ministry of Justice, delved into the court records, abundant proof of the collusion of the Neapolitan police and judiciary with the Camorra. Incidentally it reveals why de Marinis was considered the bête- noir of the society from his habit of being arrested.

In spite of his humble profession, de Marinis often dressed in the height of fashion, and could frequently be seen strolling along the Via Toledo or sitting in a caffè in the Galleria Umbreto Primo, usually with an elegantly dressed woman. When he frequented the popular resorts of the Camorristi, such as the Caffè Fortunio or the Caffè del Molo, he was more subdued in his attire. It would not have been well for him to be thought too prosperous.

While Alfano has one "sfregio" across his right cheek de Marinis has two. His criminal record is also more prolific. He was born in Naples in the Vicoli di Santa Lucia district forty-four years ago. At the age of 14 he had been sent up for three days for successful pocket picking. Before he was 18 he had been many times arrested for the same offense and for robbery. Each time he received a light sentence.

At the age of 24 he killed Giuseppe Aurino in a "dichiaremento," or planned quarrel. For this crime he only served 13 months 10 days. When he was 25, in 1892, he was sentenced to only six months for being an accomplice in a murder. However, two years later he received eighteen months for extortion against a poor woman, Palmira Infante. After leaving prison he received two weeks for assaulting Carlo Siena. In 1897 he was less fortunate, for he was sentenced to four years for stabbing and mortally wounding Eugenio Gillo. He spent only three years behind the bars, being released on account of "good conduct."

The year 1900 brought him only three days' imprisonment—this for assaulting a policeman.

In spite of this magnificent record, still De Marinis was never placed under police surveillance. Once a Judge tried to place him there, and had no reason to congratulate himself for the designation bestowed. It was in 1897, just before the four years' sentence. The Judge boldly placed the name of De Marinis among the "sorvegliati speciali" and turned the list over to the Questora, or local police. De Marinis was indignant, but merciless. He appeared before the Judge and declared that he obtained his main support from a certain "profitable profession" known in English as the "white slave traffic," with which, it is alleged, the Judge had peculiar affiliations which De Marinis threatened to reveal.

And he not only caused his name to be removed from the list of those under surveillance, but actually brought a suit for defamation of character against the Judge and won it by default.

Such a deplorable state of law and order seems incredible, but this is only one of the many instances unearthed by Capt. Fabroni.

Dublin Snubs King George.

DUBLIN, April 3.—The Corporation of Dublin voted to "proceed with the next business" when a resolution proposing a loyal address on the occasion of King George's approaching visit was introduced at a meeting to-day.

The vote of the Council was 42 to 9.

$25,000 FOR GERMAN FLIGHT.

Zeitung Am Mittag Announces Contest for Native Aviators.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 3.—The Zeitung Am Mittag, which conducted the Paris and New York globe-girdling automobile race in 1909 in conjunction with The Paris Matin and THE NEW YORK TIMES, to-day announces a prize of $25,000 for a trans-German aeroplane flight, to be competed for in the coming Summer.

The competition will be patterned after that of The London Daily Mail, which offers $50,000 for a race around Great Britain. It is intended at present to allow only German aviators to compete, but the admission of Austrian airmen is being considered.

The race will begin and end at Berlin, and will embrace the following towns: Hamburg, Bremen, Magdeburg, Münster, Düsseldorf, Aix la Chapelle, and Dessau.

The event is the outcome of the withdrawal of the German section from the Paris Journal's projected Paris-Berlin-Brussels-London race, that portion of the route having been excluded at the eleventh hour, owing to an outbreak of anti-German Chauvinism in the French press.

The London Daily Mail recently announced its conditions for the 1,000-mile aeroplane race around Great Britain for a prize of $50,000. This contest is to begin on Saturday, July 22, and to finish at the latest on Aug. 5. The race is open to competitors of any nationality holding an aviator's certificate from the International Aeronautical Federation, and an entrance fee of $500 is required from each competitor. This is to be used to defray the expenses of the Royal Aero Club in conducting the competition.

The contest will be divided into five sections, and the order of starting is to be by lot. The Daily Mail said that the object of the contest was to impose conditions to spur inventors and designers to the production of a thoroughly practical and efficient flying machine. No gimcrack freak is likely to survive the severe test, which is not so much designed for swiftness as for strength and endurance.

VETO BILL IN COMMITTEE.

1,000 Amendments Already Prepared —No New Peers to Force Passage.

LONDON, April 3.—The real work on the Veto bill designed to restrict the powers over legislation of the House of Lords was begun to-day with the opening of the committee stage in the House of Commons. The scene in the House indicated the intensity of the public interest. Every available ticket of admission had been disposed of days before, and many hundreds who had hoped to witness the proceedings were disappointed.

The debate will be long and keen. Already over 1,000 amendments, occupying seventy-four printed pages, have been prepared, and are bound to result in heated discussions and protracted sittings. It is the avowed intention of the Government to send the measure to the upper chamber by the middle of May, but veteran Members of Parliament doubt the possibility of this.

King George will not exercise the royal prerogative so far as to interfere with this or any other like measure. In a message sent to the upper chamber in reply to an address from the Lords today, his Majesty says:

"Relying upon the wisdom of my Parliament, I desire that my prerogatives and powers, in so far as they relate to the creation of peerages and to the issue of writs of summons to the Lords spiritual and temporal to attend, to sit and vote in the House of Lords, should not stand in the way of consideration by Parliament of any measure that may be introduced at the present session on the subject of the constitution of the House of Lords."

SPANISH MINISTRY FORMED.

Canalejas Redistributes Portfolios as a Condition of Retaining Premiership.

MADRID, April 3.—The Canalejas Ministry, as reorganized, was gazetted today. The changes were dictated by the Premier, who was given free rein by King Alfonso as a condition upon which he withdrew his resignation of Saturday. The Ministers announced are:

PREMIER—Jose Canalejas y Mendez.
MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS—Garcia Prieto.
MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR—Ruis Valarine.
MINISTER OF WAR—Gen. de Luque.
MINISTER OF MARINE—Senor Pidal.
MINISTER OF JUSTICE—Senor Barroso.
MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS—Senor Gasset.
MINISTER OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION—Senor Gimeno.
MINISTER OF FINANCE—Senor Rodrigues.

Rodrigues succeeds Señor Cobian, who is said not to have been wholly in sympathy with the religious reform programme of the Premier. Señors Prieto and Gasset retain their portfolios. Señor Valarino, who was Minister of Justice, becomes Minister of the Interior, and is succeeded in his former post by Señor Barroso, who was at the head of the Ministry of Public Instruction in the Moret Cabinet, but is new in the Canalejas Ministry, as the others are. Gen. de Luque held the portfolio of War in the Moret Cabinet.

TURKS ROUT ALBANIANS.

Bashi-Bazouks Rescue Garrison They Beleaguered and Slaughter Many.

CETTINJE, Montenegro, April 3.—Turkish bashi-bazouks, summoned to the aid of the beleaguered garrison of Tuzi, in the vilayet of Scutari, Albania, routed the rebellious Albanians with great slaughter all along the line.

Tuzi was relieved and the Albanians driven to the mountains.

PLAGUE REACHES JAVA.

109 Die in the Eastern Part of Dutch Colony.

THE HAGUE, April 3.—The presence of the plague in Eastern Java is officially confirmed. In the vicinity of Malang alone there have been forty-six cases, twenty-six of which were fatal.

According to a telegram from Batavia, the capital, the total of deaths is in the neighborhood of 100.

AID FOR WORKERS.

New Employment Exchange Branch Opposite Cooper Union.

The National Employment Exchange, a noteworthy east side enterprise, which has long since passed the experimental stage and has demonstrated its efficiency and the need of its services in all its published reports, has grown to such size as to require another branch department. The new branch, where both skilled and unskilled workmen can look for work, will be on Cooper Square, opposite Cooper Union. There are meetings in Cooper Union nightly, and the employment exchange is designed to furnish a loitering and reading room for the crowds who attend them.

Among those who are interested in the National Employment Exchange are Otto T. Bannard, President; John R. Arthur, Vice President; Paul M. Warburg, Treasurer, and Jacob H. Schiff, Robert W. de Forest, Frederick G. Bourne, George Blumenthal, and Francis L. Hine, Directors.

PENSION FOR W. B. YEATS.

Asquith Gives Civil Allowance of $750 a Year to Irish Poet.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 3.—The Irish Booklover says that Mr. Asquith has conferred a civil pension of £150 ($750) a year on W. B. Yeats, the Irish poet.

Several of Mr. Yeats's plays were presented here at matinée performances in 1908 by the Irish National Theatre Company. This company first produced a comedy of his called "A Pot of Broth" on Feb. 18, 1908. Mr. Yeats is a leader in the Gaelic movement, and in 1899 he started the Irish Theatre in Dublin. At first he had only English players, but soon succeeded in establishing a company of Irish actors, all young men and young women of Dublin. This company produced many of his plays in Ireland and also succeeded in making a very favorable impression in England.

Mr. Yeats in an interview said he was astonished at the success of the movement. "Of course," said he, "it is only assisting the great Gaelic movement which has aroused the interests of the English themselves in the language and literature of Ireland.

"The Gaelic movement, it must be understood, is not political. But it may advance a people to have their own language, their own literature, their own art to nationhood."

Mr. Yeats was born in Dublin and reared at the rectory at Doundliffe, in County Sligo. He is the most distinguished representative of the contemporary Irish literary revival. Some of his better-known poems include "The Countess Cathleen," "The Land of Heart's Desire," "The Shadowy Waters," and "The Wind Among the Reeds." He had previously visited this country in 1904 and lectured at some of the principal universities. As a poet he is distinctively and agreeably Irish in manner as well as theme. He took part in forming the Irish Literary Society and the National Literary Society of Dublin.

SUES LEDERLE FOR SLANDER.

Inspector Asks $25,000 for What Health Commissioner Said in a Speech.

Isaac Gruber, an Inspector in the Health Department, is suing Health Commissioner Lederle for $25,000 damages for alleged slander. He says the Commissioner on Jan. 27, in an address before the City Club, said:

"We have now in our employ a dishonest Inspector, who condemned a carload of good potatoes, and after condemning them sold them on the east side, and is now under suspension for this."

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum ordered Gruber yesterday to state whether or not he based his suit on more than one utterance of the alleged quotation of the Commissioner, and if so on what other occasions he alleged the Commissioner slandered him.

$100 FOR BEING CANED.

Damages Against Hammond, Typewriter Man, Who Is an Invalid.

A jury before Supreme Court Justice Delany awarded $100 damages to Horace G. Allen, whom James B. Hammond, the typewriter manufacturer and an invalid, struck with a cane. Allen sued Hammond for $10,000. The provocation of the assault was Allen's refusal to return five shares of stock in Hammond's company which had been given to him to qualify him as a Director. Hammond testified that he had been an invalid for many years and was weak and thin at the time of the altercation.

Diamond Used to Steal Diamonds.

CHICAGO, April 3.—The burglar who a week ago robbed a Chicago jewelry store of several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds, made his second haul early today. Jewels worth $500 were taken out through a hole cut in the plate-glass show windows of another store, the hole being cut, as in the first robbery, with a diamond and the glass removed by a wet piece of leather pressed against it and then pulled out by a strong cord attached.

JEWISH NATIONALISM A MYTH, SAYS SCHIFF

Tells Columbia Students That All Jews in This Country Are a Part of the Nation.

OWE ALLEGIANCE TO IT

Thinks University Graduates Should Bend Their Efforts to All Social Problems.

Speaking to about 200 Jewish students of Columbia University before the Columbia Menorah Society, in Kent Hall, last night, Jacob H. Schiff declared that the first duty of Jews is to work for the weal of the community in which they live, and that, despite insistence in some quarters that the Jews are more than a people and still a nation, he could not emphasize too strongly the fact that those who have come here belong to the American Nation, and never will politically seek or hope for a future in another.

Mr. Schiff, who was introduced by the society's President, Isidore Blum, as "Honorary President of the Harvard Menorah Society," explained with a smile that he didn't usually travel under that title.

"When I was of your age, the percentage of our people in this community was comparatively small," he said. "Now we have grown to a mighty host, and Jews make themselves felt in every walk of life. With our privileges, however, our responsibilities also have increased. While we should ever be firm in our insistence that there is only one class of Americans and that discrimination must not follow attachment to any religious sect, we must also be careful not to raise, by our own efforts, the very class barriers we desire to eliminate.

"The future of American Jews, particularly in this city and State, will be determined in large measure by the standing Jewish university men attain in the city and Nation. They are not only representative of public opinion, but to a great extent help form it. It is therefore necessary that he model his conduct so as to cast credit on his people, upon whom also his shortcomings are likely to be visited.

"The weal of the community in which we live must ever be our first concern. Especially now, when we hear it urged in some quarters that we are more than a people, that we are still a nation. I cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that, proud as we should be of our past, we who are planted in this great Nation belong to it, and to no other, and that politically we never can or will seek or hope for a future in another.

"It is praiseworthy to promote educational effort of any sort in the land that was the cradle of the Jewish people and that is still a refuge for many of them, but beyond that, warm as may be our attachment to our people and faith, we must not go if we wish to claim the high privilege which American citizenship bestows upon us."

Mr. Schiff said he hoped the Menorah Society would succeed in drawing into its membership the larger part of the 1,000 Jewish students at Columbia.

"Even here, at the fountain head of culture and learning," he said, "you are met, I believe, by prejudice in many ugly forms. Do not mind this. Proceed, straightforward and undeterred, on the path the you have marked out for yourselves. By dignified and self-respecting conduct you can win respect far more than by pushing your way into exclusive societies."

Mr. Schiff delared that the enormous increase of Jewish population in this city in the last decade should receive the most earnest consideration of the college men, and that they should co-operate with all movements that seek to solve the problems resulting from this great increase of population, especially with the Big Brother Movement.

"With the tremendous growth of tenement districts in New York City in recent years," he said, "it is but natural that some of the juveniles, congested in narrow districts, should fall prey to the lure of the streets and depart from the ways that make an honest and upright life. Many of them, however, need no more than a friendly hand, willing to extend the grasp of brotherhood and friendship to them. I suggest that your society look into this important problem, to help elevate and guide where help and guidance are most needed."

BOUGHT THE PRESIDENCY.

Stockholder in Slate Company Charges G. B. Kingsley with Larceny.

Glenville B. Kingsley, a merchant, who has offices at 140 Nassau Street and lives at 1,093 Boulevard East, West New York, was arrested yesterday on two charges of grand larceny, preferred by Harry L. Lennox of 508 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, and Edward Styles, a real estate dealer of 149 Nassau Street. Bail was not furnished and he was locked up at Police Headquarters. He will be arraigned in the Tombs Court this morning. According to Lennox, Kingsley advertised in a newspaper for a partner to invest $1,000 in the New York and New Jersey Slate Company. Lennox says that he gave that amount to Kingsley upon the latter's promise to make him President of the company. Lennox subsequently found that the money had been deposited in the First National Bank of Union, N. J., in Kingsley's name.

Styles charges Kingsley with the larceny of certain affidavits drawn up by him and Lennox when this deal was made, and of vouchers on the First National Bank of Union for the amount of $225, which, he alleges, Kingsley purloined from a desk in his office.

FOOD LAW VIOLATORS FINED.

Six Dealers Punished for Selling Articles That Were Unfit for the Table.

Six men were fined in Special Sessions yesterday for having violated the pure food laws. They were Joseph and Santislaus Fleischer of 267 Bowery, Isidore Leibowitc of 324 East 121st Street, Philip Fiumefreddo of 220 East Twenty-ninth Street, Henry B. Leis of 1,241 Lexington Avenue, and Michael Levey of 166 Orchard Street.

Joseph and Santisalus Fleischer run a chain of restaurants and were fined $100 each for buying condemned ham from the Brooklyn Navy Yard and selling it in their restaurants on the Bowery. They were fined another $100 for having in their possession twelve pounds of decayed pork sausage, twelve pounds of diseased liver, and thirty-four one-half gallon cans of tomatoes which were bad.

Leibowitc, Fiumefreddo, and H. B. Leis, all butchers, were fined $25 each for having sulphurous acid on meat. Levey, also a butcher, was fined $25 for offering for sale twenty chickens unfit for food.

LOST POLICE PATRONAGE.

Martin Basler, an Old Flatbush Tailor, Attempts Suicide with a Razor.

Martin Basler, 67 years old, a tailor of 105 Snyder Avenue, attempted suicide yesterday. Basler was a tradesman of Flatbush before the village was annexed to the city of Brooklyn. His shop was only a few doors from Town Hall. Later he became the official police tailor. But a few months ago the police discovered a new tailor who, they believed, did better work. Basler grew despondent after they had transferred their patronage.

Policeman Pfeiffer, looking into Basler's shop early yesterday morning, saw him with a rozor in his hand. Pfeiffer opened the door and sprang at Basler, but the latter had already severed his jugular vein. He was taken to the King's County Hospital, where his condition was found to be desperate.

"It takes nine tailors to make a man—"

What the Custom Tailors Hoped to Do And What Gimbel Experts Did.

The custom tailors have had a hard time of it during recent years to keep up, in style and workmanship, with best ready-made clothing, because the big clothing manufacturers are employing the best designers and cutters that the craft develops to plan and produce ready-made clothing.

For the present season the custom clothing craft devised the clever scheme of producing the NO PADDING COAT, because it would demand such careful hand-tailoring as manufacturers of ready-made clothing would not pay for.

And the plan was a GREAT SUCCESS.

Such a manufacturing revolution was out of the question for the ready-made trade, and the custom tailors had a great "scoop," EXCEPT THAT

The Gimbel Clothing Experts Also Planned a Scoop.

We also knew that the trade in general would never attempt to make sack suits without padding.

We went to one of the best clothing manufacturers in the country. We interested him, because he also has ideas ahead of others. He reorganized part of his factory. He educated part of his tailors to the new work. It is the finest and most careful work that goes into ready-made clothing—

Because TAILORING Must Do What PADDING Has Done in the Past to Make Shapely Shoulders.

Experts tell us that this is the handsomest Ready-to-Wear Clothing for Men that they have ever seen.

These NO PADDING SACK SUITS Are To Be Seen Only in the Gimbel Clothing Store.

They are made of the handsomest fabrics that the new season has brought out. The Suits cost just about the same as ordinary clothing—$25, $27.50, $30, $32, $35 and $37.50.

Delightfully light in weight.

We invite men to come in and see the new suits, whether they are ready to buy or not. You'll not want the stuffy shoulders in your sack coat after you see the NO PADDING SACK COAT at Gimbels. Fourth floor

YOUNG SAMMY SMITH BEATS DICK HYLAND

Californian, Although Outpointed, Puts Up Aggressive Fight at Olympic A. C.

Young Sammy Smith, the Philadelphia lightweight, earned the honors over Fighting Dick Hyland of California in their ten-round bout before a crowded house at the Olympic A. C. last night. Smith's superior height and reach gave him a big advantage over his short and stocky opponent from the coast, and with this was combined the natural cleverness which has put Sammy in the front rank of lightweights. On the other hand, Hyland displayed strong qualities as an infighter and a punch-proof jaw against Smith's shower of right and left wallops, and the combination made the bout one of the most exciting that has been staged at the Olympic Club in several months. It was generally thought that Smith's extreme cleverness would leave the Californian far in the background, but he was still going strong at the finish, and he did as effective work in the tenth round as in any of the preceding chapter.

The small ring also helped to make the fight interesting. In a ring as large as some of the local clubs have, Smith would undoubtedly have an easy time with the rushing infighter of Hyland's type, but the limited area of the Olympic ring prevented Sammy from getting far from Hyland at any time, hence the Californian had a fine opportunity to show at his best. At times it seemed as if Sammy was enjoying boxing practice, and he jabbed Hyland at will, without getting any return, but at other times Sammy had to step at his liveliest pace to avoid trouble. There was not a knockdown, or anything approaching a knockdown, during the ten rounds, although Hyland's head was rocked on three or four occasions like a storm-tossed boat. He simply absorbed all the punches that Sammy handed out, and came back for more.

Smith began the fight with a left jab to Hyland's face, and he had repeated the performance three times before Dick landed. Sammy led with his left, and changed occasionally to a right swing, both of which found their mark every time they started. There was considerable clinching during the round, and, in fact, throughout the fight the pair clinched far more than was necessary. Smith gained the honors in the first round, but in the second Hyland came back strong and did more effective work. He pounded Sammy hard in the stomach during the clinches, of which there were many, and managed to get an even break.

For two minutes in the third round Smith jabbed Hyland's face as often as he wished, but in the last minute of the round the Californian began to go strong, and a lively mix-up was the result. Hyland did good work in the fourth, and his wallops to the stomach and short ribs plainly slowed up the Quaker City boxer. Smith, however, did enough work in the open fighting to gain the honors by a slight margin.

In the fifth round Smith continued to jab away, and he had a big advantage for the session. Hyland again managed to drive a few hard jabs to Sammy's stomach, but he took far more punishment than he handed out. Dick's left eye was puffing from Smith's continual jabbing, and his lip was cut. The sixth was the best round of the bout, and more action was crowded into these three minutes than into any other three rounds. Both tore in and exchanged punches as fast as their arms could work, neither giving ground at any stage. The honors were even in this round.

The seventh was not as fast as the preceding round, Smith showing to advantage all the way with his left jabs and occasional right swings and uppercuts. Hyland was still devoting his attention to Sammy's body and landed a few stinging wallops. The eighth round was marred by much unnecessary clinching for the first two minutes, and then a rousing finish, in which both boys took right swings which rocked their heads. Smith had a shade the better of the round. Sammy led all the way in the ninth and had a little the better of the tenth. Both were fighting strongly at the finish.

In the semi-final, which went the full six rounds, Barry Hill had the better of Artie McGovern. Hill led practically all the way, but McGovern kept him busy all the time. In the six-round preliminaries Leo Johnson outpointed Johnny Lewis, and Young Hickey had the better of Joe Madden.

FIGHTERS HELD FOR TRIAL.

Promoter McCarey to Test New Boxing Law in California.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 3.—Justice Reeves to-day held the two principals and two accessories of the alleged prize fight held at Vernon on March 17 for trial in the Superior Court for a violation of the State law against prize fighting.

Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion, and George Memmic, the principals; Charles Eyton, referee, and Thomas J. McCarey, promoter, all appeared in court and were held in $1,000 bail each. This was given by three of them, but McCarey refused to provide bail and was held in custody.

McCarey's object in allowing himself to be taken into custody was to test the law. Habeas corpus proceedings in his behalf were immediately instituted before Judge Hutton in the Superior Court. Judge Hutton issued an alternative writ, returnable on April 10. McCarey was released on his own recognizance.

Attell to Rest for Six Months.

Abe Attell, the featherweight champion, who suffered another injury to his left shoulder in his bout with Frankie Burns at the National Sporting Club last Friday night, has been ordered by his physician not to fight again for at least six months and possibly for a year. There is a possibility that the arm is so badly injured that Attell will never be his former self in the prize ring. The enforced retirement means a loss of from $30,000 to $50,000, as Attell had figured on a busy campaign. One of his first matches was to have been with Knockout Brown, whom Manager Danny Morgan promised to send against the little champion as soon as Brown's ear was again in shape. Attell rested more than two months after the arm was first injured in his bout with Kilbane at Cleveland, but the rest did not prove long enough to allow the injury to mend.

EVANS TO PLAY IN ENGLAND.

Pinehurst Folk Think Young Golfer Will Prove a Sensation Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 3.—The chances are that Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater, winner of last week's golf championship here, will participate in the British amateur championship. Evans says that this is almost certain, but he dislikes to make a positive statement at the present time, because of contingencies which may prevent his attendance.

Evans rounded out his visit here with a remarkable round of seventy-one made in four-ball play with Donald Ross as a partner against National amateur champion W. C. Fownes, Jr., and Alexander Ross. It was remarkable, because unfamiliarity with the sand putting greens cost the lad not less than ten strokes, making a sixty-one card easily possible, which would be seven strokes below the course record held by both Walter J. Travis and professional Alexander Ross.

Playing the best ball of all the other three players, Evans was only one down, and individually none of the trio was a match for him. The Ross brothers scored 76 each and Fownes 77. The general impression here is that Evans will create even more of a sensation in England than did Walter J. Travis, and that his genial personality will warm the hearts of even the most reticent Britons.

Sherwin to Coach Kansas University.

Ralph W. Sherwin of Dartmouth, one of the best of the Eastern football tackles of the past few seasons, has been chosen coach for the University of Kansas next Fall. Sherwin was engaged over several Western candidates because Kansas University wants to introduce the Eastern style of football at the university next season. Sherwin's home is at Hanover, N. H., and he prepared for Dartmouth at Cushing Academy. He will receive a salary of $2,500 a year for coaching and a faculty position in the Department of Physical Science.

WAHLE DEFENDS DANIELS.

New York A. C. Man Says Registration Committee Has Acted Hastily.

Otto Wahle, a member of the Swimming Committee of the New York Athletic Club, is up in arms against the action of the Registration Committee of the Middle Atlantic Association, A. A. U., and has sent the following letter to the President of the association in reference to the Registration Committee's action toward Daniels because he failed to start in the fifty-yard championship race last week. The letter reads as follows:

According to the report of some newspapers the Registration Committee of the Middle Atlantic Association threatens to discipline C. M. Daniels for not having a good excuse for his failure to compete in the National 50-yard swimming championship. The race in question being a National championship I take it for granted that the final jurisdiction regarding anything that might occur in connection with such a race rests with the National Championship Committee and not with a local body.

Finding that the matter has not been reported to the National Championship Committee I beg to advise you of the following: Daniels gave a very good reason for not competing and one which would appear to be reasonable. After the race on last Friday night Daniels found that he was not trained sufficiently well for a short distance like fifty yards, a distance over which a good start and a lucky turn would ensure victory. No wonder at the end of his swimming career he did not wish to risk defeat owing to, perhaps, a bad start or an unlucky turn.

Rule 10, General Rules, requires an athlete to give a good reason for not starting. Such reason has been given to me as Chairman of the Metropolitan Association Swimming Committee by Mr. Daniels, and I conveyed it to James E. Sullivan, Chairman of the National Championship Committee, on Saturday morning, and in addition the excuse was wired to F. A. Cady of the Argo Club, who was in charge of the management of the race. Rule 10 does not say to whom the excuse must be given, or when, but I presumed the proper person would be the Chairman of the Championship Committee.

STANFORD MAN'S GREAT JUMP

Edward Horine, a California Student, Leaps 6 Feet 4 Inches in High Jump.

Joseph R. Hickey, Chairman of the Registration Committee of the Pacific Association, Amateur Athletic Union, has just notified James E. Sullivan, Secretary-Treasurer of the Union, that Edward Horine of Stanford University won first place in the high jump in the dual meet between Stanford and Los Angeles, with the wonderful leap of 6 feet 4 inches. J. Ward of Los Angeles was second, with 6 feet 2 inches.

On March 13 last year Horine won the high jump at the Olympic-Stanford games with a leap of 5 feet 9 inches, but since then and before last Saturday had a best mark of 6 feet. In practice he has done remarkable work. His form is wonderful, as he gets a similar layout over the bar to that of Mike Sweeney, holder of the world's record of 6 feet 5⅝ inches, made at the international games in 1895.

Horine's 6 feet 4 inches marks the third man to clear such a height in this country, the former times being when W. Bryd Page of the University of Pennsylvania and the Manhattan Athletic Club did a similar height, and Sweeney's record leap, although the latter did 6 feet 4 inches several times before that.

ATHLETIC FIELD ROR "13TH."

Brooklyn Regiment to Promote Sports at Gravesend Bay.

The Thirteenth Regiment Athletic Association has obtained an option on a piece of land in Gravesend, on the bay, upon which a five-lap cinder path and baseball diamond will be laid.

Major Grant of the regiment is to conclude negotiations to-day, the intention being to erect a boathouse and cater to all sorts of aquatic and athletic sports. A five-year lease will be procured. It is promised by the management that every variety of field sport will be catered to.

Bowman Wins Long Island Run.

H. Bowman, who had a handicap of 2:15, won the third members' run of the Long Island A. C. on Sunday for the Grimmel Thopry. Twenty boys took part in the run, and the fastest time for the course was by S. Leslie, the only scratch man. He made the distance in 23:20. Bowman's actual time was 20:06, and J. Plant, (1:00,) was second with 22:05 as his actual time. W. Brockwehl finished third, and S. Leslie fourth. The others finished in the following order: A. Richmond, H. Kramer, F. R. Plant, R. Read, J. Meeks, H. Vogel, W. Plant, E. Dieckman, C. Macmull, L. Parks, W. Weber, E. Rein, H. Newcome, J. Christie, F. Henderson, and F. Connors.

Opening of Fox Hills Golf Course.

The Fox Hills Golf Club's course at Clifton, S. I., will be opened for play on Saturday, April 8. The regular Saturday handicaps will commence on that date and prizes will be offered in all classes. The Tournament Committee has announced the arrangements for the annual invitation amateur tournament, which will be held on May 11, 12, and 13. A qualifying round of eighteen holes medal play will take place on Thursday, May 11. The first sixteen will qualify for the Fox Hills Cup, the second sixteen for the Clifton Cup, the third sixteen for the Southfield Cup, and the fourth sixteen for the Aquehonga Cup. Cups will also be offered for each additional completed sixteen turning in cards for the qualifying round. There will be a Consolation Cup for the beaten eight of each of the first four sixteens. A cup will also be presented to the runner-up of the first sixteen, and a gold medal will go to the player returning the best gross score in the qualifying round. On Saturday, May 13, the finals will be played, and also an eighteen-hole medal play handicap with a gold medal for the best gross score, and a cup for the best net score. The Tournament Committee is H. H. Lloyd, Chairman; Charles Presbrey, A. H. Pogson, T. F. Lee, C. H. Pope, and J. H. Slater.

Close Play in Billiard Match.

E. V. Parker defeated Bud Walker in the opening game of the Harlem amateur Class A three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at the Riverside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Seventh Avenue, last night by a score of 15 to 14. Walker, who won the amateur handicap, Class A, championship pool tournament held at the same academy recently, proved by his showing last night that he can handle the cue skillfully in both billiards and pool. The contest required twenty-seven innings and was marked by much safety and close playing throughout. Both contestants made the high run of three. In the second game of the tournament, which will be decided this evening, Harry Munder will oppose Richard Schneppe.

Pittsburg Billiardist Wins in Boston.

BOSTON, Mass., April 3.—Pittsburg defeated Boston, 50 to 29, in a three-cushion carrom game of the National Billiard League tournament at the Imperial Billiard Rooms to-night. Trump represented Pittsburg and Heaton played for Boston.

Massachusetts Tech to Row Middies.

BOSTON, April 3.—The Massachusetts Institute of Technology crew to-day accepted an invitation to row an eight-oared race with the Naval Academy crew on April 29 at Annapolis. The Tech men were at first undecided what action to take on the invitation, as they are the possessors of neither a boat nor a boathouse, but after a hurried consultation it was decided to accept.

TRACK AND OTHER SPORTS.

District Athletic League No. 11 of Brooklyn will hold the first swimming meet ever organized by a district league for the boys of its schools on April 8, at 10 o'clock. The following schools have sent in entries: P. S. 5, 9, 11, 15, 44, 98, 45, and 8. A trophy will go to the winning team, while gold, silver, and bronze medals will go to first, second, and third, respectively, in each event.

A. Van Winkle, the star sprinter of Poly Prep, is leading in the race for the Holmes Trophy, a prize awarded annually to the blue-and-gray athlete scoring the greatest number of points.

The Harvard athletic authorities are considering the advisability of sending an envoy to England to confer with athletic authorities at Oxford and Cambridge regarding a meeting between the Harvard 'Varsity oarsmen and the winning crew of the Oxford-Cambridge race. The matter of having the combined track teams of Harvard and Yale compete against a representative team from Oxford and Cambridge will also be discussed.

A silver cup, costing $100, has been donated to the Washington University A. A. by the College Club of Seattle, to be awarded as a trophy to the class winning the interclass track championship each Spring.

Mike Murphy, the Pennsylvania trainer, does not uphold the stand taken by Dr. Carl Williams in regard to barring professional school men from the 'Varsity teams. In speaking of the proposed changes he said: "It would be foolish and wrong to give up the professional school men. They are just as much entitled to represent the university in athletics as any of the men of the college department so long as we call ourselves a university."

NOVICE BOXERS IN RING FOR HONORS

Punishment Makes Several Contestants Quit at Irish-American A. C.

There was no let-up to the competitive activity in the novice boxing tournament at the Irish-American A. C., which reached the semi-final round stage last night. On the whole this period of the series did not live up to the promise anticipated by the results in the preliminaries, most of the bouts being decidedly tame.

There were some of the contestants who thought discretion the better part of valor, with the result that they chose by quitting to pick another time to get out of the non-winning class.

The heavyweights were jokes, but one of the six having the slightest knowledge of the game, this being H. Hettrick of Dominican Lyceum, who shaped up well and won in a way which augurs ill for those who oppose him to-morrow night.

Several really promising lads failed to make weight in their respective classes, chief among these being Robert Glass of the Avonias, in the 115-pound division, who had been looked upon as the probable winner in the finals.

"White hope" aspirants began the night's proceedings with sad results, following the début of those who showed in the heavyweight division. B. Farchas took the dressing room after he had got several wallops from C. J. Bens of Hartley House. Myles McHugh, the elongated "walker" of the Pastime A. C., was trounced in his go with Eugene Otersen, Avonia A. C., and, although he wanted to quit a half-dozen times, his desire was overlooked until well into the final round, when he was taken out of the ring. A repetition of the opening bout was seen when H. Hettrick attended to the case of P. Stensen of the Morningside A. C. in less than one round, making him quit.

Real mixing began with the semi-finals of the "fifteens," the first bout of which brought together F. Fesselmaier of the Glencoes, who made W. Cullen, Paulist Athletic Club, stop after two rounds. Cullen started in like a whirlwind, but was promptly checked by the Glencoe lad, who put his blows across with deliberation, backed up by plenty of steam.

The first absolute knockout was seen in the last bout of this class, which attracted B. Fallik, Grace Athletic Club, and Mike Zampino, Elmore Athletic Club. They started like real bear cats, and mixed it up capitally. Midway during the first and only round Fallik crossed a right on Zampino's jaw, and he went down with a thud, smashing his head on the ring floor, and making the knockout doubly effectual. The summary:

Heavyweight Class, Preliminary Round.—First Bout—Charles J. Bens, Hartley House, defeated B. Farchas, unattached. One round. Farchas quit. Second Bout—Eugene Otersen, Avonia A. C., defeated M. McHugh, Pastime A. C. Three rounds. Referee's decision. Third Bout—H. Hettrick, Dominican Lyceum, defeated P. Stensen, Morningside A. C. One round. Stenson quit.

Buchlus, New West Side A. C., defeated E Downey, Union Settlement A. C. One round. Referee's decision. Downey quit claiming to have been hit low.

Telegraphic Tournament, with Entries from Foremost Athletic Clubs.

For a prize donated by Col. Robert M. Thompson, President of the New York Athletic Club, the bowlers representing athletic clubs all over the United States will participate in a telegraphic tournament, scheduled to begin April 22. The following clubs have accepted the invitation to compete: Pittsburg Athletic Association, Cleveland Athletic Club, Multnomah Athletic Club, Portland, Ore.; Seattle Athletic Club, Montreal Athletic Association, Chicago Athletic Association, Illinois Athletic Association, Crescent Athletic Club, and the New York Athletic Club.

Teams will consist of five men, with two substitutes allowed. These men must have been members of their club at least six weeks previous to receipt of entry. Each club must bowl on its own alleys, which must be regulation size. The Western teams will begin bowling at 7 o'clock, Eastern time; the Middle West teams at 9 o'clock, and the Eastern teams at 10 o'clock. The first five frames and the total score of each game is to be telegraphed to the different clubs competing.

A FINE BOWLING RECORD.

The Terrace Club to Celebrate Its Fortieth Year of Activity.

An invitation ladies' prize bowling will be given by the Terrace Bowling Club on this evening in celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the club's foundation. After the distribution of prizes a supper will be served in the banquet hall of Terrace Garden.

Few bowling clubs in the United States can show as great a number of years of existence as the Terrace Bowling Club, whose alleys are in Fifty-ninth Street, east of Lexington Avenue. According to the records, it is the second oldest bowling club in New York.

In 1870 several young men connected with the Germania Bank, in the Bowery, got together and formed the Terrace Bowling Club. Of the ten men who were the charter members two have continued active in the club ever since. One of the two, Edward C. Schaefer, now President of the Germania Bank and President of the F. & M. Schaefer Brewing Company, is now its President, and the other one John G. Gillig, is now its Treasurer, which position he has held since 1877. These two members can show a record of forty years and can roll up a score that will make them seem good for forty years more.

Other members of the old guard are John B. Hasslocher, with thirty-four years; John Unger, with thirty-two years, and J. C. G. Hupfel, with twenty-eight years' membership. Out of the total membership, which is limited to twenty-five, one-half have been connected with the club more than ten years. In the early days of the club it was not unusual for a name to be on the waiting list for several years before an opening for admission presented itself.

FIELD YALE'S HEAD COACH.

Washington Boy Highly Honored by Capt. Howe of 1911 Eleven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 3.—John W. Field of the class of 1911 was to-day selected as head coach of the Yale football team for next season. Mr. Field, who made his "Y" in his sophomore year, played right half back last Fall, and his line bucking was one of the features of the championship games. His home is in Washington, D. C.

The announcement of a head coach has been long delayed owing to the fact that there was a break in the custom of choosing a coach. Capt. Daly of last season's team did not become head coach, but instead accepted the invitation to coach the Williams College eleven. There was no former Captain of the Yale eleven available, so Capt. Arthur Howe asked Mr. Field to undertake the task of molding a championship team into form next Fall. The advisory coaches have not been selected. Capt. Howe has just recovered from scarlet fever, and for this reason the squad has not yet been called out for Spring practice.

BOXING AND WRESTLING.

Frankie Fleming, the Canadian bantam, has been matched to fight Jack McCormack of Harlem in one of the ten-round bouts at the New Polo Athletic Association Friday evening. In the other long bout Kid Rose will clash with Eddie Kelly. The programme includes three four-round preliminaries.

Charlie Griffin, the Australian featherweight, is training at Stratford for his bout with Joe Brooks of England before the National Sporting Club. This will be Brooks's first appearance in this country, and he is said to be a good two-handed fighter. Eddie Rector will clash with Charlie Lawrence in the semi-final, and two six-round preliminaries will precede these bouts.

The name "Whirlwind" seems to fit the boxing club at the Clermont Avenue Rink especially well this week, as the main bout will bring together two of the greatest sluggers in the welterweight division—Battling Hurley and Cy Smith. They have come together several times, and each contest was full of action from start to finish. Both carry knockout punches, and the bout may not go the limit. Besides the fifty rounds of boxing there will be vocal and instrumental music to entertain the members.

When Tommy Murphy steps into the ring with Packy McFarland at the Fairmont Athletic Club on April 17 he expects to be in better condition than ever before in his career. Murphy has been working for more than a week, and he does not intend to let up until it is time to weigh in on the afternoon of the bout. "If Packy beats me it will not be on account of my condition," said Murphy last night. "I am in perfect health again, and training better than ever." Murphy has shifted his training quarters to the Mott Haven Athletic Club, where he is able to box with amateurs who are training there for the Mott Haven tournament. McFarland will take up his training quarters at Cannon's Roadhouse on April 10, one week before the bout.

Stanislaus Zbyszko, the famous Polish wrestler, and Joe Rogers, the American Apollo, have been matched for a finish wrestling contest, best two out of three falls, at the St. Nicholas Skating Rink on Tuesday night, April 11, at the opening entertainment of the Twentieth Century Athletic Club, which has obtained a lease on the building until Oct. 7. Rogers's challenge, published last week, was not long in receiving recognition, as no sooner had Jack Herman, the Pole's manager, been informed that the New York man was complaining that he could not get a match than he wired that Zbyszko would wrestle on any conditions that Rogers might name. Although Rogers has engaged in many contests in Europe, he has not been seen in action much in this country, but a year ago he won a handicap match held here in New York from Frank Gotch, the American champion. Zbyszko is traveling through the Middle West, but will be back in New York the latter part of this week.

GIANTS WIN IN COLD AT GREENSBORO

Tesreau and Raymond Find Little Trouble in Defeating North Carolinians.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 3.—Even a cold snap that set their teeth chattering and made their fingers stiff until it was almost torture to handle a hard hit ball, could not stop the victorious career of the Giants, and this afternoon they tossed an 11 to 0 defeat into the local Carolina Association team, using three regular pitchers and Manager McGraw in turning the trick.

Big Jeff Tesreau, with his wonderful speed, carried the Giants along for three innings, when Ed Hendricks, the big South Paw, was sent in. He lasted three innings, and was supplanted in the seventh session by "Bugs" Raymond, who effectively put a quietus to the dissipation charges brought against him by holding the locals hitless for two innings. McGraw was so cold by the time the ninth inning set in that he sent Raymond back to the hotel and went in himself to pitch. His control was not quite as good as at Atlanta last week, but he squeezed through without having any runs scored off his delivery, though one man did get to third base.

The temperature was 20 degrees lower than any the Giants have experienced this Spring, and good baseball was out of the question. The players' hands were so cold that they could neither bat nor field up to their usual form.

The only man on the team who did turn the afternoon to his own profit was little Josh Devore, who added $500 to his bank roll. Before the game a Greensboro sport took the short end of a 20 to 1 bet that no Giant would knock the ball out of the ball field. He promptly offered a $5 purse to the first Giant to make a home run, and in the third inning Devore poled one over the right field fence. It was the third hit of the kind ever made on these grounds.

While Tesreau was in the box the Greensboro outfit failed to make even a scratch hit. The low, dark sky, and strong wind were natural aids to his great speed, and he could have got away with that alone. He has worked up a great curve ball, though, and between the two had the local batters pulling away from the plate or hitting after the ball had passed them. Hendricks was not so effective, but kept the locals from scoring.

All Greensboro's three hits were made while he was in the box. Raymond, as in all the games he has pitched so far, was in splendid form and never gave his opponents half a chance.

To-night the Giants left Greensboro for Norfolk, where an exhibition game is scheduled for to-morrow. The score:

YANKEES' GAMES CANCELED.

Rain Spoils Contests with Cincinnati and Columbus Clubs.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 3.—This was an idle day for the Yankees and to-morrow will be. Rain caused the game with the Reds to be cancelled and the game booked in Columbus for to-morrow also has been canceled.

The New Yorks will stay here until Wednesday morning, then go to Indianapolis for two games. Chase's leg, which sprang a "charley horse" yesterday, is getting along all right, and the manager could have played to-day. However, two days' rest won't do the leg any harm. Birdie Cree, the robust walloper, is mourning the loss of his two-base hit bats. Both split here while their owner was in the act of delivering run-producing wallops, and when a ball player breaks his bread-winning bludgeon its like taking the rudder away from a ship.

The break in the training here is the first which has befallen the Yankees on the trip. They have bucked up against some tough weather, but up to to-day have carried out their schedule.

In Cincinnati they think the Yankees are in mid-season form. They are as compared to the Reds, but not actually so. The training has been gradual and anything but arduous, and Trainer Lee says the men are in better trim than they were at this time a year ago. They did more work last year, and Lee thinks they are the better off this Spring from having come along more gradually.

Brooklyn Regulars Get Revenge.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 3.—The Brooklyn regular team, or as the 1,300 or more spectators called them, the Asheville Club, trounced the Yannigans to-day for their three defeats at Hot Springs. The score was: Regulars, 10; Yannigans, 6.

Both teams played erratic in the field, which was a mixture of sand and dirt. The ball would either lay where it hit or skip off to the side. Most of the errors made were due to this cause. The outfielders had a hard time of it to get started when going after a fly or hit. The regulars took the lead from the start, and by some hard hammering of the ball were never headed. Some of the hits would not have gone for extra bases on a big league field. Quillen's home-run drive over the left field fence was good for the route on any field, the ball landing in French Broad River.

The day was the best the Superbas have had since leaving Hot Springs. Manager Dahlen had his men out for morning practice, and, as the game was not called until 4 o'clock, they had a two hours rest between sessions.

Word was received from Knoxville this afternoon that Lajeune was progressing nicely and his rapid recovery was looked for. Score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Yannigans	0	2	1

Batteries—Regulars, Schardt, Aitchison, and Miller; Yannigans, Burk, Ragon, and Erwin. Umpire—Mr. Hayes.

Phillies Turn Tables on Athletics.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—By winning to-day's game from the local Americans by the score of 5 to 1, the Philadelphia Nationals evened up the inter-league series. Morgan was very wild during the six innings he pitched for the Americans, and passed seven men to first base. He was succeeded by "Lefty" Russell, obtained from Baltimore by Connie Mack last Summer, and the new recruit pitched good ball. Moore, Beebe, and Rowan pitched good ball for the Nationals. The last two were procured from Cincinnati, and their work will be watched closely by a critical crowd. As on Saturday, when the opening game of the series was played, the weather was cold and disagreeable, but another big crowd was on hand to see the contest. Score:

	R.	H.	E.

Waterloo Stays in Three I League.

CHICAGO, April 3.—The Waterloo (Iowa) Club of the Three I Baseball League to-day won the final round of its fight to remain in the league. The National Baseball Commission ruled that the league must remain intact as an eight-club organization, including Waterloo. Quincy, Ill., loses its hopes of a place in the league by the ruling. This makes the victory for Waterloo complete, and prevents the erection of a hostile majority by taking in extra clubs, which might be opposed to Waterloo.

Minor Leagues' Baseball Decisions.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 3.—The National Board of Arbitration of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues to-night handed down the following decisions:

Awards—Joseph Piehs to Lacrosse, Wis.; John Thielman to Oklahoma City, Naeseth to Monmouth, Ill.; A. G. Wisser to Aurora, Ill.; Charles Rutherford to Springfield, Ohio; William Meyers to Knoxville, Tenn.

Applications to be Declared Free Agent—Enos Kirkpatrick of Pittsburg from Petersburg, Va., granted; Arthur Johnson, granted.

Applications to be Released From Rochester, Minn., Reserve List—Frank O'Leary of Chicago, granted; of B. F. McNeil of Rochester, N. Y., to be released from Winnipeg reserve list, disallowed.

Applications to be Released—J. M. Herbert, disallowed; Harry Glenn, granted; Player Cramer to be released from Waterbury, Conn., granted.

Claims—Of Cy Young against Rochester, Minn., allowed; of J. A. Cullen of Indianapolis against Kansas City, Mo., allowed; of Columbia, S. C., against Fayetteville, N. C., for $500 allowed; of Richmond, Va., against Fayetteville, N. C., for $200, allowed; of the Western Canada League against Regina Sask for $453, allowed and paid.

The National Board acted favorably upon and decided to recommend to the annual meeting of the National Association the proposition that all reserved players must be tendered a contract on or before Feb. 1 of each year.

Baseball at Erasmus Hall.

Outdoor baseball practice has been going on at Erasmus Hall since March 2, when 103 boys responded to the call for candidates. This number has been gradually and carefully cut down by the coach, Mr. Crooke, until at the present there are thirty-five. These boys have been divided into two squads. J. Ludin and W. Bryan are making a hard fight for second base, while at short, J. Inness, the crack shortstop of last year's champion second team, is making C. Dumas hustle to hold down that job. Reimers has a strong rival in Heaslip, who can swing the bat with much effect. The pitchers will probably be Follansbee, Shaw, and Brierly. O'Brien, the moist ball artist of the Parade Grounds, has shown up fairly well, but he has not the strength behind him to last a full game. First base will be covered by Steinbugler, the Captain, and third by Ken Austin, Captain of last year's second team. Wolfe Collyer, Hernandez, Roth, and Moore are trying hard for places in the outfield. William Gamble has been appointed student manager and Holman Evans assistant manager. Mr. Ferry, the faculty manager, has completed one of the best schedules the buff and blue has ever had.

Brooklyn Boy a "Gym" Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., April 3.—James Bailey, a junior at Lehigh University, was to-day elected captain of the gymnasium team for next season. Bailey's home is in Brooklyn, N. Y. He is the local team's star tumbler and performer on the parallel bars.

AERO CLUBS PLAN NEW AGREEMENT

National Council to Form Separate Organization—Recognize Aero Club.

The semi-annual meeting of the National Council of the Aero Club of America will be held this afternoon at the Waldorf-Astoria, when a new agreement of organization will be acted upon. Contrary to general expectation, there will be no attempt to establish an independent organization, but the present harmonious relations with the Aero Club of America will be maintained. This insures for the Aero Club a distinct and acknowledged position in American aviation circles.

The new agreement of organization, which is the result of the conference of joint committees of the National Council and the Aero Club of America, places the National Council on a practically independent footing, while recognizing the Aero Club of America. The organization will hereafter be known as the National Council of Aero Clubs of America instead of being but an offshoot of the Aero Club. While the new agreement makes the council National in fact as well as in name, records and sanctions will have to have the approval of the Aero Club of America.

The Aero Club will be a member of the council on the same basis as all other clubs, but will have the distinction of being the representative of America in the International Aeronautic Federation and represent the council in all international affairs. In order to preserve harmony and a working agreement, the Chairman of the Contest Committee of the Aero Club of America will hold the same position in the National Council. Both organizations will continue to maintain independent affiliations.

In addition to selecting sites for the National balloon race several other important matters will be transacted at to-day's meeting, including the adoption of the new by-laws of the council. Among the applications for the championship balloon race are St. Louis, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Omaha, and San Francisco. The last-named city will hardly be considered, owing to its close proximity to the ocean.

A meeting of the Executive Committee will be held at the National Council clubroom in the Engineering Societies Building, Thirty-ninth Street, west of Broadway, this morning, and the general meeting of the delegates from the affiliated clubs will follow at 1 P. M. at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Robert J. Collier, Chairman of the National Council gave a dinner last night at Sherry's to all the delegates and alternates to the meeting, when the business of the convention was informally discussed. The delegates who attended the dinner were:

W. W. Miller and C. Jerome Edwards, Aero Club of America; Col. Jerome H. Joyce, Aero Club of Baltimore; A. E. L. Jones, Aero Club of California; Richard M. Allen, Harvard Aeronautical Society; James H. Plew, Aero Club of Illinois; G. A. Richardson, Intercollegiate Aero Association; George M. Myers, Aero Club of Kansas City; James K. Duffy and Alfred Morell, Aero Club of New Jersey; Ralph Upson, Aero Club of Ohio; Clifford B. Harmon, Aero Club of Pasadena; Israel Ludlow, Pacific Aero Club; Luke Minehan, Aero Club of Pittsfield; Arthur T. Atherholt and Henry M. Neely, Aero Club of Pennsylvania; George C. Farnham, Aero Club of Saratoga Springs; Allan A. Ryan, Aero Club of St. Louis; Dr. A. F. Zahm and W. J. Bovee, Aero Club of Washington; Paul B. Sweet and R. Emerson, Western Aero Association, and Major Samuel Reber, U. S. A., Aero Club of America.

WOULD FLY UP BROADWAY.

Earle Ovington Returns from France Ready for Dangerous Trip.

Earle L. Ovington of Boston, a young American aviator, who is a pupil of Blériot, arrived yesterday on the Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka. Mr. Ovington is bringing over a Blériot monoplane, with a seventy horse power Gnome engine, with which he recently obtained a pilot's license at Pau, France. The license has been approved and registered by the Aero Club of America.

Mr. Ovington, who is a graduate of the Boston Institute of Technology, decided to take up aviation during the international meet at Belmont Park last October. He took a six months' course of instruction at the Blériot school and will endeavor to create new speed records as soon as the opportunity presents itself. He is anxious to make a flight up Broadway from Governors Island to Grant's Tomb, and says he will make the attempt if he can obtain the co-operation of the city authorities.

In speaking of the European situation, Mr. Ovington said that in his opinion the international aviation speed trophy would fall this year to France. The aviators at Pau have been showing remarkable speed, especially Leblanc. There is nothing in England that would stand a chance with the French speed machines, and the trophy now held by Claude Grahame-White will in all probability cross the channel to France.

Mr. Ovington believes that the suits brought by the Wright brothers against the French aviators will be beaten, as he says a pioneer French aviator has been discovered who flew in a heavier-than-air machine before the Wrights were successful in making flights. Foreign inventors will rely on the record of M. Ader, who flew three-quarters of a mile long before the Wright machines left the ground.

The general view of the riskiness of flying, declared Mr. Ovington, is shown by the refusal of Lloyds to insure his life at a 40 per cent. premium.

BASEBALL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Fred Tenney's Boston Hopefuls have a season's record of thirty-five hits made in one game, those amassed against Greensboro last Saturday. Could the Beaneaters have kept those hits in their bats until some more important period, they would play havoc with some one's championship aspirations. Herzog was the chief harvester of hits, the former Giant getting two doubles and two singles.

Dean Academy, in New England, employed twenty-five players in a game against Wellesley High School the other day. Thirty-three runs for their share and none for Wellesley was the damage done.

After two days of fist fighting and general hostilities in Ponce de Leon Park, the Atlanta police attended the game last Saturday, but they found that hostilities had spent themselves, and the cops were merely spectators.

The South has contributed four great batsmen to the American League within a few years. Foremost of them all is Ty Cobb, the most prominent citizen of Georgia, the Cracker State fans would have you believe. Then comes Tris Speaker, whom Boston discovered in Texas and who is a genuine star in batting, fielding, and base running, being almost Cobb's equal in general excellence on the ball field. Next comes Jimmy Jackson, the new outfielder of the Cleveland club, who stood first in the American League batting averages last season, although he participated in only twenty games, and, therefore, is not regarded as the league's champion batter. He batted for a percentage of .387, two points more than Cobb obtained for 140 games. The fourth star in this little group of celebrities is Milan of the Washington club, who did not rank in the .300 division—the elite of batsmen. Milan was picked up from an obscure club in the South, and Washington gave him his first major league engagement. He is said to be the only candidate for an outfield position with the Senators who is sure of a regular place.

Detractors of Umpire Emslie, who have often declared that Bob could judge plays as well with his eyes closed as with them open, will be shocked to learn that an eminent oculist had declared his eyesight "to be better than normal." Emslie has performed long, faithful, and efficient service for the National League and is yet a much better umpire than many who have tried to supplant him.

Reports from the South had it that "Bugs" Raymond had rolled off the wagon. A severe and prolonged spring, it was said, kept the roads in rough condition, and "Bugs" could withstand the jolting no longer. But "Bugs" "came back" yesterday and exploded the rumor.

The Giants gathered in about enough money in the series of games played at Atlanta to buy each player a bag of peanuts and Raymond a glass of his favorite beverage. McGraw probably will scratch Atlanta off his visiting list.

Washington's club seemed to be marooned in the South. Due to be at home now, the club lost its home by fire, and it has remained in Atlanta, beyond its time of leave-taking. The Senators will pack their bats next Saturday and arrive home a day or two ahead of the opening of the championship season. Washington has made wonderful progress in constructing their stands. In two weeks they have constructed bleachers and the first floor of the grand stand, and many seats have been placed in position. There will be several thousand seats ready for spectators on the opening day of the season, but the second pavilion will not be finished in time. The whole establishment will be in a crude state on April 12, but there will be considerable room for the fans, even though they may be inconvenienced.

Connie Mack is adept at pickin' useful ball players. When he entered Philadelphia with an American League club he had a team composed largely of men cast off from other clubs. He whipped this team into a championship nine and, in fact, won two American League pennants with nearly the same men. These veterans, however, were losing their speed and cunning rapidly, and when Mack opened the season two years ago he presented a crew of raw recruits, and they did not look like they would develop into champions in another year, but they did, and won the world's championship, too. Among the new men Mack picked up were Collins, Baker, Barry, Coombs, Morgan, Oldring, Thomas, and a few others. These now are the pillars of the club. Davis, Murphy, Bender, and Plank were the members of the old champions who remained fast enough to hold their places. Topsy Hartsel, another old timer, is still with the club, but Connie Mack's latest find seems to have benched Topsy. Hogan is his name, and the way he is batting in the preliminary games indicates that he will hold his own with the regulars.

Manager McAleer sees a coming star in First Baseman Earl Sykes of the Atlanta club and hopes to obtain an option on the player's services for next year. The Senators are not well provided with first basemen, as Somerlott is still regarded as of second-class ability.

Former Manager Jimmy Callahan is batting hard for the White Sox and may get a place in the Chicago outfield.

Organized cheering and yelling at ball games have been tabooed at Georgetown University. The authorities have discovered that it is ungentlemanly at times and tends to rattle the visitors' pitchers, while the visiting team seldom has many persons to cheer for it.

Manager Jennings may purchase the release of First Baseman Johnson of the New Orleans club. He seems to be a promising youngster, and the Chicago Cubs are keeping an eye on his progress. Jennings, however, doesn't think Johnson is worth the $3,000 that the New Orleans management asks for his release, at the end of the season.

"Lena" Blackburne, the White Sox shortstop, was dry-docked yesterday and a floating cartilage was removed from one of his knees. Blackburne is expected to be able to play ball again in a month or six weeks. His injured knee handicapped him all last season.

Pitchers Summers, who had to return home from the South on account of illness, has rejoined the Detroit team and is in fairly good condition again.

ENGLISH POLO PONIES HERE.

Thirty-five Mounts Arrive for the International Matches.

Thirty-five English polo ponies arrived yesterday on the Atlantic Transport liner Minnetonka. The ponies are to be used by the English team which is coming over to play for the International Polo Championship Cup. Some famous ponies are in the lot, including Energy, a dark chestnut mare, which has never been beaten in the English show ring, and Melton, a tried and true mount, which is the property of Capt. Herbert Wilson, one of the British experts.

The ponies are in charge of George White, head groom, and J. W. Nolans, a veterinary surgeon, with nineteen grooms and stablemen. As soon as they are landed they will be shipped to Lakewood, N. J.

Capt. Wilson and Capt. Hardress Lloyd, members of the invading British team, are on the Cunard steamer Lusitania, which is due late Thursday night or early Friday morning.

Yale Athletes at Training Table.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 3.—Yale's track squad was to-day picked for the training table by Capt. Kilpatrick, as follows:

Runners—Boyd, Wheeler, Reilly, Thatcher, Snyder, Farrar, Reed, May, Seymour, Tilson, Gray, Marsh, Kaynor, and Case; Hurdlers—Chisholm and Larkin; Pole Valuters—Wagoner and Gardner; High Jumper—Canfield; Broad Jumper and Shot Putter—Capt. John Kilpatrick. After the trial games, in about two weeks, a dozen more athletes will be taken to the table.

AUTOISTS RUSH FOR LICENSE PLATES

Nearly 500 Registrations Are Recorded at Local Branch of State's Bureau.

Nearly 500 registrations were recorded yesterday at the opening of the New York City office of the Automobile Bureau of the Secretary of State, Seventy-fourth Street and Broadway. From 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. there was a continous stream of auto manufacturers, dealers, owners, and chauffeurs, who obtained number plates with little delay. There was some confusion during the morning, owing to the fact that it was the first day, but as the evening approached the registrations were filed without delay. The average time for obtaining individual registration was fifteen minutes, and a force of thirty clerks attended to the details of the office.

So successful was the innovation that it is probable that the plan will be followed in other States, particularly in Pennsylvania, where there has been considerable difficulty in registering, especially from Philadelphia and Pittsburg. It is also probable that next year an office will be opened in Buffalo.

Heretofore it has required nearly a week to procure original registration in Albany, but the enormous increase in the number of cars manufactured this year caused a demand for a local office of the State Bureau. The subject was agitated by the Automobile Club of America, American Automobile Association, Long Island Automobile Club, Touring Club of America, Licensed Dealers' Association, and various other automobile organizations, with the result that yielding to this pressure the Secretary of State enlarged the offices at Seventy-fourth Street and Broadway and brought down from Albany a staff of clerks to instruct the clerks in New York City the system of tabulating, checking, and filing the applications.

The New York office will be in charge of First Deputy Secretary of State Luke A. Keenan, who arranged all the detail work of the office, but unfortunately was not able to be on hand yesterday, owing to the death of his mother. In his absence Chief Inspector Fred H. Elliott took charge of the office and handled the registration in a satisfactory manner. It is expected that before the end of the week registrations can be made in ten minutes.

Sports at Old Guttenburg Track.

Under the auspices of the Motordrome Athletic Association a series of athletic events will be decided on the old Guttenburg race track on May 7. This is the track on which Maxey Long established the world's record of 0:47 for one-quarter mile, straightaway, which has never been approached by any foot runner. The prizes will be of exceptional value, and consist of solid gold watches to first, diamond-studded link buttons to second, and gold stickpins to third in each event, respectively. The programme includes handicaps at 120 yards, 300 yards, 1,000 yards; running high jump, hop, step and jump, two-mile run, and medley relay race, the distances to be 220, 440, 880, and one mile. Columbia and Dan MacDuff will engage in a soccer football match for a special trophy. Entries will close with Dieges & Clust, or Henry Shaffer, 308 Jefferson Street, Union Hill, N. J. Any further information in regard to the games can be had from P. J. Callahan, 84 South Street, New York.

Princeton Gun Club Plans.

Final plans have been completed by the officials of the Princeton Gun Club for this year's competitions. The schedule contains four dual contests besides the Intercollegiates, among which is a match with Yale, at New Haven, on May 13, and another with Harvard at Princeton, a week later. The other two contests are with Pennsylvania and Dartmouth, and are both away from home.

A second and new set of traps is now being installed at the University, in order that the Intercollegiate shoot may be held there this Spring. Yale won the event last year, with Princeton second. The team's prospects are very promising this year, as only two men, E. H. Wright and E. P. Westenhaver, have been lost by graduation. The members of the gun club now in the university who have taken part in the different shoots are: Capt. C. J. Biddle, S. V. Este, H. S. Day, K. K. Dresser, H. T. Cassar, H. Forbes, and N. R. White.

The first Spring practice will be held this week, besides the regularly scheduled shoots. The management expects to arrange several practice events with school teams, and a dual shoot with some athletic club, in the near future.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, APRIL 4, 1911.

CONGRESS.

It has long been a familiar saying that the Democratic Party, in or out of power, may be trusted to make a fool of itself. There are encouraging indications at Washington that the Democrats have resolved so to order their procedures in the extraordinary session that this saying shall be removed from the category of undisputed truths. They have applied themselves with sober diligence to preparations for the work of the session. Their committee list is already made up, and at their caucus on Saturday night they took up the question of House patronage, abolished six committees, cut off ninety-eight employés, and effected a saving in the House payroll of over $200,000. That is a good beginning.

The Democratic leaders in Congress have seriously considered the House programme, and, according to well-authenticated reports, they have determined upon a policy of moderation and sanity. Although no caucus decision has yet been announced on authority, it is believed that the programme does not include a general revision of the tariff. General revisions have in many instances proved politically ruinous to the revisers. The enactment of the McKinley tariff was swiftly followed by the election of a great Democratic majority in the House, and by the election of Mr. CLEVELAND in 1892. The effect of the Wilson revision of 1894 upon the fortunes of the party can never be known, as the nomination of Mr. BRYAN sufficiently accounted for the chastisement of the Democracy in 1896. Again the Dingley revision of 1897 was followed by the nomination of Mr. BRYAN in 1900, and again BRYAN, not the tariff, was the dominant issue. The Payne-Aldrich revision of 1909 caused bitter discord in the Republican Party, and gave to the Democrats their notable victories of last Fall. With these warnings in plain view, and knowing, as every man of sense does know, that the wise and just revision of a law imposing duties upon such a multitude of articles, a law so intimately related to the industries of the country and to its prosperity is a task too great to be achieved in a few months of Washington midsummer heat, it is easy and it is satisfactory to believe the many reports that no general overhauling of the law will be undertaken in this session.

The reciprocity agreement with Canada is on the Democratic programme for adoption by the House. That will almost certainly come. In that body the Democrats have sixty-eight majority, and if they are reasonably united under competent leadership, they will have no difficulty in carrying out their programme. In the Senate the Republicans have but nine majority, and with the present uncertainty as to the attitude of the Republican insurgents there is some room for doubt as to the fate of the reciprocity agreement. It ought to pass, however, but probably there will be much discussion and some delay. Beyond that the Democrats seem to have agreed upon a revision of the woolen schedule, which President TAFT has declared to be indefensible, and upon the cotton schedule, which everybody knows is not to be defended. There may be some changes in the agricultural schedule, with a view to removal of burdens which enhance the cost of living. That ought to suffice for the tariff. If the Democrats pay heed to the sentiment of the country, and if they have a wise foresight of what their situation before the country should be in the campaign year of 1912, they will, we think, content themselves with just so much tariff revision as they can do well, and no more.

Congressional reapportionment, which failed at the last session, they must undertake. A law requiring publicity of campaign contributions is on the programme, and that is altogether commendable. There is much probability that they will take action looking to the election of Senators by popular vote. That delusive "reform" has come into such general favor that, unfortunately, they can count upon great public support for such a measure. The most marked result of this change in the method of electing Senators would be to lower the standard of Senatorial capacity and ability without making it in any degree more difficult than it is now for the machine bosses and the interests to choose Senators. The admission of Arizona and New Mexico is probably agreed upon. Arizona, certainly, ought not to come into the Union until her Constitution, which provides for the practical abolition of representative institutions in the State and the recall of public officers, including Judges, has been made to conform to older and standard Constitutional models in the United States. Some investigations will be ordered, we suppose, and some are necessary. The Democrats entertain a commendable purpose to insist upon economy. Not so very much can be done in that field, in the extraordinary session, as the appropriations for next year are out of the way. But they can at least prepare for a policy of economy at the regular session. Real achievements in abating Federal extravagance would give them something worth pointing to in their National platform next year.

THE POLICE SITUATION.

Mr. GEORGE GORDON BATTLE'S explanation of the increase of crimes of violence along the North River front between Christopher and Twenty-third Streets is welcome. It is, indeed, an explanation, and the only one yet forthcoming, of the facts thus far divulged in the Grand Jury's investigation and Magistrate CORRIGAN'S expansion of his charges. The opening of the new docks in that neighborhood has increased the number of criminals and the opportunities for crime thereabout. Of course, the citizens look to the police to check such crime and bring the criminals to justice. Mr. BATTLE says the true object of the inquiry is "whether our police administration is weak or faulty."

That is just what we are all trying to get at. The evidence is strong that the force is more or less demoralized, that crime is too frequently undetected and unpunished. The investigation cannot be too vigorously and thoroughly prosecuted to satisfy the public demand. The statistics of arrests and convictions prepared by Mr. CORRIGAN are not to be dismissed as misleading or unimportant. When the Bureau of Municipal Research shows that the arrests of professional gamblers decreased 84 per cent. in one year it indicates clearly that forces are at work to prevent the execution of justice and the maintenance of law and order which, if permitted to continue, will put this city in a perilous condition. No sane person can believe that the operations of the gambling houses decreased 84 per cent. in 1910. On the contrary, the charge is made, and seemingly well sustained, that the activities of this class of offenders have greatly increased of late. The percentage of arrests for felony greatly decreased last year, and the falling off in arrests for violation of the excise law was enormous.

It is, of course, impossible to reach definite conclusions as to police efficiency merely through such statistics. That whole matter demands an arrest of judgment until the facts are all ascertained. But the Mayor and the Police Department cannot afford to take the charges lightly, to escape them by allegations of malice or snap judgment. The police system of New York is on trial, and the trial has barely begun.

THE LEHIGH VALLEY CASE.

When the Supreme Court rendered its decision sustaining the "commodity clause," forbidding railways to own, mine, and transport coal, it concluded with the statement that in its opinion justice would be served not by its making directions in the case of each defendant company, but by remanding with instructions for taking such further proceedings as might be necessary for the enforcement of the law as the court interpreted it. The Government selected the Lehigh Valley for further prosecution because it has a double organization, one for mining coal and another for carrying it, and therefore exemplified one of the methods for evading the statute. The question thus raised was of restricted importance. The statute is not involved, but merely one of the methods adopted by one company for keeping the letter and evading the spirit of the statute. The question was whether or not the Lehigh Coal Company was a bona fide corporation, or a mere adjunct of the railway. The original decision sustaining the statute expressly ruled that ownership in a corporation was not necessarily ownership in its property, but suggested that it was otherwise when the subsidiary corporation was a mere instrumentality of the principal or defendant corporation.

Apparently it will now be necessary for the Lehigh Valley to take such action as has already been taken by other corporations obnoxious to the prohibition of the statute. Each corporation naturally will follow the advice of counsel specially adapted to the circumstances of each corporation, and we may have a series of "popgun" prosecutions until a method of complying with the statute is found. The court in this case as in others refuses to recognize the plea that the statute should be voided because of the inconvenience or even disaster of obeying. Such considerations should be addressed to the lawmaking power, not to the interpreting power. Such pleas were made and possessed apparent cogency, but they were swept aside. It was nothing to the court that the businesses which they ordered separated were conducted under State statutes expressly authorizing them and long antedating the prohibition now under discussion. It was nothing to the court that the properties thus operated had been pledged under mortgages for enormous sums, and that great difficulty would be found in separating them. All such contentions were rejected as irrelevant, and not even worthy of consideration. On this head the present decision alters nothing.

Presumably the Lehigh Valley will imitate the Lackawanna, which "ruined" itself to the great profit of its shareholders. It simply cut a melon of perhaps the largest total on record. National banks and industrials have cut melons of 1,000 per cent. apiece, and the Lackawanna is nowhere on a comparison of percentages. But on a question of totals the melon which the Lackawanna cut was perhaps the largest on record. It was estimated that the total worth of the distribution approached fifty millions of dollars, and the business has since proceeded without disturbance, and so far as any one can say in compliance with the law. For the statute was aimed at substance, and succeeded in hitting only forms. It is hard to say what would have been the result if it had accomplished its real purpose. The question is akin to that other, as yet, purely academic question, what would have been the result if the Sherman anti-trust law had accomplished its intent? It is unnecessary to consider such problems apropos of a decision that the ownership by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company of "all" the stock of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company is an evasion of the commodity clause of the Hepburn law. The railway may convey all the coal company stock to its shareholders, or it may retain apparently some smaller interest. It appears to be another exemplification of Mr. HILL'S dictum that the shareholders did not care about the number of their shares, nor whether they were red or green. The thing which would worry them would be disturbance of their property rights, and that is not threatened now more than before.

The more the casual incidents of these prosecutions vary the more the underlying principles seem to be the same thing and to be unaffected. Doubtless such compliance with the forms imposed by statute and evasion of the intention of the lawmakers are irritating and baffling. But is not that better than the results of absolute compliance, which have been deprecated by nobody more impressively than by Presidents ROOSEVELT and TAFT?

THE SUNDAY MASS MEETING.

The mass meeting at the Metropolitan Opera House Sunday, called by the Women's Trades Union League, was attended by many distinguished women and men, who were there earnestly to protest against the conditions which caused the Washington Place disaster, to take measures to suppress those conditions wherever they exist, and to urge the raising of a fund to provide for those families who lost support through the disaster. Perhaps a mass meeting is not altogether the best form for such a manifestation of public indignation and sympathy to take. It is, however, a customary form, and in the circumstances, considering the attitude of the Chairman and the other distinguished persons present, who are not associated with labor unions, or affiliated with any Socialistic movement, it seems a pity that the proceedings should have been marred by any violent, ungracious, and immoderate utterances.

Bishop GREER, Mr. PHELPS, Mr. SCHIFF, Prof. DEVINE, Controller PRENDERGAST, Father MCMAHON, and many others who were conspicuous on the stage, were as deeply in sympathy with the victims of the disaster, and as strongly in earnest in their desire to prevent other disasters of the same kind, and to extend help to the surviving sufferers, as the voluble malcontents who raised their voices, who would know, if they were in the way of obtaining information through reading, learning, and experience, that the sentiments they uttered were utterly commonplace, the spirit impertinent to the occasion, and the temper they displayed calculated, in some circumstances, to defeat the object they had in view.

No attempt was made by the well-informed speakers to shift a large share of the blame from where it belongs, on the whole body of citizens. We are all more or less accountable for the Washington Place fire and similar disasters. But violent denunciations at such a time are useless, and men and women of large influence and wealth, who took part in the mass meeting, were not there for pleasurable excitement, or self-advertisement, nor were they there to make themselves targets for abuse. They accomplished their purpose by lending dignity and force to the proceedings, and giving an impetus to the movement to improve the condition of factory buildings.

THE DICKENS STAMPS.

The protest of Mr. HENRY FIELDING DICKENS, K. C., against some of the means employed by the promoters of the sale of Dickens stamps to secure big results is perfectly natural and justifiable. Mr. DICKENS, a London barrister of distinction, naturally objects to the iteration of the statement that the descendants of his famous father are "generally in necessitous circumstances." The proceeds of the sales of these stamps, which are intended to be affixed to treasured volumes of DICKENS'S works, in honor of his centenary, are to be paid to such of his descendants as need the money. Some of them are not well provided with means to live.

The idea is excellent. Some manner of celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of that novelist, who is still accounted by many the greatest the English language has produced, was looked for, and the device of perpetuating the event by the use of appropriate stamps to be affixed to the fly leaves or title pages of sets of the novels seems a happy choice, and it has been taken up eagerly. Mr. DICKENS, the barrister, suffers some temporary annoyance, not from the sale of the stamps, or the attempt to honor his father's memory, but from the advertising methods of the stamp sellers. His annoyance will end with the year, however, and the stamps, suitably placed, will be permanently treasured.

The statement, widely published, that DICKENS left a fortune of nearly $500,000 must surely be incorrect. At the time of his death JOSEPH GILLOTT, the pen manufacturer, had recently died, leaving a huge fortune, and a favorite topic of the hour was the difference between the earnings of a penmaker and a gifted wielder of the pen.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

More Than a Canal in Panama.

Few Americans except those who have been there think of Panama as anything more than a narrow strip of jungle, with a still narrower strip through which a canal is building to connect the two oceans. There is some excuse for that view if the new republic must be compared with the great countries of the world, or even with those that are of considerably less than third rank. But it is a fact, nevertheless, that there is already something more to Panama than the canal, and that in the future, if its inhabitants utilize their opportunities and develop their natural resources, it can easily take its place among the rich and prosperous little lands.

Two parties of naturalists, one sent out by the Geological Survey and the other by the Smithsonian Institution, and both acting on a kindly suggestion made by Ambassador BRYCE, have been examining Panama of late, and their preliminary reports indicate that though the canal is the great thing, the people will not be wholly dependent on what they can make out of the traffic passing through that expensive ditch.

No very large deposits of very valuable minerals have yet been found, but there is a lot of arable land of one sort or another, especially in the western part of the republic, on which can be raised most of the crops vernacular to the tropics, and only the distance from markets and the uncertainties of life and property have hitherto prevented its utilization. Soon the canal will create a permanent market of transient customers, however, and there will be no more revolutions—or at least only one more of any consequence—as the Panamanians realize, fully and rather ruefully.

The climate of Panama can hardly be called good, from a Northern standpoint, but they do have there every year about two months of really fine weather, and the other ten can be endured, now that yellow fever has been conquered and malaria has lost most of its old terrors. The investigating scientists have discovered that the animal and vegetable life on the two sides of the continental divide are somewhat different, and they are curious to see the effects of the inevitable mingling in and around the great Gatun Lake. But that, of course, will interest only biologists.

This Book Has a Bad Name.

One must not, especially at this time, exaggerate the importance of the fact that the New York police, when talking among themselves, call the volume in which they set down complaints from citizens the "Squeal Book." This appellation, presumably, is only a bit of the humorous slang common to all trades and professions, and by no means necessarily implies any great amount of derision or contempt. Taken in connection with the other phases of the police situation, however, the term does have more than superficial significance.

For "to squeal," as we understand it, means either basely to betray what ought to be concealed, or noisily to demand redress for unreal or trivial injuries. Certainly it does not become the police, even in their private conversation, to characterize as "squealers" those inhabitants of the city they are supposed to guard who do not endure in silence when they suffer robbery, assault, or other harms. The items in such a record as this book is supposed to contain are not funny. If numerous, the police should be the first to regard them with the utmost seriousness, since they reveal a state of affairs which it is the business of the police to prevent or to remedy.

To keep a book of this kind is obviously a good plan, but for withholding it from a reasonable amount of public inspection there is no easily imaginable reason except that numerous entries, if unaccompanied in a majority of cases by notes to the effect that the offenders were apprehended and convicted, would inspire just criticism of the competency or the energy of the force. The claim that giving publicity to complaints would warn the criminals that they were objects of pursuit is absurd, for, of course, the criminal knows that he has committed a crime, and he ought to feel sure, whether formally notified of the fact or not, that the police are after him.

Everything considered, the "Squeal Book" should have another name—suddenly. To see the amusing side of things is an admirable accomplishment, but there are also times for gravity, and a misplaced joke is apt to be offensive, particularly to him at whom the laughter is directed.

A Suggestion from a Scientist.

In a recent article on the plague, Prof. SIMOND of the London School of Tropical Diseases makes the curious suggestion that, instead of trusting to cats and dogs as animal assistants in the war on rats, we should take a lesson from antiquity and again make domestic pets of the big non-venomous snakes! The Professor even goes so far as to hint the Esculapian serpent was an object of widespread respect for the excellent reason that it killed the rats that brought the fleas that infected men—probably with more plagues than one.

This theory involves the belief that the ancients knew a lot about the nature, cause, and transmission of disease that was afterward forgotten and only recently rediscovered. It will probably not be accepted by many, but, whether true or not, Prof. SIMOND, whether seriously or not, does make out quite a case for the fireside snake as a rat-killer. Judiciously selected, its efficiency would be beyond question, and it would not, like both cats and dogs, itself provide the fatal flea with convenient shelter and pasturage.

Not everybody, indeed, would like to have a big snake wandering about the house, especially at night, but even that would be preferable, in the opinion of many, to dying of the plague, which has no attractions at all or to any. And between cats and snakes—good snakes, remember—some people already think there is not much choice. To give up dogs for such a substitute would be, however, another matter. Dogs are different. Dogs, as has been well said, are people, and nobody ever said that even the best of snakes were people. Let us keep snakes if we must, and let us banish the cat if we can find a fair to middling excuse for doing so, but the dog, fleas and all, must remain lest the sum total of human happiness be too seriously decreased. It's not so large, now, that we can take chances.

PROBATIONERS.

Judges Should Be Thoroughly Informed Upon All Aspects of Cases.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In recent months the question has been frequently raised in the Criminal Court Building as to the efficacy of the principles of probation and of the suspended sentence as administered in the Court of General Sessions.

It has been claimed that too many persons convicted of felony have been released on suspended sentences and that a more rigorous treatment on the part of the Judges would prove a greater deterrent to the commission of crime. It has further been claimed that the probation work is faulty and that the probation officers are not able to give adequate supervision to those placed in their charge. In opposition, it has been claimed that these charges are groundless and reflect unjustly on the court. The decision of the questions thus raised must depend on a correct understanding of the proper use of the suspended sentence which lies at the foundation of the system of probation.

What, then, are the essentials of a successful probation system? They may be enumerated as follows:

1. Wise discrimination by the court as to what convicted offenders should be placed on probation.
2. An adequate and experienced corps of probation officers.
3. Systematic supervision and assistance of probationers.
4. Adequate period of probation.
5. Regular reports to the Judges as to the conduct and other circumstances of probationers.
6. No "overcrowding" of probation officers through the assignment of too many cases.
7. Rigorous prosecution of delinquent probationers.
8. Cordial and considerate appreciation of the difficulties attending a wise administration of the probation system, both by Judges and by the District Attorney's office.

In presenting the views of the Prison Association regarding these essentials of probation, it is assumed at the outset that (as all modern penologists now assert) the probation system itself is of the highest value, and that, when it fails of success, the method of administering it is at fault.

Without criticism or innuendo in any way as to the decisions of the Judges of General Sessions, a proper probation system demands that Judges should be thoroughly informed, prior to sentencing, of all important circumstances relating to the crime committed by the offender, his environment, and his social history. Confirmed and habitual criminals are not fit subjects for the suspended sentence.

It becomes more evident each year that a fairly large proportion of offenders are mentally abnormal and that such offenders, while perhaps not so responsible for their deeds as more balanced criminals, may all the more for that reason need custodial care rather than the suspended sentence. On the other hand, the fact that the association with criminals in confinement tends to the debasement and corruption of character must always be present to the minds of the court.

In short, the suspended sentence should only be given after full knowledge of mitigating circumstances, indicating the greater probability of reformation and ultimate restoration to society outside of prison than inside.

Senator O'Gorman's Irish Forebears.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The O'Gorman family, which has given a new Senator to Washington, though possessing one of the longest pedigrees in Europe, never cut much figure in Irish history. The O'Gormans are descended from Cahir the Great, Monarch of Ireland, celebrated among other things for his will or testament beginning:

My sovereignty, my splendor, my nobleness,
my vigor,
My wealth, my strength, my power of protection,
To my fierce Res, to my vehement Failghe,
That they may be the memorials of succession
To every one (of his race) on whom they descend.

Cahir was of pure Leinster blood and it is from him that the great Leinster families—the O'Tooles, the O'Byrnes, MacMurroughs or Murphys, the O'Conor Falys, and others—descend. He was slain A. D. 123 by Conn of the Hundred Battles.

The O'Gormans went for a thousand years, as the annals show, under the name of O'Barry, (i. e., descendants of Daire Barry, son of Cahir,) and some of them crossed over to Scotland with Fergus, son of Eric, who founded the Scottish monarchy. They possessed the barony of Slievemargy, Queens County, from which they were driven after 800 years by the Norman Baron Walter de Riddlesford, who became master for a time of the territory about Carlow. The most illustrious of the O'Gormans were Aenghus, Prince and scholar, (died 1123,) and Florentius. Says "The Annals of the Four Masters": "Age of Christ 1174. Florentius O'Gorman, Chief Lecturer of Armagh and all Ireland, a learned sage, versed in sacred and profane philosophy, having spent twenty-one years of study in France and England and twenty years governing the schools of Ireland, died happily at Easter in his 70th year."

After the Norman invasion the O'Gormans were 400 years in Thomond "supporting poets and feeding the poor." In Irish annals and on tombstones the surname is written MacGorman, but Chevalier Thomas J. O'Gorman, compiler of the pedigree of Count O'Reilly, changed the prefix because he found it O'Gorman in several poems. The crest and coat of arms are described heraldically: Arms—Sable, a saltire argent. On a chief azure three fleurs de lys, or. Crest—A dragon regardant vert, surmounted by a lion gardant, or extended, sable.

O'Gorman, Kelly, and Anti-Monopoly.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is interesting to note that Senator-elect James A. O'Gorman entered politics through the Anti-Monopoly League, and his public declaration shows he has never forgotten the principles of that organization. He was one of the Anti-Monopoly League young men, a group of clean and able young lawyers, of whom more than twenty have since occupied judicial positions with credit. Most of them entered Tammany Hall. When Tammany Hall ceased to be the regular Democratic organization, on the recommendation of John G. Boyd, Chairman of the Tammany General Committee, John Kelly instructed the district leaders to organize in each Assembly district an Anti-Monopoly club, under the name of some noted Democrat, as the Thomas Jefferson Anti-Monopoly League, the Andrew Jackson Anti-Monopoly League, &c., and into these organizations went most of the young Anti-Monopoly Democrats, where their recognized ability soon brought them to the front.

John Kelly threw all his influence to the support of the anti-monopoly movement that was organized by Peter Cooper, Francis B. Thurber, Frederick A. Conkling, and other far-sighted men, who looked with alarm on the tendency to centralize wealth and power in a few hands, and the influence that Kelly exerted is still felt, as seen in Senator-elect O'Gorman's statement of principles and his loyalty to the Democratic platforms.

HENRY NICHOLS.

Wants $300 Duty-Free Limit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many, especially women, will go to Europe this Summer whose trip will be almost spoiled by fear of a Custom House examination upon their return to New York if the present regulations are not changed.

It is one of the pleasures of travel to buy a frame at Florence, a few beads in Venice, photographs in Rome, &c. The United States Government does not need this money it tries to collect from unhappy travelers. Most of the trifles we love to buy abroad we would never purchase in this country, so our manufacturers are no better off. What can be done to affect an allowance of at least $300 instead of $100?

CITY ART EXHIBITION.

National Arts Club Will Show What the Departments Are Doing.

The Municipal Art Society will hold an exhibition in the National Arts Club, 119 East Nineteenth Street, from April 10 to 23, inclusive, in which the endeavor will be made to show exactly what the city departments are aiming at. The departments have promised their co-operation and are preparing plans and views of the buildings they propose to erect.

Thus, the Board of Education will exhibit two large views showing the front and rear elevations of the new Norma, College, and also elevations in color of the Irving High School, the foundations of which are now being constructed at Irving Place and Sixteenth Street. The Municipal Art Society is taking a special interest in the mural decoration of this school, and will make its next gift to the school take the form of a mural ornamentation.

The tower of the new Municipal Building, in Tryon Row, is to be shown in model by the Bridge Department, and in connection with it will be a plan setting forth how the approaches to the Brooklyn Bridge may be reconstructed, so as to form part of the ornamentation of City Hall Park.

The Dock Department will set forth, by means of maps, plans, and water-color drawings, all that it has accomplished and planned in the way of the reclamation and development of the riverside water front, which when completed will add largely to the area of Riverside Park and hide the tracks of the New York Central entirely from view.

Jamaica Bay will also come in for attention, and the meaning of the proposed million-dollar improvement will be set forth and the value of recreation piers in the heat of Summer to the thousands who cannot leave the city will also be explained.

Commissioner Stover believes that Bryant Park may be greatly improved by continuing around it the ornamental stone railing which has been built for the Public Library, and his idea will be set forth for the praise or condemnation of the citizens, and there will also be sketches of the manner in which it is proposed to reconstruct the pavement surrounding the fountain in Central Park, which is crumbling to pieces. What has been accomplished in the way of improvements in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, will also be shown by means of views.

The Board of Water Supply, the Department of Water, Gas and Electricity, and the Fire and Police Departments will also contribute.

HOME FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Board and Room and $2.50 a Week in Endowed, Self-Governed House.

Under the auspices of the Episcopal Sisterhood of St. John the Baptist, a boarding house for working girls has been opened at 300 East Fourth Street, where fifty girls can be accommodated, and the charge for board and room will be only $2.50 a week. This is said to be the most inexpensive of such institutions in the city, and it is made possible by an endowment. The building was formerly a school.

The sleeping arrangements are on the dormitory plan, and the house is provided with a roof garden, gymnasium, reception room, and a dancing room. Although Sister Julia Frances is to be in charge, no sectarian limitations will be put upon the admission, and the general conduct of the establishment will be most liberal. Something in the nature of self-government will be installed, according to the present plans.

The girls will have the privilege of entertaining company on any night of the week, but the house closes at 10 P. M. This regulation is not designed to prevent theatre parties and such outside amusements, for a sister will be on hand to open the doors for those who have been out for the evening.

Very few of the first fifty have taken possession yet, as the house was opened only last week, but it is believed that the demand for admission will far exceed the supply.

BEQUESTS TO CHARITY.

Mary E. Poillon Leaves Money to Two Institutions.

Mary E. Poillon, who died Feb. 25, left $1,500 each to the Silver Cross Day Nursery and the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, in her will, which was filed yesterday for probate. On the death of Calanthia D. Crow, to whom the income of $2,000 was left for life, the infirmary will receive $1,000, and the remaining $1,000 will be given to the Water Street Mission.

The will leaves the jewelry and personal effects of the testratrix, as well as the residum of an estate, consisting of more than $10,000 realty and more than $10,000 of personalty, to Ida C. Poillon, her sister.

THE CHECKING PRIVILEGE.

Thinks It Should Not Be Availed Of to Pay Petty Bills.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg the courtesy of your columns to voice a plaintive protest against the abuse of the "checking" privilege on the part of persons having petty accounts in business banks.

While some men, armed with a fountain pen and a pocket checkbook, are prone to issue checks, as they might challenges, on the slightest provocation, the chief offenders are women depositors, who seem to toy with their diminutive accounts, much as children are wont to tamper with their penny savings.

Many of the banks associated with the Clearing House are in daily receipt of several hundred small checks, drawn mostly by women. Few of these checks exceed a couple of dollars in amount, the majority being for sums less than a dollar; and nearly all of them are given in payment of bills of gas, electric light, and telephone companies, milk dealers, bakers, laundrymen, &c.

There are, it is true, exceptional cases in which the use of checks for small amounts is justifiable; but in the matter of these minor, regularly recurring weekly or monthly household bills one would think it less troublesome to the ladies themselves to pay them in cash to the collectors who present them, thus avoiding burdening the banks and the Clearing House with a prodigious quantity, in the aggregate, of insignificant and wholly unnecessary paper.

It ought not to occasion surprise if the banks manifest a disposition to drop these inconsiderate customers whose accounts, while of little or no value, are very bothersome to handle.

Larval Eels in the Dietary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What you say under the heading "Chinook Salmon," the part relating to larval eels, reminds me of a discovery, that these are canned, like sardines, and may be had in restaurants. I first saw them on the bill of supper specialties in a prominent cafe, as "Angullos;" which is, I think, Portuguese; and later, at a Spanish restaurant. The process of canning turns them a creamy white, with black beads for eyes.

I don't know whether the English word "Elver," applied to young eels, relates to them in this form, or only when further matured.

I remember that an old friend of my father's, in Hartford, Conn., used to be very fond of "Lampen" eels in the Spring, but I never chanced to try any myself. I mean to do so this year, reminded by your article.

A SAD CHANGE.

Hurrah! hurrah! for the Yankee tar
And the starry flag o'er all!
For the enemy was made to flee
From the grand Annapolis Ball.

We always knew that the boys in blue
Ran, when sweet danger faced them;
But never say that they ran away—
'Twas "Charge!" and no man outpaced them.

It's news to us that in any fuss,
Fun, frolic, or fight and slaughter,
Our navy crack could turn its back
On living man—or his daughter.

SINGLE BOARD COSTS STATE MUCH MORE

Separate Control for Institutions Recommended by Charities Investigator.

PACKERS PUT UP PRICES

Action Followed Condemnation of Beef Because It Was Not Up to Contract Specifications.

ALBANY, April 3.—Advance proofs of Part II. of the report of Henry C. Wright's investigation into the financial management of State institutions, made for the State Charities Aid Association, were made public to-day. Part I. of the report was published last Monday. It showed that the central control of New York's charitable institutions and hospitals had not brought about any notable economies and that there had been many abuses and much loss to the State.

The second part of the report compares New York State's system of fiscal control with the systems in operation in Iowa and Indiana. The State institutions in Iowa are under the complete administrative control of a central board. In Indiana each institution is an independent unit. New York State's system is midway between.

The institutions in Indiana annually expend $43.03 per capita for food; New York spends $45.05, while Iowa spends $35.48. Mr. Wright found that it cost New York State $1 to supervise $46.30 expended by the institutions, while Indiana obtained a supervision of $78.80 for its $1. In Iowa $1 is paid for the supervision of only $54.80. The cost per inmate of such supervision was as follows:

New York	8.18

The report calls attention to the fact that during the year 1909-10 the price of beef in Indiana and Iowa averaged lower than the price paid in New York, but suddenly in October, 1910, the price demanded by the packers was more than 1 cent higher than the price asked by the same packers in Indiana and half a cent higher than in Iowa. Commenting on this Mr. Wright says:

"The fact that the beef in the New York State institution was examined last June, and a large proportion of it condemned, and the packers thereupon instructed to deliver beef according to the specifications, may possibly enter in as a partial explanation of this sudden rise in the price of beef for New York."

In comparing the manner in which the food and supplies were handled under the three systems Mr. Wright found that the inmates of the institutions in Indiana consumed 1,176 pounds of beef per capita per year, which, by an expert dietician, is considered an ample amount; the inmates in New York State institutions consumed 1,227 pounds of food per capita per year, while Iowa consumed 1,423 pounds per capita per year.

These findings lead Mr. Wright to believe that further centralization of control of State institutions in New York would add materially to the cost of operating the institutions and would not produce commensurate results.

"Centralization in New York State," he says, "has secured low unit prices, but not economical administration of the institutions; the low unit costs have been largely offset by the delivery of goods of a lower grade than these contracted for. Comparatively little attention has been given by the supervising departments to the receiving, testing, storing, delivering, and consumption of supplies. Appropriations for the expenses of the central offices have been more largely used in keeping minute records than in employing experts and agents. The institutions have needed advice rather than control.

"This investigation seems to point to the advisability of a further decentralization of the detailed supervision of buying and a fuller supervision of the larger problems of the institutions. Experts, rather than bookkeepers and clerks, seem to be needed."

As a result of his investigation, Mr. Wright has suggested a new type of State supervision and control of State institutions. If this were applied it would limit the powers of the central departments to subdividing the appropriations made by the Legislature. It would also take from those departments the power to control the purchase of particular items and would return that power to the individual institution.

For instance, the central departments could stipulate the total amount to be paid for boots and shoes, but could not dictate the price or quality of boots or shoes purchased by any institution. It could determine the total amount to be spent for outer garments, but not the number, quality, or price of such garments.

RUSHING WORK ON CAPITOL.

Assembly Chamber to be Ready by April 17—Guard Against Thieves.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 3.—With nearly a dozen of the administrative departments of the State Government conducting their work under strange roofs, efforts will soon be on foot to restore the burned part of the State Capitol to a condition where it will again be fit to be occupied.

For the next week or ten days the contractors will concentrate their efforts on the Assembly chamber and the adjoining section of the third floor, which is occupied by various Assembly committees and officials. The Assembly chamber itself is more or less of a wreck.

The Senate chamber itself escaped damage from fire, but the flames ravaged the Senate Finance Committee room and did considerable damage in the office of the President pro tem. of the Senate. Repair gangs were at work to-day in this section of the Capitol as well.

State Architect Ware said this afternoon that while some of the State departments might be compelled to remain in their temporary headquarters for some weeks, he fully expected to have the legislative precincts of the Capitol ready for the lawmakers to resume their labors on April 17, the date to which the legislative adjournment was taken.

State Archivist A. J. F. Van Lear issued a statement to-night in which he declares that State Historian Victor Hugo Paltsits was without knowledge of what was actually being done when he charged the State Education Department with carelessness in not saving historical papers from the débris thrown from the windows of the burned portion of the State Capitol.

State Historian Paltsits to-day recovered the appeal written by Gov. Thomas Pownall of Massachusetts to New York's Governor, asking for a contribution for the relief of the sufferers of the Boston fire of 1760. The message is partly burned, but portions of many pages are legible.

The sentries on duty at the State Capitol to-day redoubled their vigilance to prevent the theft of old coins which are scattered among the débris in the burned State Library. Some of the desks in the Senate clerks' room were broken open yesterday and rifled of their contents.

George Washington's famous sword, said to have been given to him by Frederick the Great, has been recovered. It was found undamaged under a heap of charred books.

Since the burning of the State Library, Secretary of State Lazansky has received a number of letters from persons in various sections of the country offering books for sale. A Michigan attorney says he has the "documentary history of New York" dating from 1600.

Three Excise Commissioners Out.

ALBANY, April 3.—State Excise Commissioner Farley to-day received resignations from the following assistant counsel in the Legal Bureau of his department: W. Walter Lee, St. Lawrence County, salary, $4,500 per annum; Edward J. Halter, Albany, $2,400; Samuel H. Saulsbury, Seneca Falls, and Arthur Smith, Ontario County.

Jim Sales of Missionary Loop, Ind., was the sufferer's friend, a fact duly attested on numerous bottles of elixir bearing his portrait and sold throughout the length and breadth of the land. But Jim, having failed to find it useful in preventing the end, had departed this life, leaving an undesirable name and presumably several millions in cold cash. Now, according to Della Sales, his daughter, it was bad enough to have to be associated with Jim's name and portrait and business during his life time without going on indefinitely under the handicap. Whereupon, deciding that each person was entitled to get as much out of life as possible, she had departed first for Washington, where the family name became De La Salle, and thence to England, from whence she eventually returned with the hyphenated name, a husband belonging to it, and a properly lofty speech to match.

All this, mind you, prior to the moment when, in Mr. Harry James Smith's new play acted at the Lyceum last night, she, with her mother, similarly artificialized, and her younger sister Violet, a little more naturally refined, has arrived at the Long Island home of the Justin Rawsons, very swagger American people indeed, and quite set on having their son Anthony enter into an alliance with the presumably smart English girl.

It is at the point that the play—good-natured satire occasionally, near burlesque once in a while, and, on the whole, rather more in the nature of farce than comedy—takes its beginning, a very good beginning, too, for a piece which is almost persistently amusing from its opening to its end, and which, with a few slight alterations and a little more briskness on the part of one or two of the players, may be made completely so.

What happens subsequently is neither so very important nor so very surprising. Anthony is a first-rate young cad, and his despised younger brother, Geoffrey, a diamond in the rough, with a ranch in Mexico, to which he is anxious to return. And before long you observe that the decent young sister has taken a liking to him, is ready to break with her fiancé, and exceeding anxious to throw off the mask of sham aristocracy which the others insist on her carrying. For a little while it looks as though she will not have to make the effort, for one Peter Swallow, monumentalist—a rhyme-slinging person, who is by way of being in the tombstone business, arrives inopportunely, to discover in Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh his old flame of years ago. He sets about proving it to Anthony Rawson, who doesn't believe the story, but wants to be sure of his facts before he is married to Viola.

In this scene, in which Mrs. Fiske, as the fraudulent Englishwoman, brazens it out to such an extent that even Swallow is deceived, the play reaches the climax of laughter, though last night the full effect was somewhat diminished by a previous scene somewhat too long drawn out in itself, and made to seem even more so by Mr. Henry E. Dixey's uncertain fishing for his lines. Subsequently, however, Mr. Dixey managed to be rather amusing, though he is far from making the most of rather rich opportunities.

However, to continue with the story, Mr. Swallow having departed, the younger sister herself has a spasm of conscience, blurts out the facts of the deception, and, with the others of the family, enjoys the dubious satisfaction of being asked to quit the Rawsons' house.

But—there is one act to come. And Anthony, as has been suggested, is pretty much of a prig. He has been carrying on with the housemaid at the very moment his fiancée is in the house, and he has a "past"—very lurid, indeed, as you have gathered from the whispered innuendoes of the Rawsons' butler. Opportunely Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh learns of his goings on, and when shortly afterward she is apprised of the fact that her little sister has accepted the hand of the virtuous younger brother, she knows how to use her powers to the best advantage. The result is that Anthony implores his parents to sanction the match—even to request the fictitious English ladies to continue their visit for a week or two. And as the curtain falls Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh is considering the invitation.

Not as deep as a well nor as broad as a barn door, and marred occasionally by the suddenness of the factitious happenings; a bit old-fashioned too, in its introduction of comic interludes for the butler and the maid, the play still provides a very enjoyable entertainment, has cleverness to commend it, and justifies the hope that its author will make further attempts. He has a sense of fun, of situation, and of character.

And he has here the advantages of very expert handling.

Mrs. Fiske has seldom played so broadly, but the end justifies the means; indeed, it is difficult to see how the rôle could be handled any differently, to its advantage. She is delightfully skillful in making the passages from the speech and manner of the artificial English type—beautifully characterized in her playing—to the more natural, if somewhat vulgar American type—equally true in her suggestion of a common origin and unrefined surroundings. Her sudden deflections from the purity of the English speech to the true-blue "Ammurican," as, for instance, in the scenes where she is alone with her female parent and addresses her as "Maaw" are side-splittingly funny, as, indeed, is the scene in which she affects a foreigner's surprised interest in the curious native type represented in her now befuddled former suitor.

Next to hers for sincerity, variety, and charm must be mentioned the performance of Miss Kathlene MacDonell, one of the best examples of simple and natural acting in an ingénue rôle that has been disclosed for some time. And in a brief but effective low character rôle Miss Florine Arnold is both pictorially and histrionically effective and amusing.

Mr. Henry E. Dixey's performance of the man of the monuments, almost a monologue for at least a third of the second act, was extremely uneven, with little suggestion of a sense for characterization, which, indeed, he appears always to lack. But there was competent playing in lesser rôles by Kate Lester, Charles Harbury, Veda McElvers, and Douglas Wood, while Malcolm Duncan was such a very ingratiating younger son that one would have liked to see more of him. A very good bit was contributed by Helena Van Brugh.

THOMAS A. WISE IN 'OLD NEW YORKER'

Actor Appears in New Play Contrasting Ancient with Modern Business Methods.

WITH CHARM AND HUMOR

Good Characterizations Include Twin Old Maids Who Enter Financial Whirl—Excellent Cast.

AN OLD NEW YORKER, a play, in four acts, by Harrison Rhodes and Thomas A. Wise. Daly's Theatre.

Samuel Beekman.....Thomas A. Wise
Richard Corliss.....William Rosell
Horatio Trimble.....George Gaston
Josiah Leggett.....Frank Currier
Jonathon Gormley.....Ethelbert Hales
Jameson Gormley.....Franklin Jones

Mamie Kerwin.....Francis McLeod

Thomas A. Wise came back to New York last night after an absence of a year and brought a new play of his own and Harrison Rhodes's building. Whether people outside of this city will care for his offering, or even understand it, is problematical, but last night's audience enjoyed it thoroughly. "An Old New Yorker" is the title, and the people, most of them, who carry the story are of the sort that one may meet in some of the old houses still standing about Washington Square or in the Stuyvesant neighborhood.

The leading character is an old business man, with old ideas and old associates. As senior member of the firm of Beekman & Corliss, shippers to West Indian ports, he has conducted the business for twenty years after the death of his partner, until he can take into the firm young Richard Corliss. The young man proves to be too progressive in his methods to suit the elder partner, and there is a friendly rupture of the firm soon after, which has been re-established. Old Beekman pays over to young Corliss what his share was worth twenty years before and almost beggars himself by doing it.

Things do not prosper for Corliss. He has entered into a combination with James Gormley to control the Southern shipping business, and the combination has not paid. Old Beekman comes to the rescue at almost the last moment, puts himself back into business, and with the assistance of his old New York friends starts a new firm with capital and vim enough to wipe the combination out of existence.

The bare telling of a rough outline, however, does not indicate the chief charm of the play. That lies in the humor of the lines, and the situations, and most particularly in the characterizations. There are the twin old maids who have found themselves many times millionaires through their real estate holdings, and who suddenly decide to enter the business whirl of modern New York, and do it successfully. And the other old business men, chums of Beekman, the old servant, the young clerk with a love of poetry, the modern self-made millionaire, and his grandson who has inherited some stamina from his family. There are also several pretty, modern girls, and a little love story involving them.

Mr. Wise, in his usual encouraging way, played Beekman, and developed the character into something distinct from the other rôles he has played. As for the rest of the cast, it was of almost uniform quality, unusually good. Lola May played a young New Yorker of an old family, William Rosell was the over-ambitious youth, Esther Banks and Lettie Ford were the old maid twins, and looked the parts perfectly. A special line should be given to Frances McLeod for her characterization of a "fresh" stenographer of the new school, and to Lindsay J. Hall for his work in the rôle of an old-school clerk. All of the rest of the company deserve praise.

At the end of the third act Mr. Wise was called upon for a speech, and delivered a little dissertation on old New Yorkers, including those who have lived here long enough to think themselves natives. After the performance he was called upon for another speech, which the audience did not hear. A committee from the "Anien' Corner," headed by William A. Leary, was waiting for him in the wings and presented him with a pearl stickpin as an expression of regard from his old friends.

PAVLOWA DANCES FAREWELL

Appears in New Divertissement, "Chopin," and Triumphs in Spanish Dance.

Anna Pavlowa danced her farewell for the season at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday afternoon, and perhaps her farewell to that house, because just what is to be done with the various sets of Russian dancers who loom on next season's horizon is not yet decided. In any case, Pavlowa had arranged a decidedly novel programme for the occasion.

The first of the novelties was a divertissement called "Chopin," in which that composer was discovered seated at the piano as the curtain rose, playing one of his preludes. This finally merged into a nocturne, played by the orchestra and danced by four of the dancers, who represented, according to the programme, "the surging thoughts that sweep through Chopin's mighty mind." The music changed again to the C-sharp minor waltz, and Pavlowa appeared. The "Minute" waltz was danced by two other dancers, and another nocturne ended the little play.

Later Pavlowa was seen in her Swan dance; but after that she cast aside ballet slippers and appeared as a character dancer. With Mr. Morosoff she danced a Russian dance, in which, it will be remembered, she appeared with Mordkin once or twice last season.

It was during her next appearance, however, that she achieved the triumph of the afternoon, in a Spanish dance to the music of Rubinstein's "Toreador et Andoulase," which she danced with Mr. Morosoff. In a brilliant costume of green, silver, and white, Pavlowa danced with a passion and a fire which aroused the house to a storm of applause. She and her partner were recalled and recalled, until finally she gave the conductor the sign to repeat the dance.

At the end of the programme she took her part in the octet mazurka from Glinka's "Life of the Czar," which has often been danced here by the Russians this season, with Mlle. Pajitskaia as the leader. She was deluged with bouquets and applause, and the curtain rose again and again, to disclose her bowing her thanks.

The programme contained several other interesting features. All the dances, it may be said, had been arranged especially for the occasion by Pavlowa. One of them was the Snowflake ballet from Tschaikowsky's "The Nut Cracker," in which a large corps of dancers appeared, assisted by an invisible chorus. The scenery for the third act of "Königskinder" made a very pretty background as the dancers twirled in the falling snow.

The Misses Schmols, Kuhn, Piaskowietskaia and Bewiokowa and Mr. West appeared in a Dance of Pierrot and Pierrettes; the Misses Schmols and Kuhn danced an Italian tarentelle, and the Misses Schmolz, Kuhn, and Piaskowietskaia and the Messrs. West, Trojanowski, and Barboe danced a very brilliant "Dance Bohemienne."

Miss Lydia Lipkowska had been announced to sing twice on the programme, but illness prevented, and in her place Mme. La Salle-Rabinoff appeared, singing the first time the mad scene from "Lucia," and later "Caro Nome" from "Rigoletto." The orchestra, under the direction of Theodore Stier, played two movements from Tschaikowsky's fifth symphony and Beethoven's overture to "King Stephen."

It may be stated that the advent of a new lot of Russian dancers in New York next season may result in the temporary absence of Pavlowa and Mordkin. A large company of dancers, headed by Nijinsky, Karsavina, Gheltzer, and eight other women, will appear at the Metropolitan and on tour. Two of the ballets to be danced are "Sheherasade," fashioned from Rimsky-Korsakoff's symphony by that name to which his widow has violently protested, and a new work by Theresina, entitled "Le Beau Narcisse."

Pavlowa and Mordkin will have a company entirely separate from this one, and will confine most of their attention to the larger cities of the country.

"Little Miss Fix It," the vehicle chosen for the metropolitan reappearance of Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth, which took place at the Globe Theatre last evening, has no more plot than the average Broadway musical comedy, which it is not, and not half so many vaudeville specialties to fill in the time. It is, in fact, pretty tenuous entertainment, and it is doubtful if even the personal popularity of the two stars who are featured in it can bolster it up to any great amount of success.

There are two dogs in the first act which aroused interest; Miss Bayes has a good entrance. She is discovered sitting in a tree behind a parasol when the curtain rises, and some time later lowers the parasol to disclose herself; Mr. Norworth also has a good entrance over a wall; the ending of the act, in which two of the characters, who have been dumped from a rowboat into the river, come in drenched, is amusing; at least one line aroused a great deal of laughter: "Don't try to go from the Martha Washington to Rector's in one jump"; but these details can scarcely be said to have held the audience spellbound for the three-quarters of an hour that the act lasted.

And unfortunately the other two acts did not help matters much. Miss Bayes put all her spirit into her songs, and so did Mr. Norworth into his, and some of the songs will attain some popularity, but even Miss Bayes and Mr. Norworth could do nothing with the dialogue.

Perhaps the very first strains which issued from the orchestra at the beginning of the evening, "Shine On, Silver Moon," were an evil omen, for that song inevitably suggests a certain piece in which Mr. Ziegfeld was interested.

It may be stated that all of the songs, of which there are eight during the course of the piece, were repeated, some of them many times. Most of these were written by Miss Bayes and Mr. Norworth. The best of them were "I've Got a Garden in Sweden," which has a really clever variant on the refrain, in which Miss Bayes asks why if he has a garden filled with marigolds, hyacinths, myrtle, chrysanthemums, morning glories, edelweiss, violets, and orchids he should come to look for an American Beauty rose; "The Only Bit of Ireland," "Turn Off Your Light, Mr. Moon Man," and "Months and Months."

The first two of the songs were written by Austin, Barnes and Murphy. "The Only Bit of Ireland" was the Irish song which fell to Miss Bayes during the last act, and which she sang deliciously. Miss Bayes and Mr. Norworth sang the Moon song together.

The company, headed by Miss Bayes and Mr. Norworth, both of whom did as well as they could with what they had to do it with, was much better than the piece. Miss Annie Buckley managed to impart a sense of characterization to an Irish maid servant with a very few lines, and Mr. Walsh was almost amusing in the 1880 American idea of an Englishman. Miss Grace Fields, Miss Cez Waldrop, and Miss Eleanor Stuart all were important in the scheme of things, and a Scotch collie in the first act helped to pass a few minutes pleasantly.

The settings were very well arranged, especially the first one, showing a country home on Long Island, a really beautiful scene, and the company was generally well dressed. In the last act Miss Bayes wore three gowns in almost as many minutes. Even if Billy left home on account of the purple one, there were many present last night who liked it.

MISS GARDEN IN CONCERT.

Sings Operatic Arias and Songs—Sammarco, Tibaldi, and Brockway Assist.

What was announced as Miss Mary Garden's only concert in New York was given yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall. Miss Garden, however, only gave part of it; the rest was supplied by Mr. Sammarco, the baritone, who, like her, belongs to the Chicago Opera Company; Mr. Arturo Tibaldi, violinist, and Mr. Howard Brockway, pianist.

There was a fairly large audience present; and there was a festive appearance given to the occasion by elaborate decorations of palms and other plants upon the stage. Interest of a certain kind was also added by Miss Garden's striking costume; likewise by her gay and jocular manner upon the platform, which seemed at first intended to cover a certain embarrassment of her own, and to put everybody, including herself, at ease.

Miss Garden's embarrassment, if it really was such, was, under the circumstances, easily understood and perfectly justifiable, especially after she had begun to sing. Her selections included three operatic arias: "Il est doux," from Massenet's "Hérodiade," one from Puccini's "Tosca," and one from Messager's "Fortunio." The two were songs in French, with one in German; and she sang after Massenet's air, in response to applause, the Scotch song "Annie Laurie." Miss Garden's deficiencies in voice and vocal art were pitilessly laid bare by her singing of such music in such surroundings. But nothing new was revealed as to either voice or art, to those familiar with the operatic impersonations she has given here in recent years. There were, of course, interest and curiosity to hear her in a concert, and both were shown by the audience yesterday. Large quantities of flowers were handed to her by the ushers; there was applause, and she was frequently recalled to the platform; but there was little positive enthusiasm over her singing.

Among her songs was a setting of Heine's "Du bist wie eine Blume," by Mr. Arthur Rosenstein, an agreeable, but hardly an original composition, not without reminders of some of its very numerous predecessors. This Miss Garden sang in German to Mr. Rosenstein's own accompaniment, and she was called upon to repeat it.

Mr. Sammarco's singing was beautiful in both voice and style; that of a true and accomplished artist. He was doubly to be admired for putting on his programme the "Lamento" and "Inno" from Monteverdi's "Orfeo," one of the very first operas; music of noble and eloquent simplicity which he sang with poignant declamatory fervor. He appeared once more in an air from Verdi's "Don Carlos," the first part of which he had to repeat.

Mr. Arturo Tibaldi played with Mr. Howard Brockway a movement from one of Beethoven's violin sonatas, and the finale from Bruch's G minor concerto; with a sweet tone in the former, but with hardly enough technical facility in the latter. Mr. Brockway contributed two pieces of his own, "An Idyl of Murmuring Water" and a "Humoreske"; also Ernst von Dohnanyi's Rhapsody in C major—really charming and musical playing. His own compositions seemed of greater interest than the Hungarian pianist's; and the "Idyl of Murmuring Water," though slight, has some unusually interesting harmonic traits.

OLD COMEDY PERIOD SHOWN.

Prof. Matthews's Lecture Illustrated by Scenes from "School for Scandal."

The old comedy period of the English drama's development was the subject of the third special matinée at The New Theatre yesterday. Prof. Brander Matthews spoke on the changes that took place in the construction of stages between the days of Shakespeare and of Sheridan, and gave to the French the particular credit of starting the form of stage and theatre building that has resulted in the modern playhouse. As has been the case at the other matinées, the theatre was crowded.

The play used to illustrate the lecture was "The School for Scandal," of which two scenes were presented. The stage was set with movable flats and wings, and a wide apron was built out beyond the curtain line, with old-fashioned footlights along the edge. Stage boxes, occupied by actors representing men and women of fashion of Sheridan's time, were arranged on either side of the proscenium arch.

Act III., Scene 1, the quarrel scene, and Act IV., Scene 3, the screen scene, of Sheridan's old comedy were given, with Louis Calvert as Sir Peter, Pamela Gaythorne as Lady Teazle, A. E. Anson as Joseph Surface, Frank Gillmore as Charles, E. M. Holland as Sir Oliver, and Pedro de Cordoba as John. The conventions of the old stage were adhered to closely.

The last performance of the series will be given Friday afternoon, when the modern drama will be discussed, with scenes from "The Thunderbolt" to illustrate it.

Mlle. Trentini at the Manhattan.

CHINESE GIVE A FAIR FOR FAMINE VICTIMS

Even the Women Forsake Their Privacy to Dress Dolls and Sell Goods.

BAZAAR TO BE OPEN A WEEK

Oriental Children Help in the Work and Tearless Babies Show Off—Whole Quarter Gayly Decorated.

Chinatown began yesterday one of the biggest celebrations in its history. For the entire week it will hold a big fair to raise money for the starving millions in China. Doyers, Pell, and Mott Streets are to be brilliant day and night with Chinese and American flags and gay-colored lights. To-morrow a sixty-foot dragon will arrive from California to aid in the decorations, and a tiger, half as long, is coming from Philadelphia.

The Chinese New Year does not show Chinatown in such brilliant hues, for every merchant has outdone himself in decorations. Even the Chinese babies are giving their pennies and Chinese women, who rarely leave their homes, are at the bazaar at 11 Doyers Street, selling the goods their husbands have donated. Every dollar means a life in China saved for three weeks, and every one is working hard for it.

The little Chinese women have even reproduced the patterns of their own gay garments for the fair, and for days have been dressing dolls, just as American women do for their big fairs. But the Chinese women have made little Chinese garments, and American dolls wear smiles of conscious pride in their Oriental garb of bright-colored trousers and braided blouses.

Many of the dolls were given by the Chinese children. Chin Fong Ngong is only 6 years old, but she gave $10 in money for the bazaar, and little Lee Oi, whose given name Oi means love, and who would be Love Lee, if her name was written in English, is 10 years old, and she has four dolls bought with her savings.

The bazaar at 11 Doyers Street may be entered through the arcade from Mott Street. There are fancy tables of all kinds with Chinese embroideries, china, trinkets of all kinds, and a home-made candy table with American kinds of candy and the real Chinese candy. There is a flower table which was sold out at an early hour last night in exchange for a bag of money, for a single flower sold for anything from cents to dollars, and the dollars were more frequent than cents.

At 5 Doyers Street, which was the Chinese theatre, but which is now a mission, there was an entertainment last night, and there will be others every evening this week. The special feature last night was the singing by the Morning Star Mission Kindergarten, plump, rosy-cheeked Chinese babies in their native dress. The last entertainment on Saturday night will close with a drill by the boy scouts, of whom a number, in their khaki suits, are on duty at the bazaar every evening. There was such a crowd at the entertainment last night that there was barely standing room.

The week's work for the famine sufferers began Sunday afternoon with a Chinese meeting in the big mission hall, the Chinese Consul, Y. Y. Young, being present, and all the speeches in Chinese. The formal opening of the event was yesetrday afternoon with a number of Americans and Chinese present and a letter from Mayor Gaynor. In his remarks yesterday Consul Young said:

"Our Government in China finds more difficulty in coping with the famine than ever before for three reasons. First, it is complicated by the plague, then we have the trouble with Russia to consider, and are engaged in making a change in our own internal policy. The Government cannot do everything and we must help. The Americans have been very generous. They have done much for us in the past, as well as in the present, returning to us, as they did the indemnities after the boxer uprising. But we cannot expect any one to do for us unless we also do for ourselves."

The Rev. Huie Kin, Dr. Y. Y. Tsue of the General Theological Seminary in New York; Y. C. Mar of Columbia, K. H. Chow of the Chicago University, and Dr. Chen Wen Chung were others at the meeting.

The Chinese women have come out for the bazaar as they have never done at any other time. From seventy to a hundred of the Chinese women were invited to an afternoon tea at the Morning Star Mission last Tuesday. Many came, stayed through the afternoon, and promised to do everything possible. Mrs. Huie Kin is the Chairman of the Bazaar Committee, Mrs. K. F. Pang Vice Chairman, and Mrs. Lum Lee Secretary. K. F. Pang is Chairman of the Exercises. A few of the Chinese women working in the bazaar are Mrs. Matilda Hall, Mrs. Loo Lin, Mrs. Ti Pond, Mrs. Mary Lee, Mrs. Wing, and Miss Mabel Lee.

The prettiest part of the bazaar last night was the babies. There were many of them, of different ages, in Chinese dress and gay little caps, and not a baby cried.

The work is organized by the Famine Relief Committee of the Chinese Merchants' Association. L. D. Lee and C. H. Chu are in charge of the entertainment.

FIGHT SAFETY APPLIANCE ACT

Railroads in Federal Suit Question Its Constitutionality.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 3.—Action attacking the Federal safety appliance act as it affects railroads was started in the United States Court here to-day at the instance of the Louisville & Nashville and Atlantic Coast Line Railroads. They seek to have the act declared unconstitutional, setting forth five reasons why the law should be taken off the statute books.

The reasons are that Congress in passing the act exceeded its powers to regulate commerce; that such a law is not authorized by the Constitution; that the act is so broad that it penalizes railroads engaged in inter-State commerce whether the defective appliances on which the Government bases its prosecution have been used in inter-State commerce or not; that the act attempts to regulate appliances used in intra-State as well as inter-State commerce, and that the act violated the tenth amendment to the Constitution because "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it are reserved to the States or to the people."

During the past few months the Government has made out more than a dozen cases under this act against railroads entering Atlanta.

A SUICIDE AT FRIEND'S HOUSE

Brooklyn Painter Goes to St. Louis and Kills Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 3.—Henry Wucherpfennig, a painter, traveled from his home at 21 Fillmore Place, Brooklyn, to see his old friend, John Volz, a butcher, of 826 East Prairie Avenue, before killing himself.

The men had not met since thirty years ago, when they lived in the same town in Germany.

Wucherpfennig was found dead in Volz's home to-day. He had slashed himself twice across the wrist with a butcher knife which he had taken from Volz's kitchen.

Wucherpfennig appeared at the Volz home on Saturday. He announced he had come for a visit. Volz was overjoyed to see him, and they spent Saturday night and yesterday talking over the days of their youth in Germany.

Mrs. Volz said Wucherpfennig had been very nervous all the time he was in the house, but said nothing which would indicate he intended to end his life.

The police found $225 in his pocket. He left no letter explaining the cause of his act. He was married and had a family of several children in Brooklyn. He had been in this country nineteen years. His son was wired to-night from Brooklyn asking that the body be sent home.

GRAFT TRIAL IN QUEENS.

Former Under Sheriff Phillips First of Indicted Men to Face Jury.

Former Under Sheriff John M. Phillips, against whom nine indictments were returned in the recent graft hunt in Queens charging grand larceny and forgery, was placed on trial before Justice Maddox in the Queens County Supreme Court, Long Island City, yesterday on one of the grand larceny indictments in which he is charged with defrauding the city of $878.

Previous to becoming Under Sheriff, Phillips was a builder and it is charged that by means of dummy bidders he obtained contracts for repairing and rebuilding six different culverts in different sections of Queens. The city spent about $5,000 on the culverts and it is alleged the work could have been done for less than $2,000.

Personally, Phillips is well liked throughout Queens. Misfortune has been pursuing him since his indictments. About the time he was arraigned his only child, a boy of ten, died. His wife never recovered from the shock and is now said to be dying in a sanitarium.

Deputy Attorney General James A. Parsons, assisted by District Attorney Fred G. De Witt, is in charge of the prosecution. Former Assistant District Attorney Eugene N. L. Youngs appears for Phillips.

Former Superintendent of Highways Leahy, under whom the culvert contracts were awarded, and who has turned State's evidence, was called as the first witness. He testified that in June of 1909 he said he was unable to get bidders on the work and it was suggested to submit the matter to Phillips, with the result that a few days later he found on his desk bids and specifications for different culverts. It was developed at the Gresser hearing that these bids were all made out by dummies and that Phillips got the money on the vouchers.

Lawyer Young made a motion to dismiss twenty-five indictments pending against Frank H. Burke, former General Foreman of Queens, who is charged with forgery and petit larceny in padding the pay rolls. Mr. Young declared that Burke had been subpœnaed as a witness before the Grand Jury where he was permitted to testify against himself and that without his evidence the indictments could not have been found.

Deputy Attorney General Parsons said he had gone over the minutes of this particular Grand Jury and was frank to say that without the evidence given by Burke he did not see how the indictments could have been returned. Justice Maddox thanked Mr. Parsons for his frankness and took the papers under advisement.

SAVE VILLAGE FROM FLAMES.

Women Join the Men of Riverton, Conn., in Volunteer Bucket Brigade.

Special to The New York Times.

WINSTED, Conn., April 3.—Riverton, a small village in the Farminton Valley four miles from here, had a narrow escape from destruction by fire this afternoon, and but for the timely aid of women the place undoubtedly would have been wiped out.

The blaze started from an unknown cause in a large dry meadow owned by Charles Moore, located only an eighth of a mile from the village. Before the villagers knew of the fire it had communicated to a five-acre pine grove, and the crackling of the flames, driven by a stiff northwest gale, gave the first alarm.

Riverton has no fire protection, and the men started for the fire with buckets, brooms, and other hand implements, while women ran from house to house, summoning help, and telephoned to Pleasant Valley, the nearest hamlet, for additional aid. Then they joined the ranks of the fire fighters, working beside the twosome of men.

The fact that the frost was not out of the ground hampered the volunteers, because no trenches could be dug to arrest the flames, which were rapidly spreading toward the village. Women formed a bucket brigade and carried water from a near-by river, while the men tried to beat out the fire. After a battle lasting two and a half hours the flames were checked within a few rods of the Congregational Church. Thirty acres were burned over.

Riverton men are already discussing the formation of a volunteer fire company, with the women who did such creditable work to-day enrolled as honorable members.

EULOGIZE DR. WASHINGTON.

His Life Blameless, Declare Negro Pastors at Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Va., April 3.—"You are wrapped in the invulnerable armor of a blameless life," was the tribute paid to-day to Dr. Booker T. Washington in expressions of sympathy adopted and ordered sent to Dr. Washington by the Colored Baptist Ministers' Conference, with headquarters at Norfolk, because of the recent attack on Dr. Washington in New York.

"In all this deep and regrettable notoriety," declare the resolutions, "there is one cause for us to rejoice, namely, that in over a quarter of a century of magnificent service to your country and your race, here in this Southland, not a breath of slander ever assailed you, nor a hand, white or black, was ever lifted to do you harm.

"Your life has been so pure and useful that shafts of slander, even when dipped in the deadliest poison that could be hurled against you, fall, broken and harmless, at your feet."

Albert Ulrich, a carpenter of 111½ West Sixty-third Street, who was arrested on complaint of Dr. Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, pleaded not guilty in Special Sessions yesterday to the charge of assault against him. Ulrich was unaccompanied by counsel, and hurried away after pleading. As Dr. Washington did not appear in court, the case was postponed indefinitely.

TELEPHONE DEAL IN DOUBT.

New York Telephone Co. May Not Get Control of Rochester Companies.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 3.—With the time limit for the deposit of stocks and bonds of the Independent Telephone Companies only eleven days ahead, the interests opposed to the absorption of the Rochester Telephone Company and allied companies by the New York Telephone Company claim to-day that a sufficient amount of stock will be withheld to prevent the sale under the terms of the present agreement.

The requirement that there must be deposited by April 14 at least 65 per cent. of the stock of the Rochester Telephone Company, and that the offer could not be divided—all or none of the companies would be bought—makes the prediction absolutely safe, the insurgents declare, that the sale will not be consummated under these conditions.

More than 35 per cent. of the common stock was owned or controlled at the start by the Buffalo Consolidated Company of Buffalo, and the holdings have been increased gradually each day since the campaign started.

CHICAGO ELECTION TO-DAY.

Precautions Taken Against Fraud at the Polls—Students to Help Merriam.

CHICAGO, April 3.—Extraordinary precautions will be taken to prevent fraud to-morrow at the municipal election, at which a Mayor will be chosen. Charges of fraudulent registration, especially in the downtown wards, resulted to-day in issuance of special orders by the Election Boards and the Police Department to safeguard the polling places and to make arrests where suspicions of repeating are aroused.

Chief of Police Steward ordered every policeman to report for duty to-morrow. He assigned one policeman to each of the 1,324 precincts. The Election Commission to-night appointed 200 watchers to be detailed in the downtown wards. Each of the leading candidates, Carter H. Harrison, Democrat, and Charles E. Merriam, Republican, has arranged for watchers in each precinct.

In support of Prof. Merriam most of the students of the University of Chicago will spend the day either at polling places or aiding to get out a large vote.

Mrs. Francois Millet Here on Visit.

Mrs. Francois Millet, wife of Millet, the artist, whose father painted "The Angelus," arrived yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. Mrs. Millet, who was Miss Geraldine Reid of this city, visits her native city every two years.

THE FAKERS' SOCIETY HAS A RIOT IN ART

Their Twentieth Exhibition, Opening To-day, to be Notable for Its Monumental Shams.

THREE DAYS OF FUNMAKING

Hope to Make Enough Money by "Doing the Well-to-Do" to Provide Twenty Scholarships.

The Society of American Fakers, who in private life are the members of the Art Students' League of New York, will open their twentieth anniversary celebration this afternoon at 215 West Fifty-seventh Street in the form of a mild riot, which, with an exhibition, a vaudeville bill, and a series of side shows, is to end on Friday evening with a crash in the form of a costume ball. Last night was a sort of artists' night, when the privileged few were admitted to witness the final preparations, conducted amid hoarsely shouted directions, much hammering, and gales of laughter.

The proceeds of the show, made up of admission money and the receipts of all the sales, will go to a fund for scholarships, which are distributed among deserving students who otherwise would be unable to continue their studies, so that underlying the mirthful demonstrations is a serious purpose.

"We do those who are well-to-do in order to do for those who are unable to do for themselves," was the announcement printed in the circular.

It all started twenty years ago, when the students burlesqued some of the paintings in the National Academy's exhibition, and then sold the burlesques to pay for a couple of scholarships. The custom has never been dropped, and it is hoped that this year's proceeds will provide twenty scholarships, in honor of the anniversary number.

These burlesques still remain the features of the gala season, and while the Academy's exhibition is drawing crowds on the ground floor of the Fine Arts Building, a little room upstairs is devoted to the most irreverent treatment of some of the pictures. Irreverence is encouraged by a series of prizes, and these have already been awarded for this year's "fakes."

Down below is George Bellows's striking picture, "New York," with its throng of hurrying people against a background of tall buildings. Sidney Dickinson carried off first prize with "New York vs. Milwaukee," with a fairly close parody of the original enhanced by two giant hands, one holding a glass and the other a bottle of beer—ever so symbolical, the students said last night.

Even more irreverent is Mrs. A. Fleisher, who had the time of her life reproducing Pearson's "Grouped Geese" and substituting the heads of some of the art instructors. What purports to be the likeness of William Chase looks down benevolently from atop a long feathery neck, and he is accompanied, among others, by Frank Y. Dumont and Thomas Fogarty, both of whom were judges and gaily awarded to this fake the second prize.

Fausos's "Portrait of a Young Lady" carries off third prize when distorted by F. C. Wood into a "Portrait of a Loidy," whose florid countenance in plaster projects from the canvas, and whose muff is a dismal wad of cotton batting, that looks for all the world as though it had been thrown at the picture.

These art treasures, including the worst fake, awarded the consolation prize, a can and a mince pie, and the collection of posters for the exhibition, will be auctioned off on Thursday evening for the scholarship fund. Art collectors with a sense of humor often pay large sums for them. The poster prizes were won by Vincent Lynch, Elmer Taflinger, and J. O. Todhal.

The lunchroom has been furbished into a Turkish room, with many little booths, in which you can have your fortune told or purchase art trifles. Turkish rugs, real ones contributed for the occasion, will adorn the walls, and the girls of the league in real harem skirts will wait on the customers.

Nearby uncouth sounds will direct your footsteps to the vaudeville show given by the students themselves to their own amusement, while a home talent orchestra does its work manfully in front of the curtain. A semi-dress rehearsal was on in full force last night before half an audience made up of students, the woman who has cooked for them for many years, and a few of the vaudeville artists themselves, some of them shivering in skin tights.

Many whispered announcements and gruff directions heralded the appearance of the Pink Lady. Finally, to lugubrious music, the bunting curtain was persuaded to draw aside and reveal him, disguised thinly as a fair Amazon, trying hard to look feminine and resenting bitterly the caustic comment from the wings. "She" was all in black.

"Why do they call her the Pink Lady?" asked a stentorian voice from somewhere. There was no answer, and the question was repeated. Then, amid unrivaled excitement from the audience, the swishing black dress was lifted above the ankle and you saw just why "she" was called the Pink Lady.

There will be also burlesques of Ruth St. Denis by one of the boys and a prize-fight, in which a pseudo Jack Johnson is annihilated by the White Hope.

In the catalogue the Fakirs print with a perfectly straight face "a few of the thousands of letters and telegrams that have poured in on us congratulating us on our twentieth anniversary." Here are some of them:

Washington, D. C,

I would write you Fakirs a nice long message for this auspicious occasion, but I must hurry out now to play a game of golf with my old friend, Johnny Rockefeller, winner to decide whether the Tariff on Works of Art goes up or down. I'm glad you are in Turkey this year. I rather like Turks—they are all fat.

WM. H. TAFT.

By the President, PHILANDER KNOX, Secretary of State.

Blue Point, L. I.,
(formerly Oyster Bay.)

DE-E-lighted! Bully! Tickled to Death over your twenty years of active service. As I get one dollar a word for my writing, this telegram will cost you forty-one dollars besides the collection charges.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

City Hall.

Dear Fakirs: I wish to congratulate you on your twentieth birthday. I am sorry I can't be with you, but Charley Murphy won't let me go. So you see, dear friends, tho I am a Gaynor, I am still a loser. Isn't that a funny joke for a nice old man? If you see Willy Hurst tell him I should like to speak harshly to him. You may use this letter as an advertisement like all the theatres do with my epistles. Yours in haste.

WILLIAM J. GAYNOR, (Mayor.)

NEW STEEL BUSINESS.

U. S. Corporation Finds Buyers Hesitating, Owing to Anti-Trust Litigation.

New business coming to the United States Steel Corporation during March averaged 35,000 tons a day, according to figures made public yesterday. This tonnage, while about 5,000 tons a day smaller than that of February, was apparently somewhat better than the high officials of the corporation had expected. In the morning it was said at the offices of the corporation that the new business averaged for March would figure out about 30,000 tons a day. It was at 30,000 tons a day that the tonnage figures were sent out over the news tickers and generally accepted by Wall Street. Later in the day, when the returns were complete a correction was made putting the tonnage at the higher figure. Last month when Judge Elbert H. Gary returned from his vacation in the South, he estimated the new tonnage of February at from 35,000 to 40,000 tons a day. The exact figure proved to be 40,775 tons.

The poor showing made last month is attributed in large measure to hesitancy among buyers because of the impending anti-trust decisions. New bookings are not believed to have been equal to the rate of production during March, which was heavy, and it is expected in the trade that the tonnage of unfilled orders as of March 31, which will be made public next week, will show a small falling off.

KILLED BY SUBWAY TRAIN.

Martin Schriber Leaned Too Far from the Platform to Witness Its Approach.

Martin Schriber, aged 24 years, of 372 East Seventy-sixth Street, while leaning from the platform of the Bowling Green Subway station, last night, was struck by a Brooklyn express train in charge of Josh Holcumb, receiving injuries from which he died.

The police say that Schriber, accompanied by a friend named Thomas Rollar, living at the same address, was watching for the approach of the train. The force of the blow hurled him to the track. The motorman, in order to avoid running over him, reversed the power so abruptly that the passengers received a severe shock.

Schriber was taken to the Hudson Street Hospital. He died soon afterward. The motorman was arrested.

SMALLPOX DELAYS WEDDINGS

Five Prospective Bridegrooms Waiting for Passengers Held on the Verona.

PHILADELPHIA, April 3.—The eight hundred persons who arrived here yesterday on the Italian steamship Verona from Genoa and Naples via New York are still detained on board the vessel to-day, because of the outbreak of smallpox among the passengers.

One patient was removed from the ship at New York, and after the vessel was fumigated it left for this port, and yesterday a woman and her child who had developed the disease were taken from the steamer at Quarantine, below this city.

Among the hundreds of persons on the pier waiting for the release of the passenger are five prospective bridegrooms.

THE ELEPHANT SCRUBBED.

Some Rest Day Exercises Among the Animals at the Circus.

Yesterday was a holiday for the circus folk in Madison Square Garden. Out of respect for the memory of Otto Ringling, whose funeral was held yesterday, no performances were given in the afternoon or evening, and the day was devoted to improving and polishing up the arena.

It was below stairs in the animals' quarters that the day of rest was most appreciated, though. Circus animals, one old attendant told a visitor, seem to develop an instinct which tells them the days on which there are to be no performances. On these days they lose the air of suppressed excitement under which they ordinarily labor, and relax to get all the good they can from their day of rest.

One of the elephants was getting a little scrub yesterday. As the visitor came up the elephant turned over on his back in answer to a smack on the side from the keeper, and lay there with his legs curled up, much like a gigantic puppy. The keeper mounted the vast stomach, scrubbing brush in hand, and scrubbed away with might and main, the elephant lying patiently meanwhile, with eyes half-shut, like a weary man in a barber's chair.

The hippopotamus had taken the day for a good long soak in the tank, which he never enters when there are spectators about. The lions and tigers were lying, fast asleep, in their cages, as if preparing for the long days and nights of jolting over country roads which are in store for them.

There was only one animal ill at ease, and that was the chimpanzee, which has pneumonia. His cough could be heard through the glass front of his cage, and the steam heater of his room was going full blast to keep up the temperature. Even with this the sufferer was evidently cold, for he kept pulling up the blanket with which he was covered to keep out wandering draughts.

The chimpanzee's illness is all the more regrettable, as the visitor's escort carefully explained, on account of his interesting history. A year or so ago the circus was in Western Pennsylvania, when the head of the menagerie heard that a retired missionary had a chimpanzee he wished to dispose of, fearing that he could not properly care for it through the rigors of an American Winter. The circus man went to the missionary's home and found the monkey rolling a hoop with the clergyman's children, with whom he had played ever since the missionary bought him from a native of the jungle when only a few months old.

HOFFMAN HOUSE HAS NEW LEASE OF LIFE

ODD GUESTS ARE RELIEVED

Gen. Stahl, However, Had Gone Elsewhere After 40 Years and Wrathfully Refused to Return.

Announcement was made at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon that the Hoffman House, Twenty-fifth Street and Broadway, would not close its doors at midnight, according to the orders of Frederick Laughlin, the receiver, issued last Friday, but will hereafter be operated by Alexander Macdonald, as manager for the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, acting trustees of the Francis S. Kinney estate.

After conferences with the creditors, which lasted all day, in the offices of the receiver, 165 Broadway, it was decided that the famous hotel should be kept open, and word was sent immediately to John W. Peacock, the veteran chief clerk, to notify the guests. It was too late, however, as nearly all had departed for other quarters in the city. Anthony N. Brady was one who remained. But it was also too late for Mr. Peacock, known familiarly to the old-time guests as the "Colonel," for he had just returned from the Hotel Ansonia, at seventy-seventh Street and Broadway, having accepted an engagement there as room clerk with W. E. P. Stokes, cousin of the late R. S. Stokes, the man who engaged him for the Hoffman House twenty-eight years ago.

All the electric lights were turned on in full blaze to celebrate the event, and Peter Quillan, the head porter, who has been thirty-three years in the house, unpacked the various properties connected with his office and smiled joyfully. Telephone messages were sent to the guests who had left, and many of them came back last night, while others promised to return to-day. Col. William F. Cody, who has been staying at the Hoffman House for more than a quarter of a century, had gone over to the Waldorf-Astoria and may not come back to his old haunt before he goes to Washington to join the Wild West show which opens there on April 17. Gen. Julius H. Stahl, who had been a guest at the hotel for the last forty years, according to Col. Peacock, had taken an apartment at the Arlington Hotel. He felt hurt that he had been compelled to move and at not being told that the house would be kept open, and said that he would not return. In spite of this, however, he is expected to occupy his old quarters before the week is out.

Mr. Peacock said he was sorry to leave the old house and regretted his hasty engagement with Mr. Stokes.

Mr. Macdonald, the new manager of the Hoffman House, has been manager of the Hotel Albemarle, which adjoins, and has also been on the Francis Kinney estate for fifteen years. He will retain his position at the Albemarle and will operate the hotels separately. So far as he knew at present, he said, the old employes would remain. He had not fixed upon any plans for changes in the management. Asked what was going to be done about the part of the building in Twenty-fifth Street, which belonged to Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry, he said that no decision had been reached.

CONVICT PREFERS PRISON.

Price, Who Grows Prize Lemons In Jail, Surrenders His Parole.

STILLWATER, Minn., April 3.—"Sindbad, the Sailor," whose real name is Charles Price, and who has been out of the Stillwater State Prison since Aug. 1, 1910, on parole, has voluntarily returned to the prison. He was sent here in 1898, having been convicted of murder in the second degree.

When he returned a few days ago on one of his regular visits he told the officers that he was afraid temptation would be too great for him and that he did not want to violate the conditions of his parole.

During the years he was in the prison he worked in the greenhouse and developed great skill in producing freak plants, and grew mammoth lemons by grafting grape fruit on lemon trees. One lemon measured 19½ inches in circumference.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Pressure continues abnormally low in the West and Southwest, and has fallen decidedly in the Lower Mississippi Valley. There are four distinct centres of disturbance, the principal one being near the mouth of the Rio Grande.

The western low area is trending eastward, and this will cause further rains in this direction during the next two days, but they will probably not reach New England before Wednesday morning.

Temperatures will continue generally low. Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate and variable, becoming east; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate and mostly northeast; South Atlantic Coast, moderate east.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate east winds, with fair weather, to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair north, increasing cloudiness in south portion Tuesday. Wednesday, rain or snow; moderate northeast to east winds.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—The break in the wheat market was again heavy, and there was no rallying power shown, prices declining all day, and final quotations were nearly at the low point, and at new low levels for the season. The weakness was evidently due to the weather and crop information. This was very favorable. The weather map showed seasonal rains west of the Mississippi over Sunday, heaviest in the Southwest, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas, and the storm extended northward into the Canadian Northwest. This rain was fairly heavy in portions of Western Kansas. The storm practically puts at rest any question of the supply of moisture for the seeding of the new Spring wheat crop or the next month's development in Winter wheat. The rains mean that whatever the Government's showing of crop condition next Monday is, the weather condition after April 1 has made for gain in the crop promise. World's exports were heavy, amounting to 13,144,000 bushels, against 14,400,000 bushels the previous week, and 11,782,000 bushels last year. American exports were 2,688,000 bushels. The shipments from the Pacific Coast were large. The amount on passage increased 1,016,000 bushels. The visible supply in the United States decreased 997,000 bushels. The decline in the market did not carry prices down to a point where any export business was reported in American wheat, although there were rumors of some business in Manitoba wheat. The selling in the future market late seemed to be by discouraged holders. The Chicago market is closed to-day on account of the municipal Spring election. Cash No. 2 was quoted at 92¼c, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.03¾; No. 2 hard Winter, 95¾c; No. 1 Manitoba, 96½c.

CORN.—The corn market was also weak, influenced by the decline in other grain. New low levels for the decline were reached, but the market rallied and closed at an advance on some deliveries, compared with the final of Saturday. The general rainstorm which was so favorable for wheat was unfavorable for corn, as it will delay the movement and affect the quality. The decline in corn prices carried the market, on May, to within ¼c of the low record on the crop. The visible supply of corn decreased 583,000 bushels for the week. World's exports were 3,868,000 bushels, against 3,450,000 bushels last week, and there was a decrease of 1,584,000 bushels afloat for Europe. Exporters reported twenty loads of corn at New York and outports. No. 2 was quoted at 52c, free on board; No. 3, 52¼c; steamer, 51¼c, and No. 4, 49c, in elevator, export rate.

OATS.—The oats market was weak, with new low levels for the season made early, owing to the favorable weather conditions for the new crop, both in the Northwest and in the Central West. Later there was some rally, the market closing steady. Cash oats were fairly steady, and there was a decrease of 633,000 bushels in the visible supply. Standard oats were quoted at 36c; No. 2 white, 36½c; No. 3 white, 35¼c.

PROVISIONS.—Provisions were very weak all day, with very persistent liquidation. New low records for the season were made, and final quotations were at about the low point. Live hogs were lower and in liberal supply at the stock yards, and there was a very liberal increase in stocks. The Chicago stock of lard increased 25,000 tcs for the month, ribs gained largely, while the total stock of meats increased 27,000,000 pounds, and was 51,000,000 pounds over last year. The world's stock of lard showed an increase of 49,000 tcs for the month, and was 98,000 tcs more than last year.

COTTONSEED OIL.

When the seven breaks in the lard market is taken into consideration, oil values displayed a remarkable degree of steadiness. There was quite general selling at the start, with liquidation by tired holders, and some bear pressure, but it was apparent that refining interests had good buying orders in the market. Crude oil advices were extremely scarce during the day, but toward the close it was said that 33½c. was bid and that it was offered in the Southeast at 39c. Compound demand is very slow, which is quite natural in view of the weakness prevailing in the pure article, and, on the whole, underlying conditions are not changed materially. Best buying of futures is in the way of short covering, although a little new long buying is observable, owing to the severity of the decline. Future prices follow:

COTTON.

But little animation was displayed yesterday, and price changes were inconsequential. There was an absence of aggressiveness noted on both sides, while nervousness as to the decisions to be rendered by the Supreme Court in connection with the trust cases resulted in a general indisposition toward extending commitments.

At the start prices were a few points higher, owing to relatively steady Liverpool cables, with the foreign market favorably affected by a continued good Continental demand for new crop months, which has been in evidence for the past week. The failure of an importing cotton firm at Bremen was without important effect in foreign circles. Some operators, who have recently been antagonizing the bull side, were disposed to cover early, possibly influenced by the aggressiveness shown by prominent holders on Saturday, but when it became apparent that such tactics were conspicuous by their absence confidence seemed to be restored in the ranks of many bears, although their attitude was still a cautious one.

The announcement of a reduction in dividends by the H. B. Claflin Company from a basis of 9 per cent. to 6 per cent. per annum had considerable effect in the afternoon, and subsequent comment accompanying the reduction, emphasizing the depression in the textile markets during the last year and nervousness as to what the changes in the tariff schedule would be, attracted attention. There were also some contradictory reports relative to the spot situation, and although the latter part of last week's reports were encouraging,

DECISIONS AGAIN GO OVER

News from Washington Was Awaited All Day—Reduction in H. B. Claflin Dividend.

Conditions on the Stock Exchange yesterday closely paralleled those of several preceding Mondays when decisions in the corporation cases were looked for. The suspense was more prolonged yesterday, however, owing to the fact that some of the Supreme Court's decisions in other cases were not handed down until the afternoon. The Stock Exchange had already closed before the news came from Washington that the long-looked-for decisions were not yet ready for announcement by the court.

The business which had been done during the day resulted in only slight net changes in prices, and for the most part among the active issues the movement one way or the other was expressed in small fractions. The Stock Exchange had spent another day in waiting, and incentive was lacking for any trading except of the most perfunctory sort. One or two decisions announced by the Supreme Court, including the decision in the Lehigh Valley "commodities clause" case, would have aroused more interest had it not been for the concentration of attention upon the possibility of decisions in the American Tobacco and Standard Oil cases, but neither the decisions which were handed down nor other matters which presented themselves for consideration were sufficiently important to overbear the general disposition to avoid entering upon any fresh commitments of importance in the stock market until the "anti-trust" cases, so called, have been handed down by the Supreme Court.

In announcing a reduction in the dividend on its common stock from 8 per cent. a year to 6 per cent., the H. B. Claflin Company gave as a reason for this reduction the belief on the part of its management that the unsatisfactory conditions in the primary textile markets were likely to last as long as tariff changes are in prospect. This announcement comes on the eve of the opening of the special session of Congress and serves as a reminder that the possibility of a general tariff discussion at this session is one of the things which, in addition to the impending decisions of the Supreme Court, have accounted for the waiting attitude which the markets have for some time past displayed.

In other directions yesterday's news contained little of importance bearing upon the financial markets. The banks again lost to the Sub-Treasury, but in smaller amount than at the opening of the previous week. Railroad reports submitted during the day made a mixed showing, the returns for the month of February in some instances revealing net gains, although the majority of the day's reports for that month showed losses in net.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Northwest Filling Up.

The influx of settlers into the Northwest, including Washington and Oregon, and particularly Montana, is breaking all previous records. Officials of the Great Northern road say the traffic is the heaviest the road has ever had. This movement has been under way in increasing volume for several years. As an indication of the rate at which Montana is filling up with settlers, a railroad official pointed yesterday to the fact that in the first three months of last year seventy-five steam or gasoline plowing outfits were shipped into Montana alone. One of these outfits is sufficient for a number of farms.

Plan to Finance Nicaragua.

Efforts to arrange for a reorganization of the Nicaraguan finances through the flotation of $15,000,000 bond issue are waiting on the action of the Senate upon the treaty governing a similar loan to Honduras. This treaty provides for the protection of the investors by the appointment of an American Collector General of Customs on the nomination of the underwriting bankers. The bankers consider this essential to the consummation of the Honduran loan. It was not acted upon at the regular session of Congress, and pending its acceptance by the Senate the bankers are not inclined to take up the Nicaraguan matter. Señor Castillo, the agent of the Nicaraguan Government, has approached several of the international banking firms with this result, and is now in Washington seeking to arrange a treaty similar to that affecting Honduras.

Woolen Stockholders Await Developments.

Opposition to the plan of the American Woolen Company to retire one-third of its outstanding common stock continues to grow, but so far no steps have been taken toward the formation of a protective committee. One of the leaders in the movement to fight the proposed expenditure of the company's funds for this purpose said yesterday that he was still waiting to hear from President Wood and would go no further in the formation of a protective committee until the President of the American Woolen Company had been heard from. The response to letters sent out by dissatisfied stockholders has been so general that the leaders in the opposition movement feel that they have the backing of a preponderating amount of the stock outside of the shares held by the officials of the company themselves. Although President Wood will not take up the question officially until he comes back from the Pacific Coast, it was said yesterday by those who were in touch with American Woolen affairs that he has privately given expression to an entire openmindedness on the question, and it was hinted that should he be satisfied that his idea is displeasing to the majority of the stockholders he would stand ready, with some of his associates, to take over from the company the common shares purchased in anticipation of their cancellation.

Incorporations Fall Off.

One of the signs of hesitation in business which many lay almost entirely to the uncertainty over the decisions in the anti-trust suits and the unsettlement of the tariff question is the decrease in the number of incorporations in this part of the country in the last few months. According to the compilation made by The Journal of Commerce, papers filed in the Eastern States during March chartering companies whose capitalization is $1,000,000 or more represented a total of $139,910,000. This is a decrease of $32,490,000 from the figures of February and a falling off of $222,749,600 by comparison with March of last year. In March, 1909, however, incorporations aggregated only $50,250,000. Counting in the companies whose individual capital was $100,000 or more, and including the incorporations of other States than those of the East, the grand total of March incorporations is swelled to $228,518,000, compared with $237,328,000 in February and $478,716,040 in March, 1910.

European stocks actually decreased 2,015 tons in the interim following the previous report, but supplies afloat increased 1,525 tons, making the net decrease in the visible supply for the period 490 tons.

SETTLING WABASH DISPUTE.

Pittsburg Terminal Bondholders Feel More Hopeful Since Gould Testified.

The prospect of a settlement out of court of the numerous suits brought in behalf of the Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal bondholders were regarded yesterday as more favorable by representatives of the bondholders as a result of the examination of George J. Gould on the witness stand last week in the suit of the Central Trust Company for the foreclosure of the Wheeling & Lake Erie mortgage. The report, however, that Mr. Gould had made a definite offer looking to the settlement of the suit in which he was called as a witness as well as of other suits growing out of the default of the Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal was denied yesterday. He has made no such offer, one of the counsel in these many suits said.

Many conferences between the Gould interests and the Wabash bondholders have been held since Mr. Gould testified, and as these conferences are again under way bondholders hope that the affairs of the Pittsburg-Terminal may be adjusted without the necessity of pushing the many suits already begun.

Midvale Steel Profits Increase.

The annual report of the Midvale Steel Company for the year ended Oct. 31, 1910, shows net profits of $1,311,181, an increase of $755,884 over those of the previous year. The balance sheet shows assets of $15,242,119, of which $10,688,534 is carried as property, $2,818,414 as inventories, and $1,000,000 as accounts receivable. Bills receivable amount to $81,582 and cash in banks and on hand $383,893. The surplus account is $3,605,120.

More Agricultural Capital.

Stockholders of the International Agricultural Corporation have been called to vote at a special meeting April 18 on a proposed increase in the capital stock from $24,000,000 to $36,000,000. Of the $12,000,000 new stock $6,000,000 will be preferred and the other $6,000,000 common stock.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 3.—Trading in the local market was quiet, traders appearing to be willing to await announcement of Supreme Court decisions before committing themselves to any great extent. Indians lost nearly a point, but the balance of the list showed little change. The close was steady.

NO MO. PACIFIC HEAD YET.

Reports Denied That John F. Stevens or Benj. F. Bush Have Been Selected.

The resignation of John F. Stevens as President of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railroad has given rise to speculation as to whether he is likely to succeed to the vacant Presidency of the Missouri Pacific. It was learned yesterday that the committee which has in charge the filling of this place has reached no definite conclusion.

Mr. Stevens's friends say that his retirement is due simply to a desire to be relieved of the burdens of railway management for the time being, and that he is not likely soon to plunge again into active work, such as the reorganization of the Missouri Pacific administration would involve.

Benjamin F. Bush, President of the Western Maryland, was again mentioned yesterday as the possible successor of George J. Gould as President of the Missouri Pacific. It could not be learned, however, that there is any more probability of his choice now than at the time his name was first mentioned a week or more ago when it was said that it was not at all probable that the committee charged with the choice of a man for the place would agree on Mr. Bush.

The bonds are secured by a closed underlying first mortgage on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway Company's terminal properties in Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., and are a direct obligation of the latter Company, as the Superior Short Line Railway Company was merged in the parent company in 1895 and the bonds were assumed.

The Chicago and Northwestern and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway Systems both obtain their sole entrance into the great traffic centers of the above cities, over the terminal property covered by these First Mortgage 5% Bonds. Practically all the Lake Superior traffic of both roads passes through these terminals.

Application will be made to list the bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Having already sold a majority of these bonds, we offer the balance, subject to prior sale and change in price, at

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Sales Indicate an Active Building Movement East of Times Square—Resales in Midtown Loft Zone—Investors Buying Tenement House Property—Big Mortgages Placed.

That an active building movement seems imminent for Forty-second Street in the blocks immediately to the east of Times Square was revealed yesterday by the rumor that negotiations are under way for the sale of the McDonald estate plot at 37 to 41 West Forty-second Street, just west of the West Presbyterian Church, which was sold last week for $1,100,000, and on the site of which a sixteen-story building for the Aeolian Company is to be erected. The McDonald estate plot has a frontage on Forty-second Street of 52 feet and runs through to 49 and 48 West Forty-third Street, being 200 feet deep. It has been held at $700,000, and adjoins on the west the old Harmonie Club property owned by the Gerry estate. Winans & May, the agents of the McDonald property, denied that a sale had been made, but it was admitted that negotiations had been in progress. If the deal goes through, it is understood that a high-class commercial structure will be erected on the site.

Another interesting deal in the Forty-second Street locality was made by Pease & Elliman, who sold for the James O. Sheldon estate the four-story brownstone house at 12 East Fortieth Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues. The buyer is the Oriental rug firm of Costikyan & Co. The old house is to be torn down, and the firm will erect for their exclusive occupancy a six-story structure. The plot has a frontage of 26.6 feet on the street and is 100 feet deep. It is within a few feet of the old Hyde mansion on the Madison Avenue corner, which has been converted into the new Anderson art gallery and salesroom, and adjoining. Fortieth Street plot a twelve-story business building is to be erected.

Seventh Avenue Sale Near Park.

An important Seventh Avenue sale just below Fifty-ninth Street has been made by Slawson & Hobbs, involving the southeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, occupied by old three, four, and five story buildings. It was sold for Mary C. O'Brien to John May and Patrick J. Finn. The plot has a frontage on the avenue of 75 feet and is 100 feet deep. Slawson & Hobbs will manage the property.

Resale in Midtown Loft Zone.

Another quick resale in the midtown loft zone was recorded yesterday when William A. White & Sons resold for I. Randolph Jacobs 19 East Thirty-second Street. The building, which is a five-story structure, occupies a plot 25 by 98.9, adjoining the northwest corner of Madison Avenue. This parcel, together with 160 Madison Avenue, was purchased last Thursday by Mr. Jacobs from Bing & Bing. The buyer is reported to be the corporation known as Holworthy Chambers, which owns the adjoining property, 152 to 156 Madison Avenue, northwest corner of Thirty-second Street. With this purchase the corporation would control a plot fronting 49.4 feet on the avenue and 120 feet on the street.

Another sale of a 50-foot plot on the same block is reported pending.

57th St. Houses Bought for Apartment

I. Randolph Jacobs has purchased from Mrs. Elizabeth J. Bennett the three-story and basement dwelling at 320 West Eighty-seventh Street, on plot 20 by 100, through George Ranger. This, together with 316 and 318, purchased by Mr. Jacobs last week, gives him a plot 60 by 100, which will be resold to a builder for improvement. The site is likely to be used for an apartment house, which will be the first apartment-house improvement in the block. Three houses in Eighty-sixth Street, between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues, were sold last week for apartment house improvement.

Murray Hill House Sold.

The large modern four-story residence in the Murray Hill section at 116 East Thirty-sixth Street has been sold by Pease & Elliman for Mrs. Polka M. Wilkens to a client for occupancy. The house has a dining room extension and occupies a plot 25 by 98.9. It has been held at $90,000, and the present sale is the first time it has changed hands for thirty-five years.

Private Dwellings in Demand.

The private dwelling market proved active yesterday, there being a good demand for high-class dwellings on the upper west side. Slawson & Hobbs sold for N. & L. Ottinger 134 West Seventy-eighth Street, a four-story brownstone high-stoop dwelling, 18 by 55 by 97.6, to a client for occupancy.

Resale of Seventh Avenue Corner.

The Hennessy Realty Company has purchased from Max Beck the five-story building at the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and 121st Street, on a lot 26 by 92. Max M. Nathanson resold the parcel to M. R. Stang.

This is the third parcel in the row of five houses, occupying the block front on the east side of the avenue from 145th to 146th Street, which the same broker has sold to Mr. Buckman within one year. The consideration in the present deal was $85,000.

The vacant plot, 50 by 95, on the north side of 171st Street, 125 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue, has been sold for Frank E. Knox by Shaffner & Anderson. The buyer is a builder, who will improve the site with an apartment house.

LIABILITY BILL PASSED IN JERSEY

One Reform Measure Which Gov. Wilson Wanted Reaches Him at Last.

GERAN BILL HEARING TO-DAY

George L. Record to Speak for the Election Reform Measure—Move to Cut Canal Freight Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 3.—Senator Edge's 'Employes' Compensation bill, a liability measure, was passed by the Assembly to-night after speeches in its favor had been made by Mr. Egan, Mr. Matthews, the Democratic leader; Mr. McCran, the Republican leader, and others. This measure was immediately sent to the Governor, it being one of the reform bills in which he is especially interested.

The Adams bill, extending railroad passes to a number of State officials who now pay carfare, was lost by a vote of 22 to 23.

Capt. W. W. Clark of New York has stirred up the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and others with his bill to cut freight rates from 35 cents to 10 cents a ton on the Delaware and Raritan Canal between New Brunswick and Bordentown. The bill was introduced in the Assembly by Mr. Donelly of Hudson, and was reported to-night.

The Pennsylvania Railroad leased the canal, and its officials are opposing the cut in rates provided for in the bill, holding that it is unreasonable to ask such reductions. Capt. Clark contends that the rate is not unreasonable. He charges that the railroad is throttling canal traffic in order to divert freight to the steam line. Shippers along the canal are urging the enactment of the bill.

Several important hearings will be held here to-morrow. The Republican Senate majority has arranged a hearing on the Geran election reform bill, backed by the Governor, and recently passed in the House. George L. Record and John J. Tracey will be among the speakers for the bill, and the opposition, which comes principally from the Republican and Democratic machines, will be led by ex-Gov. John W. Griggs. Another hearing in the Senate will be on the Bracken Automobile Reciprocity bill, recently passed in the Assembly.

MAY HAVE DIED OF BEATING.

Police Investigating Death of Theatrical Man Supposed to Have Had Grip.

Ernest K. Martin, a theatrical advance agent, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital. His skull had been fractured, although when he was taken to the hospital on Sunday it was supposed that he was suffering from alcoholism. The police have begun an investigation of Martin's death, believing that he died as the result of a beating.

The suspicions of the police were aroused by two telephone messages from a Mrs. Katherine Hammond of 3,136 Broadway, who telephoned first on Sunday to the Broadway Central Hotel, where Martin had stopped since March 10. She was told that he was very ill, and supposed to be suffering from alcoholism. Mrs. Hammond declared instantly that Martin was a man who never drank, and that he could not be suffering from a too great quantity of liquor. Yesterday she telephoned again, and, learning that he was dead, became greatly excited, declaring that before an inquiry into the manner of his death was dropped several men well known in the city would be implicated. Last night Mrs. Hammond refused to see reporters.

Martin complained of feeling ill last Wednesday, and a physician summoned by the hotel people said he had grip. On Sunday he was much worse, and Dr. Bigelow of St. Vincent's Hospital, diagnosing his case as alcoholism, sent him to Bellevue. There his true injury was discovered yesterday, just before he died.

Martin was 42 years old, and was born in Memphis, Tenn. He was formerly advance agent for Adelaide Thurston.

CAUGHT PRYING OUT OF JAIL.

Jersey City Prisoner Had One Brick Loose When Discovered.

Keeper Fred Rittenhouse of the Hudson County Jail caught Harris Goldstein, a prisoner, trying to pry the mortar from between the bricks in the rear wall of the jail yesterday morning. He had nearly got one brick loose when the keeper discovered him. He was at work in the washroom, apparently thinking that the keeper was asleep. Goldstein was not locked in his cell, as he has been ill recently, and so had the freedom of the corrido'.

It is believed that Goldstein planned his attempt to escape for early yesterday morning because of the fact that later in the day he was to be transferred to the penitentiary in Trenton to serve a five-year term for burglarizing a store in Hoboken last November.

Goldstein had a putty knife for a tool, and, according to Rittenhouse, it was one sometimes used by the keepers, which Goldstein had abstracted from a desk in the corridor. He was transferred to Trenton.

NOT MURDER RELICS.

Medical Examination Proves the Coroner's Suspicions Groundless.

A medical examination satisfied the police yesterday that the hand and foot found in a cigar box in the doorway of a vacant store in East 125th Street were not evidence of a murder like the Guldensuppe case, but probably specimens put there as a joke by some medical student.

It was found that the foot evidently had belonged to the body of a much larger person than had the hand, also that the arteries had been filled with a preservative such as medical students employ.

ABUSES THE CONSTITUTION.

Socialist Speaker Also Calls Its Framers "Grafters."

Protests on three absorbing questions, involving vigorous criticism of capitalists, the Judiciary, and the President of the United States, kept some 3,000 Socialists assembled in mass meeting in Cooper Union, as well as an overflow meeting extending to the sidewalks and addressed by special speakers, in constant applause last night. The presence of the National troops on the Mexican border, though the question furthest from home, seemed to arouse more interest than the question of negligence in the Washington Place fire. Resolutions voicing the protests expressed were read and approved. A collection for the fire survivors was also taken.

Morris Hillquit, Chairman, reviewed the three questions, the placing of the guilt for the fire catastrophe, the immediate passage of an adequate workmen's accident compensation law in place of the measure declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals a few weeks ago, and the withdrawal of troops from the Mexican border. All of these, he said, were related, because each of them entailed a sacrifice of human lives.

"Our troops in Mexico," said Mr. Hillquit, "are mercenaries in the pay of a foreign Government, sent there by the order of a gang of Wall Street freebooters, and we, the workers, warn the Government that we will not stand for this insult to our Government."

Joshua Wanhope, recently Socialist candidate for Governor, denounced all the politicians who now say that the factory fire conditions will be investigated as "liars and hypocrites."

Meyer London, speaking on the killing of the Workmen's Compensation act, lamented that we were governed by a written constitution which would not permit of remedies which in other countries have been molded into laws long ago.

"The law by which we are now governed," he said, "must be looked for in the grave. The framers of the Constitution of 1787 were farmers, and they are now dead farmers."

"Were they grafters?" shouted someone in the audience.

"Yes, they were grafters," said the speaker, and he emphasized it strongly. "The Constitution is a piece of paper with something scribbled on it, and this we must worship. It is a compact with hell, because it upholds chattel slavery among us, the people of the land."

When Miss Leonora O'Reilly, who led the last Shirtwaist Union strike, was introduced to depict all over again the fire tragedy, it was already late in the evening, and the crowd began to dwindle. So fierce and absorbing had been the denunciation of the other questions that this one received the smallest attention.

"Universal peace," declared the speaker, "is impossible unless we have reorganization on the basis of justice as against organization on the basis of exploitation."

FRAGRANT CUSTOM HOUSE.

$15,000 Worth of Stolen Perfumery Held on Suspicion It Was Smuggled.

The office of Surveyor Henry in the Custom House was filled yesterday with perfumery in bottles of all sizes and descriptions. Some $15,000 worth of the stuff had been seized in a storage warehouse in lower Seventh Avenue. The goods had been stolen from Park & Tilford's depot, 141 Fifth Avenue, and after their recovery were brought to the Custom House to determine whether they had been smuggled.

This is the outcome of a plot whereby the importers lost $30,000 worth of perfumes, through a clerk who has since gone to Germany. M. H. Aschner, the detective who solved the problem of how the stealing was done, told Surveyor Henry yesterday that he had traced some perfumery which was found to have been bought cheaper than should have been profitable, to a shop in Broadway, Brooklyn. Posing as a customer he bought $95 worth of jewelry there, and so won the confidence of the shop keeper. The latter confided to him that he obtained the perfumery from a boy who tended a soda water fountain in Broad Street.

The boy was questioned and said that he got the perfumery from a Curb broker. The broker was taken to the Custom House and under a fire of questions said he had procured it from his uncle in Harlem. This man was taken to the Custom House and questioned. The result was the arrest of Percy Shields, a druggist of 228 West Eighteenth Street. It was Shields who accused of theft the missing employe of the firm.

NOT DAVIS ALONE GOT COUNTY FUNDS

Collector Egan Admits "Personal Loans" to Court House Commissioners.

LOANS ALSO TO ARCHITECT

Mr. Roberts, the Architect, in Tears on Stand — Commissioner Clements Laughs and Says He Needed Money.

Before Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze in Jersey City, where the inquiry into the cost of the new Hudson County Court House was continued yesterday, it was developed that County Collector Stephen M. Egan not only loaned county money aggregating about $100,000 to the late Robert Davis, Democratic leader of Hudson County, but to other persons.

Mr. Egan admitted making the loans, and described them as "personal loans" or "accommodation money." Hugh Roberts, architect, who drew the plans for the new Court House, and Court House Commissioners William E. Smith and Alexander J. Clements were also witnesses. When Mr. Roberts concluded his testimony he cried like a baby. Mr. Roberts appeared to be in the best of spirits until District Court Justice Charles L. Carrick, Chairman of the Investigating Committee, asked him this question:

"Mr. Roberts, did you ever give any money to either of the Court House Commissioners, the late Robert Davis, or any other person?"

"No, Sir," was his reply, but the question seemed to distress him deeply, and reaching for his grip that contained all his personal accounts he sobbed.

When County Collector Egan was in the witness chair he identified many checks drawn by him to the order of Commissioners Clements and Smith, Court House Custodian Maurice J. Stack, Harry A. Crane, a contractor; Architect Hugh Roberts, and himself. These ranged in amounts from $150 to $20,000, and aggregated in the neighborhood of $250,000. According to Mr. Egan, they all represented "personal loans."

A matter that was referred to Mr. Egan, and occasioned much surprise, was the purchase of a book of plank engraved bonds, 400 pages, at a cost of $1,675, and which Mr. Cameron, an expert for the investigators, testified could be purchased for $250 or $300. Mr. Egan admitted the purchase of the book from the Union Printing Company by the Court House Commissioners, but couldn't explain why the excessive bill had been paid. Commissioners Clements and Smith put the blame for the purchase of this book upon the Hudson County Board of Freeholders.

When Mr. Roberts was on the stand he had to admit that many parts of the building were constructed of painted wood and not bronze.

Commissioner Clements didn't seem to take the examination by Counsel McCarter seriously. He was asked by Mr. McCarter concerning "loans" made to him by County Collector Egan. He said he got the money because he needed it. "Is that it, Sandy?" asked McCarter facetiously.

"That's the stuff, Bob," replied Clements, and Justice Swayze and the spectators laughed. Clements admitted having ordered paid to John Gill & Sons for furnishings in the Court House $297,000 against the advice of counsel and explained he did so because he thought they were entitled to their money.

Mr. Clements was shown bills for supplies furnished by his friend, W. D. Bindewald, a merchant, including lawn mowers furnished in the month of November.

"What did you need lawn mowers in November for?" asked Mr. McCarter.

"Maybe to cut the grass in the Court House," answered Clements, winking at the spectators.

"What kind of a merchant was Bindewald?" asked Mr. McCarter.

"Would we call him lawyer, rich man, merchant, beggarman, thief?" asked Clements and again the crowd laughed.

In explaining an extra order for 70-odd brass cuspidors Clements said they were needed and "1,000 could be used if you stood in the corridors and saw how everybody missed them."

Adjournment was taken until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.
